SHUBERT-SHAKESPERIANS HEAR THREE PROMINENT SPEAKERS DURING MONTH OF FEBRUARY

The Shubert-Shakespearean Club, under the leadership of Mrs. C. T. Jordan, has recently had three prominent guest speakers to address its organization.

C. C. Spaulding, president of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company, and a member of the Durham County Draft Board, discussed government regulations concerning the selection of draftees and how such restrictions could in no way admit of any unfair practices as suspected by some people. He also spoke of the precision which the Federal Government judges its board members although their duties are performed without stipend.

Professor L. K. Knox, head of the department of chemistry at the North Carolina College for Negroes, discussed the "Importance of Vital Materials in the War Effort." In his discussion of the several uses of coal, iron and petroleum, he stated that scientists have been criticized which he showed to be unfair since many things would have been on the market had not capitalists purchased patterns and prevented the products from appearing.

Dean J. T. Haylor, also of the North Carolina College for Negroes, discussed "The War and the Negro." Dean Taylor declared that "the Negro is first of all an American citizen who has been brought up on the same Constitution and Bill of Rights as any other American citizen. The Negro is also steeped in the history of the palaxy of American heroes and his heart thrills too when "The Star Spangled Banner" is played." Dean Taylor further stated that the Negro is insisting that he be allowed to fight in order to protect the country because he recognizes the fact that any enemy of the country is an enemy of his and he is willing to fight on the side of individual liberty against totalitarianism.

The regular meeting, formerly set for Tuesday of this week, will be suspended until the following Tuesday, March 2, at the home of Mrs. C. T. Jordan, 1801 Fayetteville Street.

MORE ABOUT RATIONING

When sugar ration stamp No. 12 becomes valid on March 16 it may be used to purchase a five-pound sack or box of sugar, the Office of Price Administration announced last week.

The five-pound ration must last for a period of eleven weeks—from March 16 through the end of May. Stamp 11 is good for three pounds from February 1 to March 15.

Although buying sugar in larger quantities may make it easier for housewives to plan the use of their sugar, they are cautioned against under estimating the length of the period for which it must last. It might be well, OPA suggested, to spend only one family sugar ration stamp at a time, and spread buying power over the entire two and one-half months' period. This would avoid running a risk of using up the entire family sugar allowance before the next stamp becomes valid on June 1.

OPA rationing officials explained that the reason for valuations of sugar is twofold. It will save manpower—not only in packaging the sugar, but by nearly one-half the actual number of packages that processors, wholesalers, retailers and customers must handle and at the same time reduce the number of times sugar must be bought at retail.

It is expected that this change will prevent some of the waste now involved in repacking in the present small package sizes. It saves time for all.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR MEAT GO FURTHER

Meat Cut	First Meal	Second Meal	Third Meal

Nutrition authorities say that Mrs. American Housewife's job of feeding her family is one of the most important in the war effort. For nourishing food is going a long way toward building strength and morale on the home front.

At the same time, women are being called upon to conserve food as a wartime necessity. This means they must use every ingenuity to eliminate waste and get the most out of the food they buy.

How to make their meat go further seems to be a subject of especial interest, since building meals around this food is an American tradition. So some economics experts have come to the rescue with all sorts of ideas and recipes designed to extend the meat purchase as far as possible.

Here are a few of many practical ideas along this line.

BEEF BRISKET

First meal. Brisket cooked with beans is a delicious dish for the first serving. The beans are soaked over night and brown sugar, onion and seasonings added, then placed in a covered kettle with brisket on top. Brisket and beans should be covered with water and cooked in a moderate oven for about three hours.

Second meal. Broiled toastwiches suggested for the second meal, are prepared by slicing left-over brisket and making into sandwiches. The sandwiches are dipped in beaten egg and milk and broiled until brown.

Third meal. The left-over meat from the brisket may be ground and combined with boiled rice and seasonings to make a stuffing for green peppers. These are baked in a hot oven until done—about 45 minutes.

BLADE END OF PORK LOIN

First meal. Blade end of the pork loin is excellent for a roast. The end cut is lower in price than the center cut. Roasting is easy when a few simple rules are followed. The roast should not be covered and no water added. A low temperature saves both meat and fuel. A bread dressing, shaped in balls and placed around the roast half an hour before it is done, will extend the servings. This roast requires 30 minutes per pound.

Second meal. The cold slices of roast pork are delicious heated in barbecue sauce.

LAMB SHOULDER

First meal. A stuffed lamb shoulder is a thrifty roast. The bones may be used to season vegetables or to make soup stock. A tasty stuffing is made for it by combining whole kernel corn, cracker crumbs, seasonings and minced green pepper. The roast is placed on a rack in an open pan and about 40 minutes per pound allowed in a slow oven.

Second meal. For the next night's main dish, combine cubes of cold roast with left-over vegetables and enough gravy to hold together. Place mounds of the mixture on squares of pastry and fold over to make a triangle. Pinch the edges together. Brown in a hot oven. These are called Pasties.

Third meal. The remaining lamb "bits" may be ground and mixed with cooked oatmeal, an egg and seasonings to make Scotch Pancakes for supper or for breakfast.
