WHITE MAN HELD ON RAPE CHARGE

WHITEVILLE—Charged with attempting to rape a 19-year-old Negro girl, Miss Mamie White, Ernest Todd, a Columbus County white man, is being held in jail in lieu of $2,500 bond.

Information coming from the office of Sheriff J. R. Pridgen, who said that the 22-year-old local filling station operator had been arrested over the week-end, was to the effect that the attempt to rape Miss White was made about 11 a. m. Sunday, July 31, near here on the Chadbourn - Whiteville Highway.

According to the girl's version of the affair, given to deputies, a man identified as Todd drove by her in his auto as she was on her way to church. He turned around asking her if she wanted to ride; but when she refused, the man leaped from the car and attacked her. He fled, however, when she began to scream and after she had torn a pocket off his shirt.

While not admitting the attack, Todd did admit that he was in the vicinity at the time Miss White says the incident took place. But he stated that he was looking for a Negro woman to stay with his pregnant wife.

Whether he had some particular Negro woman in mind, or any Negro woman he might by chance come upon, was not stated.

GA. NAACP RESISTS HEAT ON TEACHERS

ATLANTA, Ga.—Attorney General Eugene Cook's proposal to discharge any public school teacher in the State of Georgia who joins or contributes to the NAACP has been denounced by the Georgia State Conference of NAACP branches as "an encroachment of the constitutional guarantees of every white and Negro citizen."

The executive committee of the NAACP Conference meeting here recently took "the position that any American citizen has the civil and constitutional right to join or support any organization whose purposes are legitimate and not contrary to the law of the land."

Previously in New York, Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, had declared

St. Thomas Virgin Islands
The Virgin Islanders are riled enough at their Governor Archie Alexander to the extent that they are seeking the removal of the Negro executive. In a special protest meeting this week, two thousand Islanders under the sponsorship of the CIO passed three resolutions, which seek the immediate resignation of Gov. Alexander.

Accusing Alexander of "hating the people of the Virgin Islands" and making derogatory utterances to their character, the resolution addressed to Alexander ask him specifically to resign.

In the resolution to President Eisenhower, the Islanders claim that the act of '54 under which the islands are governed, gives too much authority to the executive and creates a virtual dictatorship. To Congress, this resolution charges Governor Alexander with unethical conduct and maladministration.

An outstanding business executive from Des Moines, Iowa, Alexander took office April 10th, 1954. One year after his administration, a group called the Unity Club in an open letter to Eisenhower charged: "There is an atmosphere of fear and uncertainty along all the elements of our community. We ask you in good faith to recall him and place the administration of the Virgin Islands in the hands of competent executive sympathetic to the people, their problems and their aspirations for advancement in self-government."

The Governor has the support of Secretary of the Interior, Douglas McKay, who has been saying all along that he had done an excellent administrative job. William C. Strand, former director of Office of Territories stated: "It is nothing new to have the people of the Virgin Islands sniping at a Governor."

Cockroach May Become Factor In The Treatment Of Heart Disease

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The common cockroach may prove to be of uncommon help in developing ways of treating heart disease.

Veterans Administration said it is using the cockroach in a cholesterol research project at its Center in Wood, Wis., because the insect is peculiarly adapted to research in the utilization of cholesterol.

Cholesterol is a fatlike material that has been shown as one contributory cause of hardening of the arteries, or arteriosclerosis.

In this condition, plaques of cholesterol are deposited in the lining of arteries, thickening the walls and narrowing the opening to reduce the flow of blood.

Cockroaches must have cholesterol in their diet for normal growth. But they cannot manufacture it in their bodies from simple chemicals as can human beings.

In the tests at the Wood Center, the insects are given compounds similar to cholesterol. Some compounds substitute in part for cholesterol to furnish clues to the steps which occur in the natural synthesis of the material.

Other compounds that are chemically similar to cholesterol may act as antagonists of cholesterol and prevent growth even when cholesterol is fed at the same time.

In human beings, such a compound competing with cholesterol, might keep cholesterol from being deposited in the arteries and thereby prevent hardening of the arteries. The study at the Wood center, which is testing this theory, is headed by Dr. Jerre Noland, a VA biochemist who wrote his Ph.D. thesis on the diet of cockroaches.
