

GENERAL CONVENTION — The above group represents bishops, general officers, supervisors, delegates and laymen of the A. M. E. Zion Church who attended the 13th quadrennial session of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society which met at First Church, Paloma and Pico Streets, Los Angeles, California, August 6-12. Delegates from all over the country and foreign fields are shown on the picture. The meeting was held to review the work as it affects the missionary department of the church and to map a plan for the next four years. It was definitely decided that an extensive program would be inaugurated and that both the home and foreign work would be stepped up. The theme of the convention was built around the fact that the Missionary Department was organized 75 years ago. "Missionaries, Channels of Blessings.

between Negro and white Government workers, exclusion from cafeterias and signs on washrooms are still vivid enough to raise pressures among those who observe and experienced this shocking display of race hate.

But it might be well to recall that Princeton also suffered. Students in other colleges were benefitting by mingling with their fellows of all races, while Princeton's "exclusiveness" limited the growth of her youth. All Americans must now rejoice that Princeton has sounded the "all clear" with the appointment of Dr. Charles P. Davis of Hampton, now teaching at New York University, to her English faculty.

Dr. Davis, a Dartmouth graduate, who was Capt. Davis of the Adjutant General's Office, while here in Washington, worked for his master's at Chicago University, and received his Ph.D. from New York University. He collaborated with Gay Wilson Allen on a volume on Walt Whitman, published by the New York University Press.

He will live with his wife and two children, in a home on the Princeton campus. Dr. Davis' father is Hampton Bursar Don A. Davis, and his uncle is Dr. Arthur Paul Davis of the English faculty at Howard University.

Iota Phi Lambda Sorority National Convention Comes To End

DENVER, COL. — Delegates from chapters throughout the country convened in Denver, Colorado, August 13 through 17 for the national convention of Iota Phi Lambda Sorority, with Alpha Omicron and Beta Nu Chapters as hostesses. The sessions were held at the YWCA. The theme of the convention was "Leadership Development for Economic Security." To emphasize the theme at this 18th annual meeting, a workshop was conducted and a demonstration of business techniques and machines was given.

The annual report of the national president, Soror Marion E. Jackson of Washington, D. C., was read at the first business session and was enthusiastically received.

The public educational meeting was held at the Colorado Women's College on Sunday. The address was given by E. Frederick Morrow, administrative officer on the executive staff at the White House. Mr. Morrow was given a citation for outstanding achievement by the Sorority; Soror Emma Van Dyke Gilbert of Austin, Texas, received a citation as Iota Outstanding Business Woman for 1955.

Social courtesies were extended the visitors by the Denver City Federation of Colored Women's Club, Chi Phi Chapter, Omega Psi Phi Fraternity and Beta Phi Chapter, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

Officers elected at the convention were: National Director of Education, Soror Audrey Lucille Reynolds, Alpha Phi Chapter, Los Angeles, Calif.; Southern Regional Director, Soror Ossie W. Mitchell, Alpha Eta Chapter, Birmingham, Ala.; Re-elected Eastern Regional Director, Soror Evelyn D. Wilkey, Kappa Chapter, Baltimore, Maryland.

Other officers aside from Mrs. Jackson, are: 1st Vice-President, Florence M. Hill, Beta Omicron Chapter, Philadelphia; 2nd Vice-President Soror Ethel K. Greene, Alpha Gamma Chapter, Washington, D. C.; Dean of Pledges, Soror Miriam F. Grant, Nu Chapter, Savannah, Georgia; Journalist, Soror Dellgratia D. Allen, Lambda
