Braden, his wife, and five other white persons were indicted for sedition after the Bradens bought a home in suburban Shively and transferred it to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wade IV. Braden was freed from LaGrange Prison July 12 after serving eight months in jail and prison as a result of the house purchase. He was released under $40,000 bail pending action on his appeal by the Kentucky Court of Appeals this fall. Trial of the others has been postponed.

Braden is a newspaperman, formerly with The Louisville Courier - Journal and The Cincinnati Enquirer. His wife Anne and he have long been active in labor and interracial affairs in this area. Dr. Perdue, a leading Negro Baptist, is a trustee of Simmons University here. He is also on the board of the Southern Conference Educational Fund, which is devoted to ending segregation in the South.

sisted in opposing the selection of the Illinois Central as the official transportation line for Midwest convention delegates.

"I've had dozens of calls within the last few days," he said. "The caller said the railroad was spending plenty of money fighting the NAACP in its fight on the Illinois Central. He told me that 'someone would meet him if the offer is acceptable' and that he was talking with authority." Dr. Range said he was cursed and warned to "watch your step" when to tell the caller "we're not for sale."

Leaders To Defy Edict
Dr. T. Emerson Brown, President of the Baptist State

Convention of the Illinois Baptist General State Convention, largest Negro Baptist body, said the intended to defy the last minute edict of Dr. Jackson's office to send delegates to Memphis via the Illinois Central.

"Our tickets for space on the Gulf, Mobile and Ohio, have been on sale and will be continued to be sold," said Dr. Brown. "Both State Conventions as well as the Pastors' Conference voted to bypass and boycott the Illinois Central this year. We are sticking by our decision despite this attempt to sabotage our program."

The State Conventions voted in July on the boycott and instructed their respective chairmen of transportation committees to negotiate with the G. M. and O. Meanwhile, a form letter over the signature of Dr. D. G. Lewis, pastor of the Gary, Indiana Galilee Baptist Church and President Jackson's national transportation committee chairman, flooded churches and members in the five-state middle west area with this letter:

Official Letters Sent
"Dear Fellow Worker: Please find enclosed a special schedule for the National Baptist Convention meeting to be held in Memphis, Tennessee. As a fellow co-worker and a good, loyal Baptist, I personally extend to you this invitation to travel with the President (Dr. J. H. Jackson) of this great body on the 'President Special.' Enclosed in the letters were Illinois Central train schedules with prices and rates.

Dr. Jackson's Olivet church became headquarters for tickets over the Jim Crow railroad. At the same time, Wayne Johnson, President of the Illinois Central, told a delegation of minister headed by Dr. Range that the "Baptist leaders" were with him in "his program" and that "only a few heads are opposing it." He said it would not Christian-like to stir up confusion with the railroad procedures, "wasting your time" since the company didn't plan to change its loading procedures.

Here's A Boy Going To College

At least, Eldee "Butch" Brown, Jr. has his goal set for a higher education. And he's shooting for that goal in just the right way—by making regular savings in the Mutual Savings and Loan Association.

Butch is just 12 years old and an eighth grader (he's the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldee L. Brown, 402 Lawson St., Durham) but he already knows some essential facts about savings:

1. He's smart to put his money where it brings him excellent returns. Mutual Savings and Loan can invest most of its funds in sound, steady-paying home mortgages. It really puts money to work.
2. He's smart to put his money where he knows it's safe. Mutual Savings and Loan is protected by good management and strong reserve. And the FSLIC insures savings up to $10,000.

3. He's smart to deal with friendly, experienced people. People who know Butch, his parents, and this community. People who are right here when they're needed.

So it's hardly surprising that smart young people like Butch, with the encouragement of his parents, are putting more of their savings into Mutual Savings and Loan. It can mean college—or it can mean the fulfillment of almost any kind of dream!

We recommend to all thrifty parents of Durham a systematic savings program for your children. A profitable habit is established—and profits from savings will be secure. We invite your call for information at any time.
