sity solely on account of their color. The struggle for complete citizenship for Negro citizens must go on in this state and the remainder of the South until American citizens of all races, creeds and colors have equal educational opportunities at least with those of former enemies of this country."

While none of the several persons questioned on the matter expressed any bitterness toward the Japanese student, there was much evidence on the part of all questioned of a strong determination to continue to the end the fight for complete citizenship.

The Whites only ask for fair treatment and an application of the Golden Rule, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." They did not come seeking trouble. If there is trouble, it won't come from the Whites.

The Department on September 7, NAACP spokesmen urged the federal government "to delay no longer in calling a halt to the jungle fury unloosed in Mississippi."

Accompanying Mr. Wilkins at the conference were Thurgood Marshall, special counsel; Clarence Mitchell, director of the Association's Washington bureau; Mrs. Ruby Hurley, southeast regional secretary; and Medgar Evers, Mississippi state NAACP secretary. The group submitted an eight-point memorandum summarizing... the principal events in the region of terror which has prevailed in Mississippi.

Killing Cited
"The wanton killing of the 14-year-old lad, Emmett Louis Till, on August 29, is the logical and inevitable culmination of a reign of terror which has been generated in the State of Mississippi throughout the year," the NAACP statement said.

It cited also the murders of Rev. George W. Lee on May 7 and Lamar Smith on August 13 because they refused to give up their right to vote. Previously, the NAACP had submitted affidavits of 19 Negro citizens who had been turned back from the polls during the August primaries. "All the matters submitted on the denial of the vote in Mississippi, the instances of intimidation, and the murders of two men, said to be connected with voting, are under investigation," Mr. Olney told the delegation.

would do with it's higher educational institutions." Atty. Gen. Rodman seemed to believe that the U. S. Supreme Court did not rule segregation of races is unconstitutional. He also contended that a single judge should hear the case because usually a special three-judge Federal Court hears cases of conflicting state laws with the Constitution.

The trustees of the Greater University declared "that applications of Negroes to the undergraduate school at the three branches of the Consolidated University not be accepted."

Admissions Director Armstrong refused to process the applications of the three Durham youths in accordance with the trustees' policy.

Presiding Judge, Morris A. Soper, speaking for the court said, "the university could not refuse the applications of anyone solely on the basis of race or color, but receive and consider them. He further stated, "such action on the part of the university to be in conflict with the U. S. Supreme Court's decision that the public school segregation is unconstitutional.

Atty. C. O. Pearson of Durham, Chairman of the North Carolina Legal Redress Committee of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People represented the three Durham youth with the aid of four other attorneys.

June 1955. Most of his time has been used in assisting the recently appointed Health Education Committee project in this community. At present, Beebe is the only trained worker in Health Education employed by the United Fund Better Health Foundation. Dr. O. L. Ader, assistant Health officer, is chairman of the Health Education Committee. Other members of this committee are outstanding people in the field of health and education.

DIRECT SERVICE
This program is being administered by Durham Family Service. This agency interviews all applicants and makes recommendations to the United Fund Better Health Foundation. This program is provided for all persons, (all ages) when their own financial resources and the community resources are inadequate to meet their needs.

People who are very poor can qualify for public assistance. People who are very wealthy don't need assistance in the first place. But most of us fall in between these two categories. This is where the Direct Service of the United Fund Better Health Foundation steps in when assistance is most needed. In other words, the foundation hopes it will reach that often distressed stratum between the impoverished who are always eligible for relief and the sufficiently wealthy who can absorb the cost. Individuals may make application in person or they may be referred by anyone in the community to the Durham Family Service, 305 E. Chapel Hill Street.

RESEARCH
As regards to the research phase of the United Fund Better Health Foundation's total program, all money for research is sent to the United Medical Research Foundation of North Carolina. This organization is statewide and has the deans of the three leading medical schools and medical research centers in North Carolina. In fact, it is the deans of these three research centers who make up the Research Advisory Committee of the United Medical Research Foundation.

sentative was forced to station himself at a vantage point in proximity to the school near closing time to ascertain the of the students.

From other sources it was learned that there has been no unpleasant incident and that the students have all settled down to hard and serious work.

Last year it was reported in the Carolina Times that the Immaculate School had refused the admission of several high school Catholic students. None of those admitted this year, however, are among those turned down last year.

Rumors that several parents had withdrawn their children because of the presence of Negroes in classroom could not be verified. If true the number is believed to be so small that they would not be missed among the large enrollment now enjoyed by the school.

department operates, was ordered to pay $3,000 to Mrs. Geneva Gould of Albemarle, Eleanor Rush's mother and administratrix of her estate. The sum represents damages under the State Tort Claims Act.

Deputy Commissioner Hugh M. Currin of Oxford found that Eleanor died of a broken neck, dislocated when the gags were applied, and in making the decision wrote it was "evident that Hinton failed to give Eleanor Rush the protection and care required by the law."

Continuing, the Deputy Commissioner stated, "the very fact that the prisoner's neck was dislocated in the application of the gags is," he wrote, "strong evidence that the same was done without the care required by law."

R. Brooks Peters, Jr., the Highway Commission's general counsel, said he expected to appeal Herman Taylor, Raleigh Negro attorney who filed the claim, said he and his associates would have to read the order before deciding whether they would accept the settlement.

If an appeal is taken, Currin's decision will be reviewed by the full Industrial Commission.

gun point from the home of his uncle whom he was visiting and later the body was found shot and beaten three days after the kidnapping in the Tallahatchie River, the head weighted down by a heavy blower fan from a cotton gin.

Swango set the trial date after both defense and prosecuting attorneys said there was no reason to delay the trial. Dist. Atty. Gerald Cheatham asked for "a few more days" to prepare his case.

Swango will draw the panel of male Tallahatchie County voters Monday, one week before the trial opens. Women are not allowed to serve on juries in Mississippi and Negroes only on rare occasions.

The defendants are expected to be tried on the murder indictments jointly. Conviction carries penalty of death by lethal gas unless the jury recommends mercy.

In New York, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which had termed the crime a lynching, said it would send an observer to the trial.

At Tupelo, Miss. Negro minister, meantime, said Till's murder has spurred the fight against segregation in the state. The Rev.

J. A. Parson, attending a National Baptist Convention, Chicago, said opinion had been divided among his people on the subject of desegregation. But the crime, he said, "did something to everybody."

"We are not going to be afraid anymore," he said. "We are going to fight for what is right—as human beings—and we are going to be against this wrong."

by him and which has not been serviced for days. This station also has had its charge accounts on parts, accessories, etc. cut off by Orangeburg firms. Sulton signed the petition for integration in schools.

Orangeburg's Mayor Jennings is also president of the Paradise Ice and Fuel Company which features PARADISE ICE CREAM and the Palmetto Baking Company, makers of SUNBEAM BREAD.

These two firms, like other big white businesses there are firmly behind the "squeeze."

COBLE DAIRIES has refused ice cream and milk deliveries, resorting to the removal of their boxes in at least one instance at Elloree.

It is highly apparent that a "squeeze" fight-back on the part of Negroes is developing fast against the following firms and products in this area: COBLE DAIRY PRODUCTS, COCA COLA, SUNBEAM BREAD, Kirkland's Laundry, Lane Electric Company, Home Motors-FORD Dealers, Edisto Theatre, Becker's Women's Apparel, PARADISE ICE CREAM, and Esso Products, with the exception of those bought through Sulton's Esso Station.

Negroes are being turned down by the banks. Among changed accounts are those of the State Conference of NAACP. An Orangeburg businessman moved a deposit of several thousands of dollars to the Negro owned and operated Victory Savings Bank in Columbia. Other such banks are in Savannah, Durham, Raleigh, Richmond and Atlanta, in this general area.

A movement is on foot to urge all state organizations of Negroes, many of which have large holdings in white banks, to move such funds to Negro owned and operated banks in order to prevent wealth owned by Negroes from being used against them or denied to them in the economic squeeze.

Negroes are urged to check closely and file lists of all whose names occur in reports of Citizen Council meetings for the purpose of boycotting businesses and products or services with which such elements are connected.

The Orangeburg "squeeze" victims pointed out this week that they have been shown conclusively that Citizens Councils have no qualms of conscience in firing parents of helpless children, thus denying them bread, milk, medicines, and other human needs, and that they will employ any hesthenish scheme to keep Negroes in economic and educational enslavement.

To widen their sadistic prowl and gestapo strategy at Orangeburg, the Citizens Council went so far as to send out a feeler for the purchase of the NACP membership list, for which they were willing to pay as much as Ten Thousand Dollars. It was learned that the declaration that the lists had been burned totally disconcerted a certain local Black Judas.

Purchasing From Other Sections—Cooperatives

At every stop on the survey new suggestions and ideas about how to meet the Squeezes were picked up. One was that from now on, Negroes should buy as little as possible from any stores save Negro stores in Squeeze areas. A study of the "Squeezes" shows that many white merchants who are right at heart and pushed for business are forced into conspiracy. Hearing this in observation, one man said,

"The tallow has got to go with the hide." Many businessmen are tightly mashed from both sides. Negroes are being told to purchase through mail order catalogues, with young people especially being told to purchase the latest styles and best buys through such papers as the New York Times and the New York Herald Tribune. With high schools and colleges opening, it will be much easier to implement action among youth, victims declare.

There was also much talk about limiting the purchase of luxuries, and the necessity of curbing general wants toward the point of actual needs, so as to spend no more than is actually necessary, particularly in "squeeze" areas.

Cooperatives organized for the purchase of feeds, fertilizers, groceries, farm machinery, and so on for farm and urban families, also come in for discussion.
