Hampton Swamps Fumbling Union Panthers To Post 31-7 Victory

Hampton Institute spoiled the Thanksgiving Day activities at Virginia Union as they capitalized on a series of mistakes by the Virginia Union Panthers and went on to win the Turkey Day Classic 31-7.

The Virginia Union University Panthers were in a mood to give touchdowns away and this they did with abandon as the Hampton Institute Pirates won 31-7, before 3,000 fans.

Under brilliant sunshine, the Pirates didn't even act tough. After an exchange of punts, Hampton blocked a Union kick on the eight and Jesse Whitehead, Pirate end, waltzed into the end zone for the first score with the game 2:04 old.

One minute later Robert Clary, sophomore quarterback and Pirate star of the game, intercepted Walt Cowan's pass and raced 55 yards for another.

Robert Crawford intercepted Ed Russell's pass on the 32-yard line with one play left in the half. Clary tossed to Fletcher Battle for the third score and an 18-0 halftime lead.

Union's generosity continued in the second half. Hampton covered a Union fumble on the 15-yard line in the opening minutes of the period. Three smashes at the line in the opening minutes of the period got a first down on the three.

Clary swept his left end for the fourth score. John Harris placekicked the extra point.

The Seaside added a fourth period score when a Hamptonian punt was fumbled on the 31. Robert Crawford raced 10 yards. Clary went around end for five yards and lateraled to Herbert Bailey. Bailey went the last nine yards for the fifth touchdown.

Ed Skinner recovered a fumble at midfield to set the stage for the Panthers' only score. Russell took the quarterback sneak to the 34. Cowan promptly cut through tackle, stopped in his tracks as he got through the line to elude a tackler, and set sail for the touchdown. Cowan's place kick was good.

Citing the refusal of the Hoxie, Ark., school board to rescind its segregation order under pressure of the local White Citizens Council, Marshall said that local school boards in South Carolina and other states could do likewise. United States District Judge Trimble, he said, granted an injunction restraining the hate groups from interfering with desegregation of the Hoxie schools. In Texas, he added, the State Supreme Court upheld the desegregation order of the Big Springs school board which had been attacked by "white supremacy" groups in that city.

"The important measuring rod," the NAACP lawyer asserted, is whether or not a start has been made. You will find from this record that a start has been made and rapid progress is following in half of the areas involved. It is just a matter of very little time before the most recalcitrant states will most certainly follow the line. No state and no small group of states no larger than nine in number can continue to buck the will of the balance of the country. Once an opening was made in the Solid South, the end came into view. The widening breach in the South cannot be stopped short of including the entire South on the side of law and order."

White described his move as "all he could do" short of declaring martial law and he avers he has no intentions of taking that step.

White wired Humphreys County Sheriff Ike Shelton to "do everything in your power to find the guilty parties." "I very much fear federal action against us," White told the sheriff who pledged to conduct a complete investigation.

White, at a news conference in Jackson, said a recent series of violent acts against Negroes in the state, including three unsolved slayings, threatens "serious federal trouble." "If they can say that state law has broken down, there's no telling what is going to happen," White said.

Economy Suffers He warned that the state's economy has been "severely injured" because of the shooting of Courts, the slaying of another Negro leader in Belzoni, the celebrated kidnaping of Chicago Negro teenager Emmett Till and the murder of a Negro political figure in Brookhaven.

White said he had notified Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, that he had called on local authorities to make every effort to bring the guilty parties to justice. The NAACP in New York confirmed the receipt of White's telegram to Wilkins.

"We don't know if the guilty parties are white or black," the governor said. "We can't accuse one race any more than another, because we don't know who's doing it. But we do know it ought to stop."

White reasoned that uncon-

(Continued from Page One) Said the court in part: "The disadvantages to a traveler who is assigned accommodations or facilities so designated as to imply his inherent inferiority solely because of his race must be regarded under present conditions as unreasonable."

"Also, he is entitled to be free of annoyances, some petty and some substantial, which almost inevitably accompany segregation even though the rail carriers, as most of the defendants have done here, sincerely try to provide both races with equally convenient and comfortable cars and waiting rooms."

Said the court further: We are therefore now free to place greater emphasis on steps "to preserve the self-respect and dignity of citizenship of a common country" which this commission in 1887 balanced against "peace and order."

We find that the practices of the defendants, except the Texas and Pacific, in assigning or directing Negro interstate passengers to coaches or portions of coaches designated or provided for the exclusive use of such passengers, and in maintaining waiting rooms in their stations designated for the exclusive use of such passengers, subject Negro passengers to undue and unreasonable prejudice and disadvantage, in violation of Section 3 (1) of the act.

We further find that the operation by a lessee (noncarrier) of separate lunch-room facilities for white and colored persons in the railway station at Richmond constitutes a function or service which is not within the jurisdiction of this commission.

An order prohibiting the continuance of the unlawful practices found to exist will be entered.
