

Three Tar Heel Teams In Tourney

High School Tournament Is Set For NCC

Three divisions of the North Carolina Negro High Schools Athletic Association will play in a tournament scheduled for North Carolina College's Gymnasium Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, March 8, 9, and 10.

The 18 participating teams include class "A", "AA", and "AAA".

The teams will represent championships from the eastern and western division.

Eight games are scheduled for Thursday March 8 beginning at 9, 10, and 11 in the morning, 2, 3, and 4 in the afternoon and 7:30 and 8:30 at night. Four games go on tap Friday starting with an afternoon session at 3:00 o'clock and a night session beginning at 7:30. Three contests will be played Saturday night beginning with the class "A" championship at 6:30.

Season tickets are available for students at $1.75 for the series. Adult season tickets are $3.35.

L. T. Walker, F. H. Brown, and Dr. S. B. Fulbright of North Carolina College are members of the most committee on arrangements.

Grambling Man On Membership Body Of NAIA

GRAMBLING, La. Dr. Charles D. Henry of the department of health and physical education at Grambling college has been appointed to membership on two National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics committees.

E. D. "Gus" Fish, publicity director for the NAIA, said Henry was named as one of two representatives from the Mid-West conference for District 29. This is a liaison committee between executive officials and various activity chairmen of the district.

The other appointment was to the national membership committee of the association. Eight men from various geographical areas of the country comprise the committee.

MWAA Cagers To Square Off At Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn. Tennessee A&I State University will host the Mid-West Athletic Association Basketball Tournament which is scheduled to get underway February 23. Originally scheduled to be held at Grambling College February 16, 17 and 18, the tournament was transferred to the Nashville institution at the request of Grambling College officials because of housing difficulties brought about by Grambling's record enrollment this year. Grambling College, the defending champions with a veteran team and the nation's top basketball scorer in Robert Hopkins, will be out to top the conference crown again. However, reports from the other member colleges indicate that the cagers from the Pelican State may be in for rough sledding. Tennessee State University has shown remarkable improvement during the last half of the season, their triumph coming at the expense of the Jackson College Tigers when they snapped the Tigers' winning streak. With "Big Ben" Jackson, a veteran of several seasons, showing the way for a group of outstanding freshman prospects, the team has compiled a very good season's record.

DRIVER don't be a NURSE and LIVE

The Carolina Times

SECTION—A DURHAM, N. C., FEBRUARY 25, 1956 PRICE 10 CENTS

A. AND T.'S SMITH NAMED

Lloyd And Defares Top All-CIAA Team Picks

EDWIN AMOS

WASHINGTON, D. C. Six players representing five Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association schools have been named to the 1956 All-CIAA Basketball Team selected by coaches of the 18-member conference.

The first team, as announced by Thomas A. Hart, director of public relations for the conference's Basketball Coaches Association, is made up of Sonny Lloyd of Maryland State College; Jack Defares, of Winston-Salem Teachers College; John

THEOPHILUS LLOYD

Syphax and Tom Harris, of Howard University; Edwin Amos, of Hampton Institute; and Billy Smith, of North Carolina A&T College. The players will receive awards during the CIAA Championship Basketball Tournament which begins Feb. 23rd at Durham.

Lloyd and Defares led in the balloting, being named on the ballots of 12 of the 14 coaches who participated in the election. Syphax was named by six coaches; while Amos, Harris, and Smith received four votes each.

Steve Gwinn, of Virginia Union University, headed the list of nine players named to the All-Conference second team. He received three votes. The other players, each with two votes, were Ronald Evans, of Fayetteville State Teachers College; James Galloway, Bluefield State College; Robert Hall, Shaw University; Ronald Kilpatrick, Fayetteville; James Sligh, North Carolina College, and Carl Smith, Virginia Union.

Coaches participating in the selection of the teams included representatives of Bluefield, Delaware State, Fayetteville, Hampton, Howard, Maryland State, Morgan State, North Carolina A&T, North Carolina College, Shaw, Johnson C. Smith University (N.C.), St. Paul Poly (Va.), Virginia State, and Winston Salem.

Unorthodox Style Wins For Morgan State High Jumper

BALTIMORE, Md. At Morgan State College, classmates call the odd high jump style of Norristown, Pa. Junior Robert (Bob) Barksdale the "barky roll".

It's a peculiar kind of relaxed jump in the course of which the 21-year-old seems to walk in the air and just rest there.

For a Norristown, Pa. Times Herald photographer who snapped it, the "barky roll" made a prize winning photo.

And for Bob Barksdale, the "barky roll" to date this season has won him three indoor championships and two new meet records, one of them an impressive 6'9" leap, that broke a 22-year-old mark.

Hottest in Bear Camp Right now the hottest thing in the Bear camp—with the usually outstanding mile relay team not yet running up to Morgan's old form—Barksdale hit the 6'9" heights in the New York Athletic Club meet of February 11 in Madison Square Garden.

It was a new record for the New York A. C., whose 6'8 and three-quarter inch standard was set in 1924, and a new high for the former scholastic triple sports star who holds the CIAA record in the high jump, executing a nifty 6'8 and one quarter inch leap last year.

He started the season in the Philadelphia Inquirer meet and finished third.

Then he climbed to 6'6" to win the high jump in the Washington Evening Star Games. He added a couple more inches or so to his jump and climbed to 6'8 and three-quarters inch to tie for first place in the Millrose Games of February 4 with the national high jump champion, Ernie Shelton, and a new meet record.

Fayetteville Uses Subs To Bury Pirates, 91-58, In Cage Finale

FAYETTEVILLE By way of adding the finishing touches to a hectic, pressure packed cage season, Head Coach William "Gus" Gaines' Bronco performers cleaned the bench in administering a sound 91-58 drubbing to their ancient rivals, the Elizabeth City "Pirates". The visiting Bluejackets got away to a quick start when their fast-moving sophomore guard, Richard Morgan, whipped in a one-hand push shot for the first two markers.

They pushed on to grab the lead twice during the first ten minutes of play; but that was about it for them, for the Fayetteville teachers, rallying around Captain Ronald "Red" Kilpatrick, straightway put down the uprising and moved out in front for keeps. At half time, the Bronco quint enjoyed a 14-point advantage over their opponents.

A big factor in the Bronco victory was the brilliant performance of "Big" John Morgan, sophomore center of Durham, who came up with 19 points to run the show in the matter of scoring. He has been adept all season at making those quick shots under the basket look easy. This feat must be linked with the fine ball-handling of two Fayetteville reserves, Dave Bluford who turned in his best all-round performance of the guard spot and wily Claude Moses, fleet-footed forward who brought the crowd to its feet as he cashed in on a series of difficult, unorthodox shots during the waning moments of the game.

Likewise, Elizabeth City's "travelling man", Samuel Hubbard, of Lynchburg, Virginia, hit for 18 points and qualified as runner-up in the scoring department. He and his running mate, Randolph Tootle, were always marked men throughout the contest.

WSTC Cager Ruled Off Team As Result Of Players' Scuffle

Three North Carolina teams, Winston Salem Teachers College, North Carolina College at Durham, and A and T College, Greensboro are among the eight basketball teams competing in the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association's 11th annual tourney in Durham, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, February 23-25.

Tournament play starts at 2:30 Thursday afternoon in the NCC Eagles' million dollar sports arena that seats some 5,000 fans. A and T meets Bluefield in the opener. North Carolina College's Eagles play Howard University at 4 o'clock.

Thursday night's games start at 8 o'clock when Delaware and Winston Salem square off. The 9:30 game matches Maryland State against Union of Richmond.

Friday's two games start at 8 p.m. with the winner of the NCC-Howard affair engaging the top team in the Delaware-Winston Salem contest. Friday night's 9:30 game will feature the victor in the A and T Bluefield scrap against the winning club in the Maryland-Union affair.

Selection of the CIAA's top eight teams was announced in Durham early this week after one of the most hotly contested races in tournament history. Eleven clubs finished in the first (Dickinson) division, with Maryland State College's Hawks copping their first visitation crown with a string of 12 straight victories.

CIAA President T. L. Henderson of Union ordered Winston Salem's 79-75 win over Fayetteville at Winston on Feb. 14 disregarded in computing tourney standings. Dr. Henderson's actions followed protest of alleged "riotous conditions" during which a Winston-Salem player, Harry Rogers, left the Fayetteville bench to strike a Fayetteville player. A free-for-all resulted. Rogers was declared ineligible for tourney participation. The matter will be examined by the CIAA at its March 22-24 meeting in Washington. Winston, which ordinarily would have a 15-4 record, for-tourney purposes, has a 14-4 count.

Other first division clubs include NCC, third (10-7); A&T, fourth, (14-6); Bluefield, fifth, (9-3); Delaware, sixth, (11-4); Union, seventh, (11-5); Howard eighth (12-7); Shaw, ninth, (12-10); Fayetteville, tenth (10-6); and Morgan, eleventh, (9-0).

Fayetteville protested the Winston Salem victory and asked for a forfeiture. Such action would have put Fayetteville in the tournament.

Winston Salem officials say Fayetteville's account of the dispute and scuffling among players on the court during the game were "exaggerated and misleading".

Campy Loses In Court; Must Pay Five Grand

BROOKLYN, N. Y. Roy Campanella of Brooklyn, fame is about to be minus of $5,000 as the Supreme Court jury ordered him to pay Dr. Samuel Shenkman that sum for an operation performed on his left hand 18 months ago.

The jury of 11 men and one woman returned the verdict in favor of the Neurosurgeon after two and one-half hours of deliberation. The doctor had sued for $9,500.

Dodger Catcher had claimed that 1) Dr. Shenkman's fee was excessive and 2) that Dr. Shenkman had never named a price in discussion prior to the operation on October 20th, 1954. Dr. Shenkman insisted however that Roy had been told but had refused to pay after the operation.

Justice Owen McGivern, in

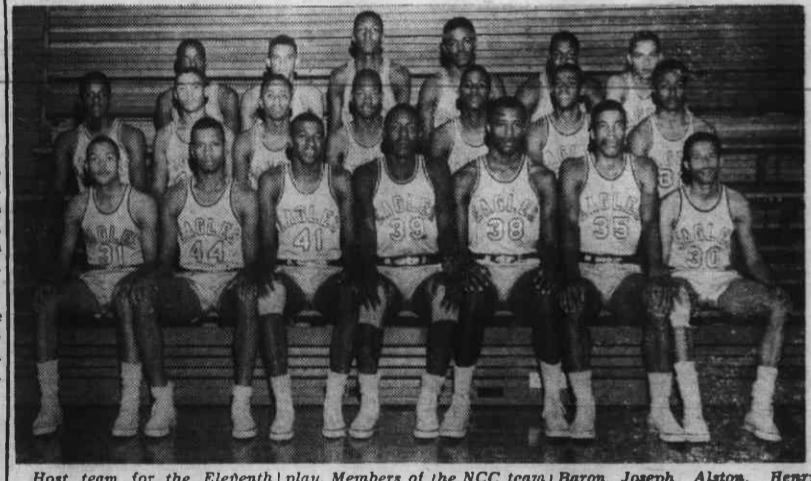

Pictured here is this year's CIAA champions, Maryland State College. Coached by ex-Tennessee gridiron and cage star Nat Taylor, the Hawks posted a perfect 15-0 record for the season, becoming the only major southern Negro cage team to finish the season undefeated.

Jordan, James Hough, Theophilus Lloyd, Learman Wilson, Maynard Preston, Vernon Vaughn, Clarence Facey, Franklin Carr, John Sample, and Toft Lee.

The Winston-Salem Teachers College basketball team, shown here, finished the season in second place in CIAA standings. Members of the Rams' team are Rufus McClendon, John Whitley, William Vance, Wilfred John, Donald Bennett, Lawrence Harrison, Millard Dennis Hampton, Bobby Brown, Harris and Sidney Lawson. The James Sessoms, Harry Rogers, Harry DeFense, Jack DeFares, Gaines.

Host team for the Eleventh CIAA basketball tournament are the North Carolina College Eagles, shown here. The Eagles finished third in regular season play. Members of the NCC team are James Sligh, Clugbon Davis, William Brown, Dorian Fields, John Keels, Charles Parrott, Malcolm Little, Willie Batger, Gilbert Riley, Fred West, Don Burke, Albert Little Gibson, Cal Alexander, Charles and Herman Boone.

The Aggies of A and T College finished fourth in regular season play in the CIAA. Members of the A and T quintet charging the jury, told them full amount for the surgeon and if not, then they were to determine "reasonable" value for the surgeon's services. The jury decided at $5,000 reasonable value.

pictured are Edward Battle, Charles Tupponce, Robert White, Joe Howell, Donald Young, Charles Harrison, Harry

Miller, Cal Irvin coaches the A and T entry.