

Arcs inscribed on the above map of the city of Durham show the location and area served by the existing fire stations in city. Proponents for the location of a fire station in Haiti section at the intersection of Pekoe and Fayetteville Streets point out that the map indicates this site would afford the city maximum coverage with a minimum of overlapping.

Pictured above is the new Kroger Store which will be opened in Durham on April 5. Located in the newly constructed Forest Hills shopping center, the mammoth store will contain floor space of 18,000 square feet, making it one of the largest super markets in the State. Among its other features will be air conditioning and modern furnishings throughout.

of NCC. "New Careers and Vocations" was the subject of the panel, and Hobart Jerrett of Bennett College; Dr. W. H. Robinson of NCC; Dr. Alfonso Elder of NCC, and W. H. Williams of Jackson, Miss., were speakers.
Following the first sessions delegates were taken on a tour of the North Carolina Mutual Home Office at 3:30, following which they were guests of the company at a dinner in the Insurance Company's cafeteria.
A public meet. was held at 7:30 at Mt. Vernon Baptist Church and will feature Frank L. Stanley, General President of Alpha Phi Alpha, as main speaker. The public was invited to attend this meeting.
Preceding the formal dance at the Armory, the members of Tau Gamma Delta Sorority sponsored a Social Hour for all delegates and their wives at the Algonquin Club House. The dance was from 10:30 until 2.

Saturday's activities include two panels, reports from regional and national officers, elections, a banquet, and a closed "All Greek" dance.
The first panel will be heard at 9:30, with undergraduates from Morehouse College, Shaw University, Florida A&M University, and North Carolina College taking part. "New Challenges in Social and Cultural Life" will be the panel theme.
Following the discussions, regional and national officers will give reports of the year's activities, and this will be followed by the election of officers.

The convention photo will be taken on the steps of the Education Building at North Carolina College at 1:10. At 2:30, the final panel, titled "New Challenges in Politics and Public Administration," will take place. Jacob R. Henderson of Atlanta, Ga.; T. F. Cathcart, Hillsboro; and J. T. Taylor of NCC will serve on the panel, which will be moderated by A. H. Anderson, principal of Kimberly Park School of Winston-Salem.

Attorney Harry Groves of Fayetteville will be the banquet speaker at the affair which takes place in the North Carolina College dining hall at 6 p.m. The banquet is open to all delegates and their wives and guests.
The "All Greek" dance will take place in the Women's Gym on the campus from 9-12:00. This will mark the close of the convention.

Bishop H. T. Medford, who presides over the North Carolina conference, in which Rev. Bell's church is located, demanded that the editor bring charges against the writer of the article.
The charges were drawn and sent to Rev. R. V. Faulkner who is believed to be preparing action for a trial and eventual expulsion of the young pastor.
Rev. Bell said that he would welcome a trial and declared that he does not plan to react if and when a trial is held.

NEW YORK
Replying to "The Southern Case Against Desegregation," an article published recently in Harper's magazine, NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins declared in a letter that the article's "sophisticated defense of racial intolerance is no more rational than Senator Eastland's crude denunciations."
"The Southern Case" was written by Thomas R. Waring, a South Carolinian. Portions of Wilkins' letter were published in the March issue of Harper's.
Waring, Wilkins said, "brushes aside everything except race as a cause of the Negro's alleged backwardness."
The "shacks and alleys" in which the southern Negro has to live, "the outlying hollows and gulley and railroad cuts that formed his residential areas" were to inspire the "home improvement" deplored as missing by Mr. Waring," the NAACP official commented.
"The overcrowded, under-equipped one-room school, the racial pay scale and job ceilings, the demeaning etiquette of the segregation system, the exclusion from the ballot box—all these had nothing to do with development. That vast numbers of Negroes failed this obstacle course means (according to the 'Southern Gentlemen' of the Waring school of thought) that the race is racially inadequate."
"The remedy they propose, Wilkins noted, 'is to continue the same system to have 'meddlers' keep out and let time (2055, one South Carolinian has said) and the friendly, thoughtful considerate Southern whites take care of the whole thing.'"
The NAACP executive secretary asserted that "the past year has been one of great disillusionment to many white Southerners. Their Negroes, whom they said did not want desegregation, have not stepped forward to ask the continuance of segregation."
Responding to Waring's assertion that the South's racial situation calls for discussion, Wilkins said "the opposition doesn't want to discuss a solution of desegregation problems; it wants only to secure agreement to a continuance of the status quo laced with such improvements as the whites, in their beneficence, and in their own good time, may choose to make."

"The Negro contends that this is no basis for discussion, moderate or otherwise. To expect him to think, talk and act as though the Supreme Court had never spoken is pure fantasy, unworthy of debate."
