Agnew Hairston, 37, of 1256 Bailey Street, who was serving time at the Forsyth County County Home, escaped from the home on Christmas day, between 3 and 4 p.m. According to police, Hairston assaulted Rose Chaney of the Bailey St. address with a knife around 6 p.m. He fled from the scene but was captured about 7:35 p. m. on Waughton Street. The Chaneys woman was treated at Kate Bittling Reynolds Memorial Hospital, where it took 18 stitches to close the wound in her abdomen. Hairston's four hours of freedom cost him 15 more months added to the 12 months term he was serving for non-support.

Poovey Barnes, 1203 East 10th Street reported to police that someone had broken into his home, Wednesday, Dec. 27, between 7:30 and 9:30 p.m., and took a Westinghouse radio, three blankets, bedspread, a navy jacket and an alarm clock. Police concluded that the breaker apparently got into the house by smashing a large glass window pane.
A deposit bag containing $3, 145.66 of which $1,901 was in cash, disappeared from the Big Bear Supermarket on Liberty Street, near closing time, on Christmas eve night. Tom Bullard, white, of Kernersville, eased the worried minds of the store officials, when he found the bag of money in a sack of groceries he had purchased from the store earlier. Bullard called his brother-in-law, Winston-Salem Detective Howard Cox and reported the money the next morning. Store manager, R. D. Gambill said he left the money on a front counter while he went to the back of the store for groceries. It looked like a well-planned robbery there for a few minutes, but, detective Cox and other officers decided that the money was simply "mistakenly placed" in Bullard's bag while he shopped.

Local 256 is one of the largest organizations of season tobacco workers in the city.
In statement this week, spokesman for local 204 said that the union's program for the coming year will be "for the advancement of organized labor and close cooperation of all groups for the advancement of Durham."
"This can only be done," the statement continued, "by labor uniting their forces together."
It also called upon members of the union to rally to cause of its program and take "greater interest" in its work.

branches of federal, state, or local governments that influence relations between the races in education, employment, transportation, voting and recreation. Cited also are the actions by local governments that express defiance or refusal to comply with the non-segregation principle.
Seeking to clarify the issues in desegregation the report maintained that "Great reliance was placed on democratic processes as people in the South began to deal with the practical task of adjusting public activities to the principle of non-segregation neither directs nor restrains the individual in his personal relationships, beliefs, or attitudes. Freedom of choice in these personal matters remains an individual right."

Spauldings Are Honored By Durham Friends

Mr. and Mrs. Asa T. Spaulding were honored with a "Welcome home" party given by a small group of friends Saturday evening, Dec. 22, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Kyle.
The Spauldings recently returned from New Delhi, India where Mr. Spaulding was United States delegate to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural organization.
The trip to New Delhi and back took the Spauldings around the world. They left Idlewild International Airport in New York on Friday, Oct. 20. They stopped enroute at Glasgow, London, Paris, Geneva, Rome and Karachi. On the return trip, they visited Calcutta, Hong Kong, Tokyo and Honolulu. They returned to San Francisco on Dec. 12.
Mrs. Spaulding delighted the group by wearing a beautiful turquoise and gold Indian sari to the party. Mr. Spaulding showed the group a collection of pictures he had brought back with him.
The hostesses, members of Mrs. Spaulding's bridge club, presented the couple with a picture album on which Mr. Spaulding's name was inscribed in gold.
Guests at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Alfonso Elder, Mrs. Charles Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Kyles, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Michaux, Mrs. A. M. Shearin, Mr. and Mrs. M. Hugh Thompson, and Mrs. I. E. Turner.

Ghee asserted.
By way of illustration, he pointed out that though Negroes have deposited upwards of 400 million each in banks in larger eastern and western urban centers like New York, there is not a single Negro member of the directorate of any banks in these areas.
In most of these cities, McGhee said, "a well-directed program suggesting investment in the stock of one of each city's outstanding bank would lead to Negro representation on its board of directors."

"We look forward" said Williams "to the day when this ideal of fair employment practices is written into law as a standard of national morality."
"Passage by the 85th Congress of such a law," the telegram continued, "and of all civil rights legislation, including protection of the right to vote, will depend largely upon your ruling as to whether or not the Senate can change its rules especially rule 22 on closure."
"At a time when our country is so deeply concerned, and rightfully so, about freedom in Hungary, and the Near East, We urge you to use the prestige and power of your high office to help make freedom meaningful in Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. On behalf of the Silent South now without representation in Congress we appeal to you by your ruling to help restore majority rule in the Senate."
