went with him to The White House to talk over the Richardson case.

"We had a meeting with him (Anderson)," Robinson told the Chudoff committee, "in which he informed me he was personally opposed to two features of the new land acquisition policy."

Chudoff then produced a document drawn up by Richardson's lawyers which happened to coincide almost word-for-word with the views expressed by Anderson. After pointing this out he also asked the witness if he had ever raised the point about Anderson's intervention in the case.

Robinson said he was "in no position" to raise questions about Anderson's role. Robinson carried the fight for the corps on his own. Later when a new Chief of Engineers was appointed, Robinson was in line for the job, but he was passed over.

MONTGOMERY'S 'MAD BOMBERS'—Some of the Dixie demagogues wish that Montgomery, Ala. bombing case hadn't come to trial just yet. The men charged with bombing the home of the Rev. Martin Luther King and other anti-segregationists were just acquitted after a jury trial. Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP, sees the results as proof that no one accused of injuring Negroes will be convicted if brought before most Southern white juries.

Wilkins has used the Montgomery case quite effectively in trying to persuade congressmen to oppose the so-called "trial by jury" amendment to the civil rights bill. President El-senhower, incidentally, thinks the jury amendment would produce "anarchy" in contempt of court proceedings.
