Top Stars Hoping To Attract Big League Eyes In Classic Saturday

CHICAGO Top players from the six-team Negro American Baseball League, all hoping to catch the favorable eye of the many big league talent scouts who are expected to be in the grandstand, will clash in the 25th annual East vs West Classic Sunday, July 28, at Comiskey Park.

The game, starting at 3 p. m., is rated a tossup by Dr. J. B. Martin, president of the NAL from Chicago.

Upwards of 15,000 are expected to turn to watch the Classic, which now is led by the West in the point of victories with 15 as compared to nine for the East.

The East won last year's Classic, 11-5, after getting away to an opening inning, 3-0, lead and staped in front all the way. This gave Eddie Steele, of the Detroit Stars, his first All-Star triumph in two efforts.

Come Sunday Steele hopes to make it two in a row since he's back at the helm of the East. Bill ("Dizzy") Dismukes, manager of the Kansas City Monarchs, will guide the West. The West will use 21 players from the Monarchs, Memphis

Red Sox and New Orleans Bears. The East, on the other hand, has picked 27 to do battle, they coming from the Detroit Black Barons and the Mobile Havana Cuban Giants.

Starting pitchers are John Winston, Jr., of the Monarchs and the league's top moundsman with a 7-0 record, for the West and Celedonio Constanzo, also a right-hander of the Detroit Stars, for the East. The Detroit has a mark of 3-4.

THE SPORTS STAGE

By "ERNIE" BARNES

DIAMOND DUST: "He's quite a character," said Fred Hutchinson, the Cardinals manager, "a character because he's so intense, tries so hard that, gritting his teeth, growling and bearing down so much, he looks like the meanest man in town. Yet he's a real nice kid."

The subject, sports fans, was Joseph Robert Cunningham, blond 26-year-old reserve first baseman who fought his way into the Redbirds' lineup and most recently has been the hottest hitter of the National League's surprise ball club.

Hutchinson and his coaches have a fondness for Cunningham that goes back to or before the 6-foot-1, 190 pound athlete ever got a base hit for them. As Coach Terry Moore said in spring training, "A guy they won't keep off this ball club is Joe Cunningham. When Hutchinson suggested the way for an extra first baseman to make it would be to show some ability plunged right into it. This guy really wants to play."

Still not fast, Cunningham was slow and awkward when his bat and aptitude impressed Scout Benny Borgmann back in 1949. That's when Joe began to take up dancing—his other hobby is skiing—to improve his ability and, in addition, he practiced stopping and starting to increase his speed.

By the time he finished military service and hit so promisingly that Manager Eddie Stanky asked for him in mid-season 1954, the left handed hitting blond bomber came up to break in spectacularly as a replacement for Tom Alston, the $100,000 acquisition and the Cardinals first Negro player, a clever fielder who couldn't hit. Cunningham homered and doubled at Cincinnati his first night up, then hammered two home runs off Southpaw Warren Spahn at Milwaukee the next afternoon.

Buck Forbes, a big solid bulk of a man, will be back in the Eagles lineup for the coming football season. This will be a big factor in the Eagle backfield. Coach Herman Riddick stated: "I plan to use Buck in my backfield. He's big, mean, and plus the fact he has speed. With him running the ball, along with my other backfield and linemen, we should have another championship football team."

INSIDE SPORTS: "COUNTRY" LEWIS GETS NEW COLLEGE ATHLETIC POST. Two promotions in the administrative side of Central State College football were announced at Wilberforce, Ohio, by President Charles H. Wesley. Gaston (Country) Lewis, veteran football coach, was appointed acting director of athletics, to replace Mack M. Greene, who will go to Madras, India, on a Fulbright scholarship, and James Walker, former Iowa All-American, who has been Central State line coach since 1947, was named acting head football coach.

TIDBITS: Eddie Hurt, 57, Morgan State coach and athletic administrator became the first Negro elected to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' Hall of Fame.

C. R. Roberts, the University of Southern California fullback whose career was shortened by a Pacific Coast scandal, signed a professional contract with the Toronto Argonauts. Reportedly, Roberts was given a $10,000 annual contract and a $1,000 bonus to sign.

"I pick a cigarette for taste ... and

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER!"

NADA J. WILLIAMS is an architectural designer. She's styled interiors for everything from railroad cars to leading N. Y. department stores. Nada's taste runs to modern art, classical music, and Lucky Strike cigarettes. "A Lucky is all cigarette," she says. "And that's fine with me. I don't want anything that gets in the way of the taste."

"IT'S TOASTED" to taste better!

Painting or sculpting: Nada does 'em both—for enjoyment! She smokes for the same reason. "I get the same wonderful taste from every Lucky I smoke," she says. "When you smoke a lot, that's important."

Luckies' taste comes from fine tobacco—mild, good-tasting tobacco that's TOASTED to taste even better. But you'll say, as Nada does, "Luckies are the best-tasting cigarette I ever smoked!"
