School integration may come by injunction this fall, according to indications here this week.

Attorneys for a Negro youngster seeking admission to an all-white high school hinted that they may ask for a temporary injunction to restrain the city school board from barring Joseph Hiram Holt, Jr., from the all-white Needham Broughton high school.

This declared intention on the part of young Holt's attorneys was made public after it became apparent that a showdown in the case may not come until next fall.

It was revealed this week that the case had been postponed in-

N. J. Firm Held Violating Child Labor Statute

NEW YORK

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was today informed of the arrest of a New Jersey furniture manufacturer on charges of violating the state's child labor act and other labor laws.

Gus James George of Jackson's Mills in Ocean County, N. J., was arrested on May 27 following an investigation by Herbert Hill, NAACP labor secretary, and presentation of affidavits to Carl Holderman, New Jersey State labor commissioner.

Meanwhile a warrant was issued for the arrest of William Mitchell, an associate of the arrested furniture manufacturer.

George and Mitchell were accused of bringing nine teenage Negroes from the South to work in their furniture plant in an isolated rural area near Jackson's Mills.

According to the NAACP official who conducted the investigation in cooperation with the New Jersey State labor commissioner, the accused pair were

FIREMEN BATTLE SAFE BUS BLAZE ON WINSTON-SALEM'S CHURCH STREET.

SAFE BUS BURNS

WINSTON-SALEM

A Safe Bus loaded with passengers caught fire in the loading zone on Church Street between Third and Fourth Streets last Monday. It was a total loss.

There were no injuries reported in the wake of the blaze.

However, the Royal Palace Barber Shop, in front of which the bus had stopped, suffered damage from smoke, flames and water.

The bus was on an east Winston route, traveling between 7th Street, Woodland Avenue and 11th Street.

John Lowery, the driver told this reporter:

"I just pulled into the zone to load and unload. I had just filled my tank with gas only a few moments earlier, about 50 gallons. Someone must have thrown away a lighted cigarette or a match to ignite the gas from the over-flowing gas tank."

Eugene Lowery of 704 North Woodland Avenue, one of the last persons off the bus said, "I heard a lot of commotion, and all of a sudden I saw fire and I left by the right rear door. I looked back and I only saw the driver on the bus."

Asked how many people were on the bus at the time, Lowery replied, "It was loaded, about 35 people on it."

George H. Sullivan, owner of the Royal Palace Barber Shop, said, "I stayed in the shop until my awning caught fire, and just couldn't stand the heat any longer." He estimated that his shop suffered $700 damage.

W. Earl Moore, Traffic Manager for the Safe Bus Co declared he didn't know how much damage there was. "but I know there is quite a loss."

Fire companies 1, 2, 3, 4, answered the call.

TO AVOID INTEGRATION

Greensboro In Second Try To Abandon City Pools

GREENSBORO

The city owned swimming pools were auctioned off for the second time here Tuesday in less than three months.

Lindley Park pool, for white, was sold for a high bid of $85,000 and Nocho park pool, operated by the city for Negroes, went for a high of $6,000.

The movement to sell city owned facilities stemmed from an attempt to prevent integration of the pool. A group of Negroes had requested the City Council to abolish the segregation policy in effect for the pools last summer. Subsequently, after a series of public hearings, the Council voted to sell the pools.

The second auction here Tuesday became necessary when the City Council declared that highest bids offered in the first public sale were inadequate.

High bids of $75,000 by Jerome Samet of Mt. Airy and $9,550 for the Nocho pool by Greensboro merchant, Ralph Johns were offered in the first sale on April 8.

Highest bids on Tuesday's sale came from Dr. Richard Taliaferro and Carrol Weaver for the Lindley park pool and W. S. Farrington, retired Southern Railroad Car Inspector for Nocho park pool.

However, these bids must be approved by the City Council then confirmed by Federal Judge Edwin Stanley before the city can relinquish ownership.

Stanley ruled last month that the city had a right to make a bona fide sale, but agreed to hold up confirmation for 30 days to give a Negro group which protested the sale chance to plan further action.

The protest against sale of the pool was lodged by the group on the grounds that the city was seeking a way to divert itself of the responsibility for compliance with federal law regarding segregated public facilities. The group contended that proposed sale could simply be a "paper transaction" to relieve

The mother of a 25 year old man fatally knifed by his sweetheart blamed his death on negligence at Kate Bittings hospital.

Alfred Smith, 25 year old father, died at the hospital Saturday as the result of a knife wound inflicted upon him by his girl friend, 35 year old Willie Mae Brown.

"I don't hold the girl as much responsible for his death as I do the hospital staff," Mrs. Robert

Strangled

WINSTON-SALEM

Forsyth County Coroner B. M. Long ruled Tuesday that Alfred Smith, 25 year old father who was severely wounded with a knife wielded by his 35 year old sweetheart, Mrs. Willie Mae Brown, died of strangulation.

Smith died at Kate Bittings Memorial hospital Saturday following his admission.

Mrs. Brown was formally charged with assault with a deadly weapon. She said Smith was beating her and tried to make her cut herself.

Integration Is Coming, Grads Are Promised

"Integration will come. It is written in the stars," Dr. Kenneth I. Brown told North Carolina College's 47th graduating class in Durham on Monday.

Brown, executive director of the Danforth Foundation, concentrated on implications of recent Supreme Court decisions on education in the South.

"Integration cannot be eternally denied," he said. "But integration is not enough. There must be no hatred or bitterness hostility or selfish pride toward any other living human being."

Dr. Brown's commencement address to North Carolina College's graduates was one of four heard at colleges in the state this week. Some 1,017 students received undergraduate, graduate and professional degrees at A and T College, N. C. College Bennett College and St. Augustine's College finals exercises.

All were held Monday.

A and T College, with 484 graduates, had the largest class of the four schools. Degrees were awarded to 357 at N. C. College, to 83 at Bennett and to 83 at St. Augustine's.

Speaking to A and T's graduates was Ghana Ambassador D. A. Chapman, Dr. Alvin E. Rich, vice president of the Fund For Advancement of Education, spoke at Bennett, and the Rev. Thomas Fraser, rector of St. Paul's Church in Winston-Salem, was heard at St. Augustine's.

New Ruling Asked In Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK

The right of the State of Arkansas to demand the membership lists of NAACP units was challenged in the new chambers of the seven-judge Arkansas Supreme Court here this week in the first of a series of cases involving the Association's right to function in the state.

In argument before the Court on May 26, Robert L. Carter, NAACP general counsel, of New York, and George Howard, Jr., of Pine Bluff, contended that a lower court order granting the state the right to inspect NAACP records was a denial to the Association and its members of freedom of speech and assembly in violation of the United States Constitution.

The case arose last fall when Arkansas State Attorney General Bruce Bennett brought suit against the Association charging that for seven years the organization had failed to pay franchise taxes. The court granted a motion by the attorney
