

Former Durhamite to Get Degree In Theology from California School

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio — Rev. Ward S. Parham, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Parham of 412 Pekoe Ave., was scheduled to be awarded the degree of Master of Theology by the Berkeley Baptist Divinity School of Berkeley, California at the Friday, May 1st Commencement Exercises. Mr. Parham could not be present but the degree was to be awarded in absentia.

Parham attended classes part time at the Berkeley seminary while pastoring the Faith Presbyterian Church of Oakland. Since leaving he has finished a thesis, "Foundations for A Christian Education Curriculum for the Senior Citizen," which was accepted by the faculty in March. Aside from the class work, the thesis investigation required research from all sections of the country.

The Rev. Mr. Parham has pastored the Butler Memorial Presbyterian Church in Youngstown, Ohio for the past two years. He serves on the Evangelism and Christian Education Committees of Mahoning Presbytery, as Devotions Chairman of the Youngstown Ministerial Association, and Secretary-Treasurer of the International Ministerial Fellowship.

Beside the Butler Church, a mission called the Kimmel Brook

Community Church is flourishing under his leadership.

Home Economics Day For A and T

GREENSBORO — "Home Economics Day," to be observed at A&T College on Saturday, May 2, will draw some 200 school girls invited from throughout North Carolina.

Aimed at emphasizing opportunities available in professional Home Economics, foods, clothing, research and related fields, the day long program is being sponsored by the A&T College Department of Home Economics.

Mrs. Clara V. Evans, Chairman of the Department stated that the meet is to be conducted on the theme, "Unfold Your Future" and several nationally prominent figures in the Home Economics field will appear on the program.

The young visitors will also observe a fashion show of inexpensive school wear and will be guests at a picnic luncheon, formal dinner and the Festival Ball, the latter a feature of the Festival of Living program underway at the college.

QUALITY — During National Home Demonstration Week, May 3-9, these and millions of other rural homemakers will celebrate the quality of living they have helped to achieve for themselves and their families. Top left: Mrs. Annie M. Pitts, Newberry, S. C.,

Move to Better Living Conditions for Rural Families Is Theme of National Home Demonstration Week Obs

How the quality of rural family living has been improving will be the principal topic of discussion by nearly 7 million homemakers during National Home Demonstration Week, May 3-9, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Although rural home improvement among low-income families is not moving ahead at a rapid pace, many of these families also have much to celebrate, say officials of the Cooperative Extension Service. More than 4,000 Extension home demonstration agents work with low-income as well as other families, providing them with home economics research information from the Department of Agriculture, the land-grant Colleges and experiment stations.

Among these Extension workers are about 450 Negro home agents who conduct a year-round educational program with close to half a million colored homemakers. Achievements of these homemakers and their families include: Improved family relations, some home construction and modernization, better methods of food production and preservation, more nutritious family meals, and better home furnishings and equipment. Money for the basic improvements — such as home construction — comes from better farming methods, a variety of farm enterprises which provide year-round income, part-time off-farm employment, and through credit aid from USDA's Farmers Home Administration which made or insured housing loans for 7,450 white and colored families last year.

While some homemakers will be showing off their new homes during National Home Demonstration Week, others will be showing neighbors their new kitchen cabinets, reupholstered chairs, a new kitchen sink with hot and cold running water, a home freezer, rows of jars of home canning, or a new dress made for a daughter's graduation from high school.

Mrs. Annie M. Pitts of Newberry, S. C., for example, will have a group in to see her modern kitchen with cabinets, counter, shelves for potted plants and an ivory-hued radio with telephone to match.

The South Carolina demonstration house, where homemakers go and live and learn for a week, has stimulated marked home improvement all over the State.

In neighboring North Carolina, thousands of homemakers are leaving to put first things first in home improvement. Mrs. William H. Sumler of the Rocky Mount area, for example, was planning to buy a new dining room suite and living room sofa until her demonstration agent, Mrs. Margaret Wade got her thinking about the convenience of a kitchen sink with hot and cold running water.

Mrs. Sumler has now refurbished her old furniture and is going to make out with it for a while. But in the kitchen there is a shiny new sink and water is available at a twist of a wrist.

Moral Force Held Answer To World Woes

GREENSBORO — America's present difficult position in world affairs is not entirely hopeless an A&T College audience was told last week.

The speaker was Asa T. Spaulding, president of a Durham life insurance company and a United States delegate to the recent meeting of UNESCO held in New Delhi, India. He was dinner speaker at the annual ROTC Banquet-Ball given by the Joint Air Force-Army Cadet Officers Club and held at the College on Saturday evening April 18.

He said shrewd politics, diplomatic cleverness and even, power and force are not the solutions to our international problems. Only a rededication to high moral and spiritual values in our dealings with each other and with other peoples of the world can restore this country to its rightful place of leadership among the nations of the world.

"Our position," he said, "is not hopeless, but we must, as soon as possible, return our relations to the highest Christian plane, securing justice for all, regardless of race, creed or color, replace love for hate and practice the ideal of democracy."

Medical Care Said Too High

WASHINGTON, D. C.—AFL-CIO President George Meany Monday congratulated the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare on his Report on Health Benefits which "cuts through the fog of poisonous misinformation" circulated by opponents of the Forand bill (H.R. 4700).

Meany said Secretary Flemming's report provides "overwhelming statistical evidence" supporting labor's claim that retired workers cannot afford the rising costs of medical care.
