

Charles Brown Is New National Juniors ATA Champ, Everson Wins Girls Event

Charles Brown, North Carolina junior tennis champion for the past three years, captured the American Tennis Association junior singles championship here last Saturday.

Brown defeated third-seeded Benton Johnson, of Detroit, 6-0, 6-4, 6-1 to win his first national title.

Topseded boys singles player in the 74 field tournament, Brown narrowly escaped upset at the hands of John McGill of Louisville, Ky. in the semi-finals.

He dropped the first set of the exciting semi-finals match to the Kentuckian, 1-6, and was down four games to none in the second when he started a rally which turned the tide.

The young Durhamite came from the 0-4 second set deficit to win it 9-7. After a brief rest, Brown disposed of McGill, 7-5 in the deciding of the two of three sets.

Unranked Charles Berry, of Washington, D. C., parlayed a daring net game and an endless array of ground strokes to battle his way to the top in the boys 13-15 singles.

After his first victory, an easy upset of seeded Biff Henderson, of Durham, the spectators sensed a major upheaval was due in this division. Berry went on to conquer Sid Moore, of Hampton, Va., 6-0, 6-4 in the finals.

Sidney Glass, of New York, defeated his brother, Luis, 2-6, 6-2, 6-0 to win the boys under 13 singles title. Then the two brothers teams to capture that division's doubles championship from Frank Russell and Wilbert Parker. Scores were 6-1, 6-0. They were defending champions in the doubles.

Paul Kelly, of Durham, and Albert DeLome of Atlanta, Ga., won the 13-15 boys doubles title beating Sid Moore and Biff Henderson, 6-1, 6-4.

In the boys 15-18 boudler Michel Bibb and John McGill, both of Louisville, defeated singles champ Brown and Drew Williams, of Detroit, when the latter duo retired after dropping behind two sets to one. The scores at the retirement were 9-7, 6-0, 6-4.

In the girls section of the tournament, Darlene Everson, of Detroit, and Lucy McEvans, also of Detroit, extended their domination of the girls section of the tournament which they started last year.

Marlene, one half of the victorious 15-18 girls doubles team last year, stepped in to the shoes left vacant by her sister, Darnella, last year's singles champion, and defeated Carolyn Archey, of Winston-Salem, 6-2, 6-2 for the girls 15-18 singles title.

Then, she and McEvans conquered Edith Gill, of Philadelphia, and Carolyn Archey, 6-1, 7-5 for the 15-18 doubles championship.

McEvans also successfully defended her 15-13 singles championship by taking the measure of Judith Prince, of Hawkins, Tex., 6-2, 6-2 in the singles finals.

Other scores in the girls section of the tournament were as follows:

UNDER 13 SINGLES: Bonnie Logan, of Durham, over Doris Morgan, of Raleigh, 6-2, 6-4.

13-15 DOUBLES: Imogene Williams, Hawkins, Tex., and Judith Prince, Hawkins, Tex., defeated Margaret Cannon, Hawkins, Tex., and Patricia Brown, Hawkins, Tex., 6-0, 6-0.

UNDER 13 DOUBLES: Beryl Sanson, of Durham, and Bonnie Logan, of Durham, defeated Margaret Cannon and Doris Morgan, 6-1, 6-0.

GOLF HONORS — President Eisenhower last week was the recipient of three gestures of honor from the United Golfers Association. Above, Special Presidential Assistant Earle Chesney, left, holds UGA honorary membership plaque, while youth golfers Francis Barrett, Jr., front left, and Alan Kendrick, Washington, D. C., display special citations having been presented the President. Others standing on the White House presentation are, left of Mr. Chesney, Mrs. Paris B. Brown, UGA tournament director, Washington, D.C., Francis Barrett, Pittsburg golf pro and father of Francis, Jr., Dr. George W. Adams, Washington, D. C., who was first UGA president, and Franklin T. Lett, UGA president, Detroit, Michigan. Mr. Barrett is pro at Pittsburgh's North Park Golf Course.

Eisenhower Is Honorary UGA Member

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The President of the United States is now an honorary member of the United Golfers Association—so named because of his interest in golf as a "wholesome and relaxing sport."

In addition to a specially designed plaque, Eisenhower received two additional citations, one of which named him "Worthy High Commander" of "The Royal Order of Golfers" and a second wishing that he "might someday enjoy the thrill of a hole-in-one."

The latter two citations were signed by youth golfers Francis Barrett, Jr., Pittsburg, Alan Kendrick, Washington, D. C., and Charles Sifford, Los Angeles.

Franklin T. Lett, UGA president, Detroit, Michigan, was head of a seven-man delegation which called at the White House to deliver the honorary membership plaque and citations for the President.

Special presidential assistant Earle Chesney received the tokens of honor in behalf of Mr. Eisenhower in a ceremony on the south side of the White House.

The 33rd annual tournament of the NGA will be held at Langston Golf Course, August 24-28, according to information issued by Howard Anderson, Toledo, Ohio, who is a UGA vice president and chairman of the association's tournament committee. A second course will be used by the tournament in order to accommodate the large number of entries which is played in nine divisions.

Albany State Grid Card

ALBANY, GA.—An ambitious nine-game schedule will face the Albany (Ga) State Golden Rams, according to Head Football Coach and Athletic Director O. W. O'Neal, Jr.

The addition of Bethune-Cookman and Livingston College mark the first new opponents for ASC since 1952. Bethune-Cookman Whipped Albany, 54-0, in the Tropical Bowl last year.

Southeastern Athletic Conference competition has been narrowed since Florida N and I dropped football, leaving only Claffin, Morris, Paine, and Savannah State as SEAC foes to face the Rams on the gridiron this fall.

Other non-conference games are with Miles, Edward Waters, and Fort Valley State.

The schedule: September 26, Miles at Birmingham;

Oct. 3, Bethune-Cookman at Albany; Oct. 10, Edward Waters at Jacksonville; Oct. 17, Paine at Augusta; Oct. 31, Savannah State at Savannah.

Nov. 7, Livingston at Albany (Homecoming); Nov. 14, Morris at Sumter, S. C.; and Nov. 28, Fort Valley State at Albany (Thanksgiving).

Ex-NCC Gridder Keys Canadian Team Victories

Clifton (Satellite) Jackson, All-American halfback on North Carolina College's CIAA 1958 runner-up football club, and Ernest "Hands" Warlick, NCC's All-CIAA end in the early 50's, were cast in opposing grid roles in Canada earlier this month as the pro Canadian clubs began their exhibition games.

Jackson, running with the first offensive unit of the Edmonton Eskimos along with Jackie Parker and Johnny Bright, was a key figure in the Eskimos' two victories over Warlick's Calgary Stampeder by scores of 15-10 and 33-7.

Jackson, in his rookie season in the play-for-pay ranks after capping a brilliant four-year collegiate career, is being counted as a potent offensive weapon to bolster the Eskimos' attack.

Warlick, in his third season with the Calgary eleven, is a main stay in the Stampeder's offensive attack.

James "Buck" Forbes, an All-American guard last season at NCC, is also battling for a berth on the Edmonton team.

Rain Curtails Play in Recreation League; Pepsi Nine Finishes 2nd Perfect Year; Play-offs Start

Rain sharply curtailed action in the Durham recreation league last week as all teams readied for the season-ending tournaments.

Play-offs were slated to start in the Midget, Pony and Community softball league this week.

In the old timers' Slow Pitch league, play-offs were pushed back another week because the last week's schedule was rained out. Only three games were staged in the Midget league and two in the Pony League last week. The Community League saw the most action, with all of its teams finishing at least one game.

The Slow Pitch League's schedule was completely rained out.

As the season's play ended, the following teams finished as pennant winners of their leagues: White Rock Toppers, Community League; and Edenezer Baptist Church, eastern division, Midget League.

The Pepsi-Cola team finished the season without a defeat for the second straight year. They posted a 13-0 record in the Pony League.

Top two teams in each division of the Midget League were slated to face each other in a single elimination to determine the right to enter a best two out of three championship series.

Ebenezer was scheduled to face the Boys Club, and Parker-Garret Drugs was to go against Walltown at two o'clock Wednesday at Walltown school. The championship series gets underway at Walltown school on Thursday in the Midget league between winners of Wednesdays games.

Pepsi-Cola and Lyon Park opened a best two out of three game series on Monday for the championship in the Midget League. Pepsi-Cola won the right to enter the finals by eliminating North Carolina Mutual 3-1; and Lyon
