

Central District Student Band Clinic Conducted at A&T College

GREENSBORO—The Central District of the North Carolina Band and Orchestra Directors Association held its student clinic at A. and T. College in Greensboro, Saturday, February 3rd.

L. C. Dowdy, acting president of the college welcomed some three hundred high school musicians to the campus and gave them some encouraging words about importance of gaining all possible knowledge of music while in secondary school.

Auditions were given to select members for two clinic bands. The top performers were assigned to the class A-B Band, and others qualifying were assigned to the class C-D band. Each band consisted of about seventy musicians.

Sectional practice was held from 10:00 to 11:30 a.m., followed by full band rehearsals of each band at 12:30.

At 2:15 p.m. the bands were presented in concert in the Richard B. Harrison auditorium. J. J. Williams conducted the class C-D band in several selections including Sonnet for Band by Gordon, Phelip; and Spiritual from Symphony No. 5 and half by Don Gillis.

Walter F. Carlson, Jr., acting music department head at the college conducted the class A-B band in several selections including: Nabucco Overture by Verdi-Caillet, and Die Meistersinger (Excerpts) by Wagner-Osterling. Students demonstrated a definite progress in their knowledge and performing of music in various degrees of difficulty.

Clark A. Eerton, director of Lincoln High School Band, Chapel Hill is chairman of the clinic and festival for the district. He was praised highly for the great success of this year's clinic.

Directors serving as clinicians were: Roland W. Green (Carver, W-S); Bernard Foy (Paisley, W-S), flutes, Charles Bowling (NCC, Durham) oboes, bassoons; Joseph T. Mitchell, James Morgan, (Dudley, Greensboro), O. U. Moore, (Central, Hillsboro), clarinets; Alexander Watson, (Church Street, Thomasville), Odell Sheffner, (Washington, Reidsville), saxophones; Richard H. L. Jones, (NCC, Durham), horns; John Windley, (Jordan-Sellers, Burlington), Sylvester Bynum, (NCC, Durham, student), cornets; Jasper Y. Bell, (William-Penn, High Point), Leon Goldston, (Central, Ashboro), Henry Joy (A. and T. Greensboro), Johnny Hodges, (Florence Jr. High Point), trombones, baritone, basses; J. J. Williams, (A. and T., Greensboro), percussion. Rudolph V. Boone, (Columbia Heights, W-S) served as librarian.

Other directors attending and serving in various capacities were: Calvin R. Harris, (Lincoln Jr. High, Greensboro), Wallace Clark, (J. J. Jones, Mount Airy) and Leonard B. Tillman, (Caswell County, Yanceyville).

The directors met briefly after the concert to discuss plans for future clinics. Mrs. G. C. Perry, a representative of Stanley's Music Shop, Kinston, talked with the group.

J. Y. Bell, (Wm.-Penn, High Point) is chairman of the Central District and presided at the meeting. J. T. Mitchell, (Hillside, Durham), also a director in the district is president of the state association. He gave some remarks during the meeting. Arrangements were made under the direction of W. F. Carlson, Jr. and J. J. Williams.

The District Festival will be held at A. and T. College, Saturday, April 7. The State Music Festival will also be held at A. and T. College, Friday and Saturday, May 4 and 5th.

68 YEARS OF FAITHFUL SERVICE

Two long-time staffers at the Fayetteville State Teachers College who have accumulated a combined total of 68 years of service to the college and the community, retired recently and were cited at the Assembly period yesterday.

They are (left) David Galbreath who served as custodian and Mrs. Mae H. Seabrook who is the wife of Dr. J. Ward Seabrook, formerly Deand President of the College. She is a well-known teacher of biology.

Each was literally showered with gifts from faculty, friends, and students. President Rudolph Jones spoke in laudatory terms of their fine record of service to the college.

Man Posing as Funeral Director On FBI's Ten Most Wanted List

WASHINGTON UPI—Watson Young Jr., who has been an inmate of seven mental institutions and is sought for double murder and rape, was added today to the FBI's list of 10 most wanted criminals.

Young, described by the FBI as a homicidal maniac, has been hunted since Dec. 14 when he allegedly shot to death an elderly Indianapolis couple who had befriended him. The 30-year-old Negro is accused of raping a housewife and terrorizing two year-old daughter within minutes after the murders.

The FBI said that Young, a one-time Marine, has been classified as a "schizophrenic paranoid" and is known as a sexual pervert.

He is described as an extreme-

Ousted Student Vows to Continue Fight For Rights

DAWSON, Ga.—A young volunteer worker for the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee has vowed to continue his fight to get Terrell County Negroes registered despite intimidations and beatings.

Robert Patterson, 17-year-old former student at Dawson's Carver High School, said this week that "I have a conviction that each man should be judged by his worth and not by the color of his skin."

Young Patterson, whose civil rights activities with SNCC have gotten him expelled from school and slapped and kicked, is working in Terrell County with SNCC Field Secretaries Charles Sherrod and Cordele Reagan.

They have been in the area since October, 1961, and are conducting voter registration classes for Negroes. Only 68 Negroes were listed as registered voters in Terrell County in 1960.

MEET THE DEAKES

Three From Durham On "A" Honor Roll At A&T College

GREENSBORO — Three Durhamites earned places on the A. and T. College honor roll for the first quarter. The three are James W. Mitchell, Roginald Mitchiner and Dorcus Bradley. All are Hillside High School graduates.

"The Deakes" Is Answer Of Merrick-Moore Boys to Gang

By Edith G. Autry

Merrick-Moore High School has endeavored to equip its students with a good academic background, character, and to further kindle the desire for education. It further establishes recognized clubs to promote potential leadership and develop deeper appreciation for democratic ideas.

In May, 1961, a group of young men formed an alliance to aid in transportation to the Junior-Senior Prom. They soon began to draw up plans for social activities, and then Thomas Lipscomb suggested that they form a select club, thus the Deakes came in to existence.

They elected officers and ranked each member according to certain criteria Army style (that is, Capt. Lt., Sgt., etc). The code of ethics written in the minds of each Deake is one of honor, loyalty and respect. There is nothing that a Deake would not do for a fellow Deake.

Their parents favorably endorse the club as they feel it is properly chartered and it gives their sons a sense of security and belonging.

Their interests are wide and varied - sports, girls, reading, girls, cars, girls and academic improvement. Each Deake participates actively in school and the community. Each young man is an exceptional dancer.

With five cars at their disposal, each Deake sees to it that no member is without transportation. To sponsor entertainment, the members furnish the necessary items and use one of their homes, provided they state a before and after clean-up campaign.

The members are Earl Hinton, Charles Daye, Thomas Lipscomb, Herbert Holloway, Freeman Holloway, Robert King, Cleveland Hinton, Larry Holman, and Michael Harris. They are careful to convey the idea that they are a club, not a gang.

They are leaders in local and state organizations. Hinton is president of the Merrick-Moore National Honor Society, president of the Library Club, and an active member in student government and sports. He is State Treasurer of the North Carolina Association of High School Library Clubs.

Daye is governor of Boys

Ala. Sit-In Cases Go To Supreme Court

NEW YORK — The U. S. Supreme Court was petitioned last week to review the cases of 10 Negro youths who conducted lunch counter demonstrations in Birmingham, Ala. in March 1960.

The youths, on March 30, 1960, sat in groups of two's at five store lunch counters in Birmingham: Pizitz's, Love-man's, Newberry's, Kress's and Woolworth's.

The "sit-inners" were asked to go to counters reserved for Negroes and when they refused, were arrested by city police. There was no disturbance at any of the demonstrations.

The youths were convicted in Recorder's Court of the City of Birmingham for "trespassing after warning" and later sentenced to thirty days hard labor and $100.00 fine by the Circuit Court of Jefferson County.

FLAMELESS ELECTRIC CLOTHES DRYERS

Here are some reasons why the flameless electric clothes dryer is so popular.

Save on Clothes

Fewer washable clothes are needed because they can be washed and dried in a hurry when you have an electric clothes dryer.

Save on Cost

A flameless electric clothes dryer actually costs less to buy. Fewer moving parts mean less to go wrong, less maintenance.

No Lugging, Stretching

No more lugging of heavy baskets of wet wash... over two tons a year. No more bending or stretching to hang up and take down wash.

No Fading

Flameless electric clothes dryers can't fade clothes colors, even delicate blues. Clothes remain safe from sun-bleaching and wind-ripping.

Select your modern flameless electric clothes dryer soon from your favorite electric appliance dealer or Duke Power.
