Autopsy Held As Infant Dies In Oxford

OXFORD — An autopsy was ordered conducted on the body of an infant whose death took place Saturday at a farm home near Stem.

Granville County Coroner Grover Sanders revealed Tuesday that a man and a woman, who live together, are being held pending outcome of the investigation.

They were identified as James Hawley, 35 and Ruth Davis, 30, who reside together near Stem.

Granville sheriff Roy Jones said the infant, two to three months old, looked like "skin and bones" when discovered.

He said Hawley and Miss Davis told him they had fed the child before sundown Saturday when they went away leaving five other children at the home.

Shot In Argument White Man Held In Slaying of Tenant Farmer

BURLINGTON — Kenny Gravite, 64, of Rt. 2, Burlington, was charged with murder Tuesday in the death of a Negro tenant farmer killed with five shots from a .25 caliber pistol.

Alamance County Sheriff Joe Cole said that Gravite, a white farmer, shot Wadell Turner, 44, following an argument in a tobacco field.

An autopsy performed by Coroner Lewis Strickland showed that Turner was struck by five bullets.

The argument, which officers said developed over a squabble among some white and Negro children, occurred in a field where Turner was pulling tobacco and Gravite was tending it. Authorities said Gravite claimed Turner threatened him with a tobacco stick.

Grand Jury Indicts Three For Murder

There men were indicted for murder by the Durham County Grand Jury this week.

They are Lafayette Turrentine, O'Neal Reams and Willie Davis.

Turrentine, 32 of 225 and half South Miami Boulevard, is charged with chopping his next door neighbor to death with a hatchet.

Cleveland King was the victim of the assault.

The indictment against Reams charges him with the shotgun slaying on Aug. 12 of Eugene Douglas Pratt, of 802 Elizabeth St. during a fight at the Doshia McNeill house on Faye St.

Hall, 61, of 612 Meade Place is charged with the shotgun killing of Jack Lawson, 37.

FREED AFTER 18 DAYS McKissick and Horton Busy With Plans for More Demonstrations

Joycelyn McKissick and Guyanna Horton were busy making plans at mid-week to appear at rallies in North Carolina and New York to tell the story of their 18 day jail term in Durham in the Howard Johnson's restaurant struggle.

The two, who served 18 active days of a 30 day sentence imposed for "trespassing" at the restaurant near Durham, were released from the County home where they worked out their sentences on Saturday.

On hand to greet them at the County Home Saturday were contingents of CORE and youth NAACP members and a special delegation from the N. C. Ushers convention.

McKissick and Horton were visibly moved when they stepped of the front door and were greeted by nearly 300 persons who had gathered to welcome them back to freedom.

Their eyes welled with the water momentarily, then they burst into broad smiles.

The girls appeared very trim and alert, despite an 18 day stint in which they put in at least 12 hours of work each day.

Former Church Leader Faces Embezzlement

GREENVILLE — H. R. Reeves, former moderator of the United Free Will Baptist Association and Pitt County School principal, was arraigned here last week on charges of embezzling more than $13,000 from the church over a three year period.

Reeves, who was moderator of the church for six years, surrendered himself to officers here Thursday.

He was jailed following completion of investigation and will face recounts of fraud in Lenoir and four other charges in Pitt counties.

He is accused of taking more than $13,000 from church funds during 1953 to 1960.

Reeves was once the general moderator of the United Free Will Baptist Church of America, the denomination he is accused of embezzling out of $13,000-plus from 1953 to 1960.

A Pitt county grand jury on Tuesday indicted the former church official for allegedly pocketing $1,023.31 in church funds. The next day, a Lenoir jury indicted Reeves for embezzlement.

N. C.'s Chief Executive to Appoint Bi-Racial Negotiations Committee

RALEIGH — Governor Sanford entered the current struggle over integration of restaurant facilities in the state last week with the promise to appoint an interracial committee to help settle the issue and a call to leaders of both races to "go to work" in resolving the differences.

Sanford's announcement of the appointment of a committee and his plea for interracial cooperation came in a statement issued following a conference between him, CORE National director James Farmer and leaders from both races.

The conference was called by the Governor as a result of a series of demonstrations and arrests around Howard Johnson restaurants throughout the state.

The NAACP and the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) have been conducting a month-long campaign in North Carolina seeking to open service at Howard Johnson's restaurants to Negroes.

Demonstrations have been held in Durham, Raleigh, Charlotte, Greensboro and Statesville. Nearly a score of persons have been arrested.

In announcing his intention to appoint an interracial committee to work on the problems, the Governor indicated that it would not confine its efforts to Negroes.

Total of 17 are Convicted In Three Cities

A total of 17 persons were convicted this week of "trespass" at Howard Johnson's restaurants in three North Carolina cities.

The largest number, 13, was convicted at Statesville. Three were convicted in Durham and one in Charlotte.

All of the convictions grew out of demonstrations against exclusion of Negroes from Howard Johnson's restaurants on highways near the three cities.

In Statesville, 18 persons were tried this week in connection with demonstrations staged in that city in the past several days.

Among those convicted in Statesville was the Rev. B. Elton Cox, of High Point, North Carolina field secretary for CORE.

Also included was a white man, Frank Arthur Nelson, whose hunger strike forced Statesville authorities to transfer him to Central Prison in Raleigh for hospitalization.

Nelson, in protest over the arrests, had gone 11 days without eating, early this week.

In Charlotte, seven juveniles were haled before Judge Willard Gatlin on charges growing out of demonstrations at the Howard Johnson's restaurant near here.

Confirmation of Marshall Faces More Delay

WASHINGTON — Sen. Olin D. Johnston, D-S. C., Friday ended the marathon hearings on the nomination of Thurgood Marshall to be a federal judge amid increasing threats to wrest the appointment from Johnston's Senate Judiciary subcommittee.

The hearings ended after six sessions spread out over nearly four months.

"Amen," said Phillip A. Hart, D-Mich., "and thank heaven." Johnston gave little indication when the subcommittee might act on the nomination of Marshall to the 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals in New York.

He said he would summon the three-member subcommittee "soon", to decide on a course of action. He said the subcommittee might want to wait for the printing of the record.

Judge Marshall's supporters may not wait, however.

Five members of the parent subcommittee, led by Hart and Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N. Y., said they would move to discharge the subcommittee at the next meeting of the full committee.

Keating said that if this maneuver failed, an effort would be made to bring the nomination directly to the Senate floor for a vote.

Two More Accept Jail, In Durham

Three more young persons were convicted of trespass at the Howard Johnson's restaurant near Durham this week as three others completed 30 day sentences for a similar conviction.

Convicted this week were Candida Lall, 19, Larkspur, Calif., Mrs. Frances Thomas, 20, of St. Augustine, Florida and Michael Pinto Duschinsky, Miss Lall and Mrs. Thomas, like three others convicted earlier, elected to serve the jail terms faster than pay the $25 fines.

In addition to the conviction on trespass, Duschinsky was also convicted of assault and battery on deputy sheriff Marvin Davis. He was fine $25 and costs for trespass and $10 and costs for the assault charge.

The three were arrested Thursday night when they were among a group of demonstra-
