Durham Matron Nosed by Miss Hattie White In Move to Top Slot

At the close of the tabulation Wednesday noon Mrs. Ruby Devine nosed by Miss Hattie White to take the top position in the second week of the Carolina Times Subscription Contest. Mrs. Devine held third place last week and her jump to first place, although by a slight margin, only gives evidence that she is to be reckoned with as a strong contestant.

Mrs. Dickerson, of Margarettsville, who last week held second place, is not to be taken for granted. It is believed that she definitely has something up her sleeves and bears close watching by all contenders.

There is strong indication that the contest is going to be a neck and neck affair with each contestant at present, holding a position that places her or him in easy reach of one of the three big prizes. Top prize in the contest is a brand new 1963 Ford Falcon; second prize is a brand new color television set with the third prize being $300 in cash.

Mrs. Ruby Devine, Durham	465,000
Miss Hattie White, Durham	445,000
Mrs. Maude V. Dickerson, Margarettsville	415,000
Mrs. Odester Moore, Greensboro	290,000
Mrs. Sylvia Outlaw, Roxboro	195,000
Mrs. Mattie T. Lakin, Gastonia	195,000
Mrs. Louise Lassiter, Rocky Mount	180,000
Mrs. Inez Minor, Chapel Hill	90,000
Rev. Z. D. Harris, Durham	90,000

HIS POSITION IN "OLE MISS" CONFLICT Meredith Tells Why

JFK Urged To Stand Firm

PARIS — Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, called President Kennedy from Europe this week that "it is unthinkable that there should be any deviation from the firm course thus far pursued by your administration" in the Mississippi crisis.

The Association has played a key role in the efforts of James H. Meredith to gain entry into the University of Mississippi.

Tar Heel Troops In Mississippi

Several North Carolina contingents are among the 10,000 troops sent to restore order in Mississippi following riots on the "Ole Miss" Campus Sunday.

Included are a military police company and elements of the 82nd Airborne Infantry of Fort Bragg. Both units are heavily integrated.

(This statement was written by James Meredith in New Orleans on September 26 while he waited to begin his third try to enter the University of Mississippi in Oxford. We have reproduced it without alteration or revision.) "In this time of crisis, I feel it appropriate for me to clarify my position as to my intention, my objectives, my hopes and my desires.

"For several months I have been involved in a struggle to gain my admission to the University of Mississippi. The prime objective is, of course, to receive the educational training necessary to enable me to be a useful citizen of my own home state of Mississippi.

"There are those in my state who oppose me in my efforts to obtain an education in the schools of my state. They do this because I am a Negro and Negroes are not allowed to attend certain schools in my state of Mississippi. The schools that we are forbidden to attend are the only ones in the state that offer the training which I am desirous of receiving.

"Consequently, those who oppose me are saying to me, we have given you what we want you to have and you can have no more. Except, maybe, they say to me, if you want more than we have given you, then go to some other state or some other country and get your training.

"Pray tell me what logic concludes that a citizen of one state of the United States must be required to go another state to receive the educational training that is normally and ordinarily offered and received by other citizens of that state. Further, what justification can possibly justify one state assuming or accepting the responsibility of educating the citizens of another state when the training is offered to other citizens of the home state?

"We have a dilemma. It is a matter of fact that the Negroes of Mississippi are effectively NOT first-class citizens. I feel that every citizen should be a first-class citizen and should be treated as such.

Scholarships For Divinity School Set Up at Duke

The Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation has established a fund in the Divinity School at Duke University to provide scholarships for Negro students. Establishment of the fund is thought to be a "first" in American education in the South.

While many other southern universities accept Negro students, Duke is believed to be the only one at which scholarships are provided for students of the Negro race.

Duke began to accept Negro students only two years ago.

Matthew A. Zimmerman, Jr., 21 year old freshman in the Divinity School, was announced as the first recipient of the Babcock grant this week by Divinity School Dean Robert E. Cushman.

Students Picket Governor Sanford At Hillside and Durham High

Four Turned Away as Gov. Spoke in Iredell

Students from the Durham and North Carolina College NAACP chapters picketed Governor Sanford's appearance at two Durham high schools last Friday.

About eight students carrying signs which called for an end to segregation marched in front of Hillside and Durham High's campus as the Governor's party arrived.

Sanford ignored the pickets and greeted local school officials at both schools prior to entering the schools. See SANFORD, 4-A STATESVILLE — Three Negro ministers were barred from hearing Governor Sanford in his address here at the all-white Statesville High School last week by city police, it was reported this week.

Reverends W. Wilson Lee, J. C. Harris and R. R. Woods said they were prevented by police last week from entering the white school's auditorium where the Governor made one in a series of state wide addresses on his quality education program. The three said they were threatened with arrest by police chief W. T. Ivey when they were reluctant to leave after having been ordered to.

The Governor stopped in Statesville last week for addresses in his recently concluded state wide "stump" for his quality education program. He made separate appearances at the (white) Statesville High School and the (Negro) Morning side high school.

He was greeted by a group of about 60 student pickets. See TREDWELL, 4-A
