Kinston's 200th Birthday Event Snubbed by Race

KINSTON — Negroes staged a near complete boycott of the celebration of this town's 200th birthday last week while federal, state and local officials attempted to smooth over a racial insult to an invited guest from Jamaica.

Approximately 35 members of the Kinston Youth NAACP picketed Granger stadium, terminal point of the city's bi-centennial parade last Thursday, in protest over segregated arrangements made for participation of Negro citizens in the event.

Only two or three Negroes, reportedly from out of town, took part in Thursday's celebration which was featured by a parade and a ceremony at Granger stadium.

Plans had been made, according to reports, to have Negroes participate in the parade to depict the slavery era in the town's history.

The dissatisfaction over segregation in the celebration was heightened by the reported snub of a Jamaican official by the city's leading hotel.

Congolese Official is Greeted By Civic Leaders in Durham Visit

Jason Sendwe, assistant to Congo premier Cyrille Aduola, arrived in Durham Wednesday afternoon for a two day stay in the city.

Sendwe is currently on a tour of the South to observe the role of Negroes in the commercial life of the region. He is the guest of Mechanics and Farmers bank president John H. Wheeler during his stay in Durham.

The Congolese official was met at the airport Wednesday by a delegation of civic leaders and entertained at a dinner at Schrafft's restaurant Wednesday evening.

On hand for the affair were several civic and political dignitaries and business and community leaders.

They included Mayor E. J. Evans, Senator Claude Currie, City Manager George Aull, County Manager E. S. Swindell, City Councilman John S. Stewart, Rev. E. T. Thompson, president of the Durham Ministerial Alliance, S. T. Castleman, senior vice president of Wachovia Bank, Mrs. E. C. Turner, vice president of North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company, and executives of several other Durham business firms.

Sendwe made brief remarks at the dinner. He was introduced by Wheeler.

The Congolese official was scheduled to hold a press conference Thursday morning. He will leave Durham sometime late Thursday or Friday for Atlanta.

Mrs. Lassiter is board member and chairman of District 7-Group 1 of the Woman's Home and foreign Missionary Convention, original president of the Shiloh Missionary Auxiliary and librarian in the Oxford City Library.

Mrs. Minnie C. Lyons will present the speaker.

Appearing on a symposium will be sisters Laha Williams, Berna Dunnegan, Wilma Bryant and A. L. Filmore

Gate City CORE Opens Action Against Stores

GREENSBORO — A protest march through the city on October 11 in which hundreds of persons participated, has set off a boycott of downtown stores.

Initiating the boycott was the Greensboro CORE group, which for three weeks has been mass picketing the Mayfair and S. & W. cafeteria in an attempt to gain service for Negroes.

In a letter to the Merchants Association, William Thomas, chairman of Greensboro CORE wrote: "We are requesting that you use your influence in order to help us in our efforts. Should you be unwilling to do this, then we have no alternative but to launch a selective buying campaign against the entire downtown area."

Stanley Culbreth, executive vice president of the Merchants Association announced that Thomas's letter had been referred to store managers but the association was taking no action. The boycott of the downtown area resulted.

Strange Slaying Of Ex-Durhamite In Pa. Unsolved

The killing which has baffled detectives is that of Brodie Lipscomb Jr., of 7748 Monticello St. in Pittsburgh, Pa., on Monday, October 15.

Lipscomb was found dead in his parked car on Brinton Rd. in Braddock Hill with bullet holes in his arm and cheek. His car motor was still running when discovered.

Lipscomb is the son of Mrs. Helen Lipscomb of Pittsburgh and Brodie Lipscomb of Hampton, Va. He formerly lived in Durham with his grandmother, Mrs. Millie Lipscomb of Pickett St. and attended Hillside High School.

Shaw Univ. Issue To Confront Baptists Again

WINSTON-SALEM — The problem of relations between Shaw University and the State Baptist convention is expected to claim major interest of delegates to the annual State Baptist convention here next week. The convention opens on Wednesday. The Rev. R. M. Pitts, president, will conduct the oration. See SHAW, 6A

Nine Contestants Trail Closely As Prize Derby In Final Lap

Miss Hattie White of Durham nosed out Mrs. Ruby Devine for top position in the already red hot Carolina Times subscription contest this week. With only one more week to go and the closing hour set for six o'clock Saturday November 3, the contest manager will call in extra help to take care of the avalanche of subscriptions that are expected to flood the office of the Carolina Times.

As it now stands, it is hard to tell who will be the winners of the three top prizes. So close are the standings of the ten top contestants that any one of them could walk off with the brand new Falcon, for the first prize; the brand new color television for the second prize, or the $300 in cash for the third prize. In fact the contest manager will not be surprised if a dark horse enters the picture at the last moment and walks off with one of the top prizes. Rumors are going the rounds that some of the contestants are holding back until the last minute when they expect to shoot the works in an effort to win the Ford Falcon.

The relative standing of contestants this week is as follows:

Miss Hattie White, Durham	1,694,000
Mrs. Ruby Devine, Durham	1,668,000

MILDRED BLACK—"MISS HHS HOMECOMING"

Hillside Picks Queen, Prepares For Annual Homecoming Thursday

Miss Mildred Black, pert 18 year old senior coed member of 12-4 homeroom at Hillside High School, has been elected to reign as Miss Hillside Homecoming for 1962 and will be officially crowned on Thursday night, November 1, at Durham County Memorial Stadium during half-time activities of the Hillside Georgetown football clash.

The Hillside homecoming queen, President of the Industrial Cooperative Training Class, is an active member of the school's Vocational Club, and the Mt. Olive A.M.E. Zion Church. She is also a former member of the Hillside Band and a former majorette.

Miss Black is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Black of 1216 Sedgewick Street.

The Queen will be attended by Misses Gladys McDonald, and Delores Nicholson.

Miss McDonald, 18, is a member of 12-2 homeroom and is an active member of the Dramatics Club and the Oak Grove Free Will Baptist Church where she serves as President of the Junior Choir and secretary to the Junior League.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Corbett, reside at 1104 Glenn Street.

Miss Nicholson, 17, is a member of 12-4 homeroom where

Chatham Kids Die While Mom, Dad are at Work

Four Negro children were burned to death when fire destroyed their Chatham County home Tuesday. Acting Coroner A. D. Hartsell ruled the deaths accidental.

Robert Junior and Mary Jane Graham, the children's parents, were away at work when the home burned. The house was on the farm of Frank Goodwin on Route 3, Apex, in the Martha's Chapel section.

The mother told Chatham Sheriff John Emerson she left Evelyn Joyce, 5; Vivian Anne, 3; and Napoleon, 1 in the charge of Ella Louise, a retarded 16 year old. She added that she had built a fire in a stove earlier but told the children not to put any more wood in it. She left at 7:30 to work on the George T. Yates Farm in the home community.

When she returned home about 3 p. m. the mother found the three room house burned to the ground and all four children dead.

Edenton Leaders Vow to Fight Picket Laws

EDENTON — Civil rights leaders in this northeastern North Carolina community have vowed to defy a new city ordinance restricting peaceful picketing.

The ordinance, passed by the Town Council, is avowedly aimed at persons protesting segregation.

It states that no one can picket a residence or place of business in Edenton without applying to the town clerk for a permit 24 hours in advance. If the permit is granted, it costs $10. If anyone pickets without a permit, he is subject to a $200 fine or 30 days in jail.

Edenton is following a pattern spreading throughout the South. A number of cities have adopted laws restricting picketing.

In a joint statement, Norman L. Brinkley, local NAACP president, Golden A. Frinks, Edenton civil rights leader, and Frederick H. LaGarde, regional representative of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, labeled the Edenton ordinance as "unfair, unconstitutional... and in clear violation of every citizen's right to peaceful protest under the First Amendment to the U. S. Constitution." They added:

ANSWERS WHITE EDITOR—Harper's magazine editor John Fleisher several weeks ago pointed out in an article appearing in that publication a list of things Negroes of America needed to do to make themselves palatable for integration. John Fleming (above) answers Fleisher's article in this week issue. See page 2-A, "What the White Men Needs Most..."

STATE NURSES CONVENTION — Here is a cross section of delegates to the annual North Carolina State Nursing Association convention now in session at the Jack Tar hotel in Durham.

The convention opened on Tuesday and is scheduled to end on Friday. On Wednesday afternoon, delegates heard Mrs. Judith Whitaker, of New York, executive director of the American Nurses Association, deliver an address at an afternoon meeting. Business sessions and committee reports were slated to occupy delegates on Thursday and Friday.
