State-wide Confab on Resource-Use Set to Open at N. C. College

The fifteenth annual meeting of the North Carolina Resource-Use Education Conference will convene at North Carolina College at Durham, November 15, 1962. The one-day conference will begin at 9:00 a. m., in B. N. Duke Auditorium.

In making the announcement recently, Dr. Theodore R. Speigner, director of the college's Division of Resource-Use Education and state chairman of the conference, said: "The 1962 State Conference will feature address by national resource-use education personalities at four general sessions, clinics, workshops, institutes and a student symposium, with the express purpose of emphasizing resource-use methods and techniques for improving the quality of learning and living in the Space Age."

The general theme for the fifteenth annual meeting is "New Frontiers in Resource-Use Education for our Times." The first general session, held in B. N. Duke Auditorium at 9:00 a. m., will feature a student symposium conducted by seniors from participating high schools on "A Need for Conservation of Natural Resources in the Space Age."

The second general session begins at 11:00 a. m., in B. N. Duke Auditorium. Presiding will be Professor J. V. Morris, principal of Mary Potter High School, Oxford. Mrs. Marie C. Moffitt, assistant state supervisor of home economics education, State Department of Public Instruction, Raleigh, will deliver the principal address on the subject, "Launch Out Into the Deep."

The third general session, which begins at 2:00 p. m. in B. N. Duke Auditorium, will feature the keynote address by Dr. Joseph L. Fisher, president, Resources For The Future, Inc., Washington, D. C. # Roanoke Man Says Musician Violated Pact GREENSBORO — A $25,000 civil action charging Ray Charles with breach of contract was filed in Greensboro Superior Court Monday by Oliver W. Arnold, of Roanoke, Va.

Arnold said he and Charles entered into a written contract for the popular singer to perform in Roanoke last September 16. He said he paid Charles $1,750 when the contract was signed and agreed to pay more later.

Arnold said Charles failed to perform.

His complaint asked that the court issue an attachment to Thalhimer-Ellis Store in Greensboro.

R. Kent and Jim Crockett of Charlotte who promoted the Charles show here Sunday. Tickets for the Charles show were sold at Thalhimer-Ellis Store and the coliseum.

Founders Day Rites at NCC Honors Shepard

A distinguished educator warmly praised the North Carolina College faculty and student body Monday, Nov. 5, for their accomplishments but warned sternly against complacency and relaxed standards of performance and hammered insistently on the need to achieve scholastic excellence.

Dr. William C. Archie, director of the North Carolina Board of Higher Education, Raleigh, speaking at the college's fifteenth annual Founder's Day observance, talked on the subject, "Excellence Without Excuse."

Sketching the 52 year history of the college, which was founded in 1910 by the late Dr. James E. Shepard, he cited the growth of the college's enrollment, its faculty, programs and its physical facilities, saying, "You have been fully accredited since 1937, have added graduate programs, professional schools and have won your well deserved reputation as one of the best institutions for Negro youth in the land."

"When the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges, at long last, got around to admitting to full membership institutions for non-whites, you were among the first."

Despite this progress and educational stature, he believes, dissatisfaction with present quality is imperative, for "all would agree that in spite of our progress, our growth, our improvements, we are not yet where we want and need to be," he said, quoting statistics to illustrate North Carolina's leadership in the higher education of Negroes in the south.

Other features of the convocation were presentation of "The Occasion" by Dr. Bascom Baynes, chairman of the NCC board of trustees; the traditional "Truth and Service" ceremony, by President Alfonso

Baptists Pick Pitts Again

WINSTON-SALEM — North Carolina Baptists voted an endorsement of Dr. R. Mack Pitts administration here this week by returning him to office and endorsing a nine point program he submitted.

The convocation also worked out a program which it hopes will ease strained relations between the Baptist convention and Shaw University.

These were the highlights of the 96th annual state meeting of the General Baptist Convention of North Carolina, held here last week.

Dr. Pitts, pastor of Shiloh Baptist Church, was re-elected to a fourth term as president.

GOP Hopefuls Barnes, Browne Fall Short

Two Negro candidates, The Rev. E. T. Browne and Alexander Barnes both running on the Republican party ticket, failed in their attempts to unseat Democratic incumbents in two Durham races Tuesday.

Rev. Browne, pastor of one of the largest Negro Baptist churches in the city, ran the stronger of the two candidates, but he was defeated by a 3,000 vote margin. Browne ran with the endorsement of the Durham Committee on Negro Affairs while Barnes did not.

Making his maiden entry into politics, Browne ran on the GOP ticket for County Commissioner and polled 5,085 votes. He finished sixth in a nine man race for five seats on the Commission. His nearest successful rival was incumbent Dewey Scarborough, Democrat, who was returned to his seat with a vote of 8,429.

Alexander Barnes, a veteran Republican campaigner, fared worse than Browne. He ran a poor third in a three man race for Durham's two representatives to the State Assembly.

Barnes polled 3,782 votes, while the winners, incumbent Democrats E. C. Brooks, and Nick Gallitankis got 9,810 and 10,166 votes respectively.

The only other Negro in the Durham race, L. E. Austin, won election easily as Justice of the Peace. Austin also ran on the GOP ticket.

There were no Negro candidates on the Democratic slate. The failure of Browne and Barnes to win the GOP ticket

Family Left Homeless By Durham Fire

An 11-member family was left homeless Monday night when fire destroyed their Red Mountain Road residence, near Bahama, at 9:30 o'clock.

The two story frame dwelling occupied by the Macco Bullock family was declared a total loss by fireman who answered the alarm from Durham and Bahama fire units.

Bullock and his wife reportedly were in a nearby pack house when the flames erupted in the second floor of the house. The couple's nine children managed to escape without injury and firemen credited 12 year old Linda Bullock with saving the lives of her three year old brother and her five month old sister by carrying them from the burning structure.

The cause of the fire was undetermined.
