Ex-Scout John Glenn with Explorers

Durham Division Scouts Record Gains in Nation-wide Campaign

Astronaut John H. Glenn, Jr., said "Scouting offers you a world of opportunity to learn and do exciting things." My son is an Eagle Scout and my daughter is a Girls Scout. I'm involved in Scouting myself as an Associate Advisor for an Explorer post and my wife, Annie, was a Den mother for some years.

Seven of the last 9 astronauts just appointed are former scouts and two of them Eagle scouts. Our president and all members of the cabinet have been active in scouting as boys and leaders.

In Durham many boys and young men have joined the boy scouts in our "GO" round-up so far this fall.

The "GO" round-up seeks to invite more boys into the game of Scouting so they can enjoy the fun, romance, and adventure it makes possible. Existing units have been adding new boys at a steady clip.

New units organized this year are as following: Pack, Troop and Explorer Post 191, sponsored by the St. Matthew C. M. E. Church, Rev. J. L. Thomas, pastor. Pack 295, St Joseph A. M. E. Church, Rev. M. C. Swann, pastor. Troop 114, sponsored by the Orange Grove Baptist Church, Rev. Henderson Amey, pastor. Explorer Post 296, sponsored by Fire station No. 4, George King, Institutional representative. Pack, Troop and Explorer Post at Pilgrim Baptist Church, Rev. Willie T. Thorn ton, pastor.

Henry W. Gillis, Durham district scout executive said a child's mind is like a garden, the seeds you and I plant therein grow either into weeds or flowers and both are hard to dig out.

The scouting movement brings into this partnership with local institutions proven programs, well-known deals, effective leadership training, qualified professional help, a neighborly local council organization, and the prestige of the movement now nearly 83

BAND PARENTS

The Band Parents Club of Merrick-Moore high school will hold a meeting at the school on Dec. 17. The meeting will follow the school's regular PTA meeting.
