National NAACP Confab to Handle Important Issues

WASHINGTON — Approximately 2,000 delegates are expected to attend the 55th annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, to be held here June 22-27 at the Statler-Hilton Hotel.

Major attention of the convention will be focused on political action and the problem of poverty. Delegates will also be concerned with education North and South, employment, housing and financing the NAACP.

Major addresses during the five-day meeting all will be delivered by Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP who will deliver the keynote address, Monday night; Carl Rowan, director of the United States Information Agency; Jack Greenberg, director-counsel of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc.; and Mrs. Medgar W. Evers, wife of the slain NAACP Mississippi field secretary.

An entire day Tuesday, June 23, will be devoted to the problem of political action. In the morning delegates will hear from Hubert H. Humphrey (D., Minn.), Majority Whip in the U. S. Senate; and Thomas H. Kuchel (R., Calif.) Minority Whip in the Senate.

In the afternoon delegates, assembled in regional workshops, will discuss various aspects of political action including ways and means of accelerating the Association's nationwide voter registration drive.

On Tuesday evening the coveted 48th Spingarn Medal, awarded annually to an American Negro for distinguished achievement, will be presented to Mr. Wilkins. Dr. John Hope Franklin, chairman of the Department of History of Brooklyn College, Brooklyn, N. Y., will deliver the main address of the evening.

On Wednesday, June 24, delegates will turn their attention to the problem of poverty with major addresses by Sargent Shriver, special assistant to the JACKSON, MISS. — A federal judge this week issued a temporary restraining order requiring University of Mississippi officials to admit 18-year-old Cleveland Donald, Jr., a Negro transfer student for the University's 1964 summer session, which began June 11. Acting on a motion brought by NAACP Legal Defense Fund attorneys, Judge William Harold Cox of the Southern District of Mississippi enjoined further efforts to block Donald's immediate admission, thereby opening the door for the third Negro to enter that state's university.

In 1962, James H. Meredith became the first Negro to enter a previously segregated Mississippi college after lengthy litigation. Meredith graduated in August, 1963. In June 1963 Cleve McDowell became the first Negro to enter the University of Mississippi Law School, but was expelled in September after being apprehended with a gun on campus.

Donald is thus the only Negro in attendance at Ole Miss, as Legal Defense Fund attorneys are currently appealing McDowell's expulsion to federal court. They contend that McDowell had a right under state law to have a gun while traveling on the state highways.

EFFORTS TO CONTINUE
Legal Defense Fund attorney Derrick A. Bell, who appeared last week on Donald's behalf, indicated that he was extremely pleased with Judge Cox's decision and stated, "We shall continue our efforts to see that the door remains open for all Negroes."

Gerrymandering Under Fire Before Stanley

In an action in the United States Middle District Court here Monday, June 15, before Judges Edwin M. Stanley and Eugene Gordon, Negro attorneys presented oral arguments for 100% desegregation and the removal of gerrymandering lines within the Durham City school districts.

Another fact of the case is that Negro attorneys intend to object to the exclusion of Negro school personnel from the plan of desegregation offered by the school board.

Marshall T. Spears, Sr., appearing for the school board, argued that Negro pupils should be assigned to the school in the district in which they reside, but if they should not like such school, then they should be permitted to go to any school they like.

Judge Stanley, speaking to the argument of Spears stated that, "this would fall within the purview of gerrymandering." That is, arranging school districts to accomplish an unlawful purpose, namely, segregation in the public schools.

Judge Stanley also stated that, "there must be no lines of gerrymander present within school districts, but rather realistic lines in conformity with federal law."

To do otherwise would be to contravene federal decisions, he said. In substantiating his statement, the federal jurist also stated that, "deliberate speed" should no longer be read into the Brown Case. "The time has long expired for its usage."

James Nabrit of the Legal Defense and Educational Fund, arguing for the Negro petitioners, in calling for 100% desegregation, asked that children be

By-Pass of Holmes as Recreation Head Brings Disappointment

Negro citizens of Durham were profuse in their criticism of city officials this week because of their failure to name Irvin R. Holmes as head of the city's recreation department.

Holmes has served in the department for 17 years and his name had been frequently mentioned as a successor to Harold Moses, who recently resigned. Instead of appointing Holmes, City Manager Hughes named Roger Brown, 29 year old Georgian, as Moses' successor. It was learned that Brown will report for work July 20.

Negro leaders question on the matter this week were in agreement that so far as qualifications are concerned; the only reason Holmes was not appointed to the post is because of race. This was denied, of course, by City Manager Hughes of Durham, when questioned on the matter by the Carolina Times.

Holmes is now director of the W. D. Hill Recreation Center of Durham and is considered by many as an authority in the field of recreation.

Negroes Barred From Dan Moore Political Supper

BURLINGTON — Two Negro men, J. W. Morrison of Graham and Edward J. Coleman of Burlington, who appeared at the Sunday, June 12, supper for gubernatorial candidate Dan K. Moore, were denied admission to the Burlington Moose Lodge dining room.

Roger P. Ingram, in explaining the denial of admission, stated that the supper was a private affair and that letters of invitation were mailed to those who attended. "Because we were limited in space," he said, "we mailed letters asking for replies in order to know how many we had to serve. It was not a public meeting."

Officials of the Moose Lodge said that they had no part in the supper except to handle the catering service. They further said that the lodge had endorsed no candidate, and officers of the lodge took no part in political activities in the name of

U. S. Supreme Court To Hear Louisiana Anti-Subversion Case

NEW ORLEANS, LA. — The United States Supreme Court this week accepted jurisdiction in the case of Dr. James A. Dombrowski and the Southern Conference Educational Fund vs. James H. Pfister et al appealing a ruling of a majority of a 3-Judge Federal Court refusing to hold unconstitutional the Louisiana anti-subversion statutes under which Louisiana integrationists and organizations are being persecuted.

The SCEF, a nationwide, integrationist organization, but asked the 3-Judge Court to restrain the enforcement of these statutes which were being used to destroy the civil rights movement in Louisiana.

Under these 1964 statutes the headquarters of SCEF and its officials and their homes were ransacked, and the officials were indicted and now face criminal prosecution with possible maximum sentences of from 10 to 30 years at hard labor.

The Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth, president of SCEF, commenting on today's announcement by the Supreme Court said: "This case raises the most serious questions concerning the role of the Federal Courts in the deep South in defending the constitutional rights of integrationist organizations and their leaders."

"The board of directors of the SCEF is convinced that the

Giles County, Virginia First to Abolish School Segregation

RICHMOND, VA. — Giles County will become the first Virginia locality to eliminate segregated schools next fall.

Tuesday the state Pupil Placement Board assigned all of the county's 131 Negro students to white schools. Plans are being made by the county school board to close the two Negro schools. It was not immediately apparent what would happen to the Negro teachers.

Some 410 other Negro pupils in Virginia were also assigned by the placement board to predominantly white or all-white schools. In 11 localities those assignments will mark the first local desegregation. Giles County has total enrollment of approximately 4,500.
