

WATCH OUT, NICKLAUS!
Trophies Won By Acers, 9 and 10

In the good old summertime
In the good old summertime
They'll be making holes-in-one,
Kids of ten and nine,
We'll be flailing at the ball
Bogies will do just fine,
But they'll be shooting aces
In the good old summertime.

Mike Richardson

Julie Welch

What's happening to the game of golf—is the younger generation taking over completely? The sub-juniors have been scoring an astonishing number of holes-in-one, on courses from Nova Scotia to California.

Trophies for youngest boy and girl ace shooters in the 1964 national Life Savers Hole-In-One Awards competition were won by Mike Richardson, 9, who holed out on the 157-yard, third hole at Lake Side Country Club, Wendell, N. C., and by Julie Welch, 10, who aced the 130-yard, seventh hole of the Lake Hills Country Club, Billings, Montana.

Runners up, each of whom received a certificate signed by the Life Savers Awards Committee headed by Arnold Palmer, included Debbie Miller, 10, of Elysberg, Pa.; Jan Hockett, 10, of Grass Valley, California; Ron McMillan, 11, of Flint, Michigan; and Richard J. Alampi, 13, of Pennington, N. J.

The "Hole-In-One of the Year" trophy in the Life Savers competition was won by James Craver, a University of Iowa student, whose ace clinched a sudden-death tournament play-off. Other trophies are given for "Odd-Ball" holes-in-one, longest holes-in-one, and aces by the oldest as well as the youngest.

Race Relations Insti. to Open In Nashville

The 22nd Annual Institute of Race Relations at Fisk University will convene June 28 to July 10. Dr. Herman H. Long, Institute director and president of Talladega College, announced on Saturday June 12.

This year, the two week institute will include as speakers Edward R. Roybal Representative, 30th District of California and a member of the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs; His Excellency Sir Ellis Clarke, Ambassador for Trinidad and Tobago to the United Nations and Philleo Nash, Commissioner of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Department of the Interior.

The institute will present, in addition, more than fifteen other nationally and internationally known scholars and community leaders. Dr. Herman H. Long will keynote the institute on Monday, June 28, with an address, "Human Rights in the Great Society."

Long said of the institute: "The Race Relations Institute, begun in 1944, has attempted to relate the knowledge and theoretical insights developed by the social sciences to practical programs for breaking down the barriers and removing the inequities which have so long kept Americans of different background strangers to each other."

Hugh Curry, left, of Tampa, Fla., last week whipped Louis Glass of Jackson Heights, New York, in the championship event of the Greensboro Invitational Junior Tennis Tournament held at Greensboro.

Glass took the lead by winning the first set 6-4, and led 3 love in the second set before losing 6-3. Curry took the third set 7-5.

Nat Cole's Last Movie Shows His Vast Talent

NEW YORK—Giving of the enormous talent that was his—acting and singing, is perhaps the way Nat King Cole would want moviegoers throughout the world to remember him, and talent comes forth in his starring role in Columbia Pictures' "Cat Ballou."

Nat King Cole was one of the foremost entertainers in show business, and was extending his deep interest in a straight acting career before the cameras when he accepted Producer Harold Hecht's offer to portray "The Shouter," a picturesque character of the western wide-open spaces of the "nineties" in "Cat Ballou."

In the hilarious comedy, which is emerging as the biggest comedy in the history of Columbia Pictures, Cole and Kaye recount in song and words the ballad of Cat Ballou. Cat is Jane Fonda, a school teacher turned leader of an all-male band of outlaws.

Cole's acting-singing starring assignment is a highlight of the sensational Western spoof, produced by Hecht, and directed by Elliot Silverstein.

In addition to Jane Fonda, stars of the Columbia release are Lee Marvin, Michael Callan, Dwayne Hickman, Cole and Kaye.

World audiences will see, and remember Nat King Cole, for during the past 10 years he traveled to over 20 countries in concert appearances, winning enormous respect and admiration wherever he went.

Late in 1963, Cole who had personal discussions with both President Lyndon B. Johnson and the late John F. Kennedy, a rare honor for an entertainer, received an extraordinary tribute when California Congressman Augustus F. Hawkins read into the Congressional Record a special commendation, pointing out the fact that "his unique voice and his own remarkable presence have made him a great ambassador of good will without portfolio for our country."

TWICE CHAMPION — Bonnie Logan, right, the tennis whiz from Durham, last week twice defeated Elizabeth Sloan of Winston-Salem, in the 16 and 18-year old events to take championships in both, at the Greensboro Invitational Junior Tennis Tournament held at the Greensboro Latham Park. Miss Logan won 6-0 and 6-2 in the 16-age bracket and 6-2 and 6-4 in the older event.

PROTESTS U. S. MARSHALS' PARTICIPATION

JACKSON, Miss.—The participation of four U. S. marshals, headed by Jack Stuart, in the mass arrests of freedom marchers on June 15 drew a strong protest from CORE National Director James Farmer.

"This action by federal officials is all the more shocking in that the march was directed against the Mississippi legislature's contrived effort to subvert the pending federal voting rights bill."

NYU SPONSORS INSTITUTE TO AID NEGRO MANAGERIAL SCHOOLS

NEW YORK — To strengthen programs in business and the managerial sciences at predominantly Negro colleges and universities, New York University's Graduate School of Business Administration is sponsoring a six-week Summer Institute in Business Administration which started Monday, June 21 at Nichols Hall, NYU's graduate business center, 100 Trinity Place, Manhattan.

Participating are 41 educators who will attend an intensive series of courses and seminars aimed at restructuring and enriching the business studies curricula at their respective schools. The visiting teachers represent 33 predominantly Negro colleges and universities in 13 southern and south central states.

Dr. Joseph H. Taggart, executive dean of NYU's schools of business, pointed out that there has been a broad expansion in career opportunities on the ex-
