

Jehovah's Witnesses To Give Youth Bible Training In N. Y.

By G. M. Stokes
Should the Bible be watered down for youths? Not according to Jehovah's Witnesses. To prove it, thousands of Witnesses from the north-eastern U. S. are bringing their children with them to New York's Yankee Stadium the week of August 24-29 to listen to six days of Bible discussion during their "Word of Truth" convention.

One such family group is Mr. & Mrs. Walter Rouse, and their 3 children, who live at Route 3, Box 390, Durham. Thousands of families like them will be filling Yankee Stadium. A large part of the audience will be small children who will sit quietly in their seats through two and three hour long sessions, listening to discussions of varied Biblical subjects.

When charged with placing undue restrictions on their children, Witness parents point to the present noisy generation of teenagers with its empty indifference, its frug and watusi. They ask, "Could most tension filled adolescents, with jazz-blaring radios glued to their ears, listen quietly to even five minutes of scriptural instruction?"

Said Rouse: "We have a number of small children who regularly attend the five weekly Bible instruction meetings at our Kingdom Hall, so they have been already well trained to listen quietly."

As a matter of fact, he said, "it is now an accepted fact that children born to our missionaries learn to speak several languages at a tender age. We heard of one eight year old girl who could speak and understand Siamese, Finnish, English and Chinese! A young mind able to master such difficult languages certainly has the capacity to absorb intensive Bible training."

Mrs. Rouse added: "If a child can learn how to be a criminal before he reaches the age eight, then a very tender age is none too soon to start teaching him to live by Bible principles. Some parents believe this can be accomplished by sending the child off once a week for an hour of religious instruction with other youths. The witnesses believe this is the parents' daily responsibility." She continued: "The general trend of Bible instruction today is to give children coloring books or reduce the Scriptures to words in the mouths of the comic-strip characters. One such book ask, 'What's Bugging Ole Pharaoh?' and pokes fun at a serious narrative. Pharaoh is no cartoon character to our youths. We patiently help them grasp the deeper meaning of such Bible accounts. The Witnesses have good reason to be proud of their youngsters; notably well behaved. Hundreds of such youthfully trained men and women are helping to staff the Witnesses' 90 branch offices throughout the world. Many more hundreds are serving as missionaries all over the globe and as the religious group adds tens of thousands to its ranks each year, more opportunities are opening up for youths. The Rouse youngsters hope to share in similar work one day.
