

KILGORE

NOTED CALIF. THEOLOGIAN SHAW SPEAKER

RALEIGH — "There is no place in the emerging Great Society for Negro colleges," a noted theologian told some 200 Baptist ministers and leaders in attendance at a special convocation at Shaw University last Friday morning.

"Shaw University, and all similar colleges, must be prepared to serve all those who need service, regardless of the race, class or creed," declared Dr. Thomas E. Kilgore, pastor of the Second Baptist Church of Los Angeles, California.

Speaking at a special convocation climaxing the 1964-65 financial program conducted by the pastors of the state in connection with Shaw University's Centennial Development campaign, the former executive secretary of the General Baptist State Convention of North Carolina told the audience that schools like Shaw need to go "mining" among the youngsters whose college entrance examinations fall below the 600 mark. "Here in this group lie many good and talented minds," he said. "They simply need to be taught to pass tests."

Many of our small schools make the mistake in attempting to become little Harvards or little Yales," Kilgore declared. "What they really need is an educational curriculum that is

HAYES . . . Surfcasting

MOUNT VERNON MAN WINNER OF SURFCASTING

OCEAN CITY, Md.—John Hayes of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., one of the nation's top surfcasters, won first honors in conventional surfcasting against rigid competition July 24 in the Ballantine-Garcia Surfcasting For Accuracy Tournament.

Hayes scored 53 points in the tourney sponsored by P. Ballantine and Sons and The Garcia Corp. to win the hotly contested all-day match. Not only was there a stiff wind blowing but Hayes competed against a field of fifty Atlantic Coast's surfcasting experts including Paul Mumford of Ocean City who holds the world's record in the accuracy tournament with a score of 95 out of a possible 100.

Hayes has placed high in many of the surfcasting for accuracy tournaments, which have been held from Massachusetts to Maryland for the past few years.

The sport has grown to such popularity among surfcasting enthusiasts that there always is a surplus of sportsmen and women seeking spots in the competition.

Competitors cast at five box targets of varying sizes and at varying distances to score.

The importance of accuracy for successful fishing has been increasingly recognized by experts. The men and women who compete in the tournament not only sharpen their accuracy, but win valuable prizes. There are both individual and club trophies awarded for each contest.

The schedule of events for the balance of the 1965 season is as follows Aug. 21—Rehoboth Beach, Delaware; Sept. 11—Annapolis, Maryland; Sept. 18—Seaside Heights, N. J.
