Dr. G. Edwards Joins Scientists To Form 4 Regional Colleges

BHUBANESWAR, India — Dr. Gerald A. Edwards, chairman of the Department of Chemistry at A. and T. College, Greensboro joined a team of specialists in science here last week to establish four regional colleges of education.

The program called "The Ohio State University Education Project In India," is sponsored by the United States Agency for International Development.

The colleges once established will seek to up-grade science education in India by re-training college science teachers especially at the teacher training colleges. Dr. Edwards said, "the objective of the four man team is to provide advice and assistance to the development of the four regional colleges of Education as leadership institutions for science and technical in India." The project is interested in four main areas at the outset, (1) agriculture, (2) Commerce, (3) Technology and (4) Science. The project will ultimately include the development of graduate programs to prepare competent teachers for other colleges.

Dr. Edwards will return to the United States to deliver a paper on August 3 to the 7th International Congress of Nutrition and to make a report to the Committee on minimum standards for teacher certification of the National Chemical Society.

In September Dr. Edwards will return to India where he will serve as a specialist in chemistry for two years at the Regional college of Education in Mysore.

Urban League to Hold 2-Day Confab on Integrated Education

NEW YORK — A two-day School Administrators Conference on "The Community and Integrated Quality Education," co-sponsored by the National Urban League and Teachers College, Columbia University, under a grant from the U.S. Office of Education, is being held in New York City, July 17-18, at the Hotel Roosevelt.

The Conference will be attended by four representatives of each of the 76 cities in which there are local affiliates of the National Urban League. They are the Executive Director of the Urban League, the President of the Board of the Urban League, the Superintendent of Schools and the President of the Board of Education.

In a background paper prepared for consideration by the Conference it is stated that it is time that emotional charge and counter charge give way to thoughtful, reasoning cooperative effort if the educational institution is to serve the children of all the people. The school cannot continue as the center of racial strife if we would make it responsible for the quality, integrated education we ask. The school that serves all the children must serve each child as an individual.

It is further stated that the school may not any longer remain aloof from changes in other societal institutions. Their interrelationship is painfully evident. Only constant communication and the institutionalizing of cooperative procedures can reduce the educational lag.

"It is hoped that this conference will set in motion new techniques for maintaining a dialogue, extending the area of cooperation and fostering continuing patterns of coordinated efforts. The paper con-

JULIAN BOND PROUD AND PLEASED AT DECISION U. S. SUPREME COURT

ATLANTA, Georgia—Julian Bond said today that he was "proud and pleased" at the decision of the United States Supreme Court to review the case against his unseating in the House of Representatives of the Georgia State Legislature.

It is expected that the Supreme Court will reach a decision in October.

Mr. Bond said this week: I am of course proud and pleased that the Supreme Court has decided to hear my arguments against what I am positive is a patent denial of the constitutional rights of myself and my constituency. The popularity or unpopularity of an elected official's political views is no criteria for expulsion from the legislative body of Georgia.

I do not like to think that the Georgia State Legislature is setting itself up as the judge for who shall represent the sixth legislative district. If it is allowed to do so, then the rights of the citizens of that district to decide on it's representation will have been completely negated.

I am sure that the Supreme Court will uphold my position, as will my constituency in the coming November elections.
