GREENSBORO—The A. and T. Aggies, last week, opened the 1967 baseball season in catastrophe, dropping three consecutive contests to Marietta College of Ohio, in a single game on Saturday and a double header on the following Easter Monday.

Superior pitching by the Ohio club all but silenced Aggie bats during the three engagements. Holding A. and T. to nine hits, including a one-hitter in the nightcap on Monday.

In the meantime, the Marietta outfit touched Aggie pitchers for a total 31-bingles, 13 each in the final two games.

In the opener on Saturday afternoon, the Aggies were edged 4-3, losing in the ninth as Jerry Rubbo was waved home for the winning tally on a balk by Aggie pitcher, Ronald Bowden, breaking a pitcher's duel which saw both teams go scoreless beginning at the fifth frame.

In the other contests, Marietta won 13-2, and 4-0.

Mel Groomes, Aggie head coach, began shaking up his squad in preparation for the regular conference schedule which gets underway this week.

A TEEN-AGE ATHLETE ordered a whole pizza for lunch. "Should I cut it into six or eight pieces?" asked the waitress.

"Better cut it in six—I'd never be able to eat eight pieces!" Catholic Digest—March.
