START CLUB MEETING WITH SUPPER FROM FREEZER

When the next club or committee meeting is scheduled at your house, invite the guests to come early for a supper that can be enjoyed while the agenda is discussed. With convenient frozen prepared foods that require only defrosting or heating before serving, it takes little effort to provide a meal that's festive and tasty.

So that the meal will not interfere with the program, limit the selection of food to a few items. Frozen main dish pies—available in a choice of sizes and fillings including chicken, turkey, tuna and beef—are an excellent choice. For dessert, consider a rich and filling frozen cake, pie or other pastry.

The menu illustrated above features individual Beef Pies, topped with sour cream and frozen chives after baking, and Pineapple Cheesecake Torte, made quickly and easily by stacking two pineapple cheesecakes together.

GOOD HARVEST

The Pilgrims observed the first Thanksgiving, in 1621, to give thanks for a bountiful harvest. Today, many Americans give thanks by taking bundles of used clothing and bedding to a local Catholic church during the 1967 Catholic Bishops' Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign. The great harvest of goods will be distributed to the poor of 80 countries without regard to race or creed.

STITCH IN TIME

Serviceable used garments donated to the 1967 Catholic Bishops' Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign can be used in sewing classes in 80 countries, where people will learn a vocational skill.

VIETNAM AID

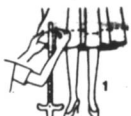

One fourth of the used garments given last year to the Catholic Bishops' Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign were distributed in Vietnam. Many of the items collected again this year will go to innocent victims of the war.

STEP-BY-STEP LESSON:

How to Hem a Pleat

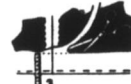

Pleats are "sew-fashionable." Pleats can look pert and perky with a swingy bounce, or soft and suitably elegant. A pleat may stand alone as a design detail or be one-of-many for a classic kilie look. Here's the last word on how to hem a pleat which involves a seam, too.

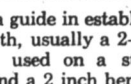

Try on your "all-but-hemmed" garment with the shoes you plan to wear. Have someone mark the hemline at a fashionably becoming length for you (Step 1).

Turn up the hem along this marking and baste 1/4 inch from the hemline to hold it in place. Press the basted hemline to establish the edge (Step 2).

Next, trim the hem to an even width. Measure up an even distance from the hemline with a ruler and mark this with a chalk pencil. Cut along this marked line (Step 3).

As a guide in establishing the width, usually a 2-3 inch hem is used on a straight skirt, and a 2 inch hem on a gored skirt.

Clip the seam allowance at the top of the hem, cutting almost to the stitching. Snip and remove the hemline basting for 2-3 inches on either side of pleat seam (Step 4).

Working on the ironing board, with the wrong side of the garment uppermost, turn down the hem allowance. Press open the pleat seam below the clip. Trim this part of the seam allowance to 1/4 inch to reduce the bulk in the hem caused by the pleat seam. This step enables you to have a lump-free hem (Step 5). That's all there is to it—quick and easy, but an important handling technique to know. Now just finish the hem as you would for any skirt, using a turned and stitched or dressmaker's hem.

How To

Help Your Child "Join The Band"

It's time to join the band, it's time to find out what instrument a child should play. Are his arms long enough for trumpet? Is his jaw properly shaped for trumpet? Should it be clarinet, flute, or bass horn? The world's largest manufacturer of band instruments, has recently published a booklet for parents, answering these and many other questions.

Modern math, the museum trip, and patrol duty aren't the only new experiences of fourth grade. As sure as popplesides drop, your fourth grader will be offered a seat in the Beaver Band. When he races home to ask if he can join the band, what will you say?

Your decision doesn't particularly depend on whether or not you think your child is talented. A gift for music is more lavishly distributed among children than most parents realize. If you decide to enrich your child's life through music, you'll discover you are enriching your own experiences, too.

The school band director will carefully test your child's aptitude for music and his relevant physical characteristics—size and shape of mouth, lips and teeth. This helps determine which instrument would best suit the child.

Instrument rental programs, available at leading music dealers, will provide valuable time for you to be sure the right instrument has been chosen.

At about fourth grade you will have the opportunity to choose whether your child shall have music now and for all his life. In making this choice you will commit yourself to a genuine interest in his complete education. Most likely he will be challenged by music and will respond to it. While your child may become a lawyer, housewife, or kindergarten teacher, he will never forget the days of the Beaver Band.

A pamphlet to help you make this decision is "An Enriched Life for Your Child through Music," from the Conn Corporation, the world's largest manufacturer of band instruments. It answers questions most parents have about instrumental music and their child. You can have a copy by sending 25¢ for postage and handling to Conn Corporation, Elkhart, Indiana 46514.

Spotlight on HEALTH

Heart Disease... Or Gas?

Everybody swallows air and thinks nothing of it, but it can be overdone—overdone to the point at which the symptoms produced are similar to those of gallbladder or heart disease.

Researchers attending a recent New York Academy of Sciences conference reported that swallowing of air which doctors call aerophagia may be the chief cause of gastrointestinal "gas." The situation may be exaggerated by smoking, hurried swallowing of food and drink, and emotional tension, anxiety, or chronic fatigue.

Too much carbonated beverages—soda or beer—and food with air whipped into it, such as milk shakes, souffles, sponge cake, and whipped cream, all contribute to the quantity of air ingested.

Various vegetables also can contribute to the amount of "gas" in the digestive system. This results from the fermentation of fibrous foods in the intestines.

Doctors at the conference said that among the "gassy" foods are broccoli and other members of the cabbage family, peas, beans, cucumbers, onions, melons or, for that

SOMEONE CARED

A shirt that has not been mended and patched—perhaps the first he has owned in his life—is a sign to this old man in a Calcutta home for the aged that someone cares about his plight.

India is just one of 80 countries where poverty-stricken people receive clothing, shoes and bedding donated by Americans during the annual Catholic Bishops' Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign.

All clothing received will be distributed throughout the year to the world's needy, regardless of race or creed. Leave a bundle of serviceable used garments at the nearest Catholic church during November.

NOTE TO EDITORS

During November the nineteenth annual Catholic Bishops' Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign will be conducted throughout the United States. It is an appeal to all Americans to donate their serviceable used clothing, bedding, blankets and shoes to help alleviate poverty in 80 different countries around the world where millions of men, women and children are in dire need.

The cooperation which you have so generously given to this appeal in past years is again sought for the 1967 Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign.

Clothing and other items that Americans have discarded because they are in need of mending or are no longer in style become gifts of hope to the helpless and destitute in the vast underdeveloped and needy areas of the world. These used garments mean that a man can find work or go on working to support his family... that a child can go to school without shame... that people will have protection against winter cold, seasonal rains or the blazing tropical sun.

All clothing and material donated to the Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign will be packed, shipped overseas and distributed to the needy by Catholic Relief Services, the overseas aid agency of American Catholics, which is the world's largest private voluntary relief organization, operating programs of relief and rehabilitation in 80 countries. Distribution is made entirely without regard to race, creed or color.

Reception depots will be set up during November in Catholic parishes across the nation. The nearest Catholic church will accept donations of serviceable used clothing, shoes, bedding, blankets and household items.

Any garment in wearable condition, any useable blanket or item of bed linen, and all shoes in good repair will be gratefully received and sent to those in need.
