Founder's Day Observed by Delta Sorority

Sorors of Durham Alumnae and Alpha Lambda (North Carolina College) Chapters, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., celebrate Founders Day jointly in the form of a banquet at the North Carolina College cafeteria, January 31, at 7:15 p.m. Mrs. Alice Stewart, president, Durham Alumnae Chapter, presided. The program was highlighted with remarks from Mrs. Jennie Taylor, who is a past South Atlantic Regional Director of the sorority, and presently, vice-president, Durham Alumnae Chapter.

Other sorors appearing on the program were, Barbara Howard, President Alpha Lambda Chapter; Lillie Cobb, Alpha Lambda, Emmalene Reade, Chaplain, Durham Alumnae Chapter and all undergraduate sorors who sang special selections.

Mrs. Alberta Pitts, a member of Durham Alumnae Chapter is advisor to the Alpha Lambda Chapter, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, at North Carolina College. Mrs. Geneva Stanback served as chairman for the Founders Day activities.

Success seems to pay for success, as I see it, from observation of those who are successful.

THRILL THAT WILL ALWAYS BE REMEMBERED — What could thrill boys 8-11 years old, more than a ride on this Troop Carrier Airplane at Pope Air Force Base, Fort Bragg? These Cub Scout boys are invited guests for a full day on tour at Pope Air Force Base. Each year boys in the Oconeechee Council Scouting Program are invited to spend time seeing what makes the Air Base tick.

ROW, ROW, ROW YOUR BOAT — These two Boy Scout campers are learning the skills of canoeing, while enjoying the cool breeze blowing over the camp lake. Swimming and canoeing is a regular part of camping each summer for boys that are seeking merit badges for advancement in their respective rank and unit. A full program is conducted at camp for this purpose.

Challenging Programs Arranged in Scouting

When recent research showed that some of the achievements and electives for the Wolf and Bear ranks were no longer popular in the Cub Scout program, changes were provided that should give boys a richer experience in things they do.

Originally, the requirements for achievements and electives were the same, but Cub Scouts were expected to improve their performance as they advanced in rank. As the things they were called upon to do did not vary from year to year, some boys tired of the repetition.

"Studies showed that 8-year-olds are interested in certain areas; 9-year-olds, in others," said G. B. Russ, Cheyenne Leaf District, Cub Commissioner. "The improved programs take the activities that are popular with 8-year-old boys and geared up the Wolf program to them. Then they did the same thing for the Bear rank with things 9-year-olds like."

In the Wolf program only one achievement—Tying Things—remains as it was. The Scrapbook achievement has been dropped, and two new ones—Conservation and Religious Activities—have been added. While remaining achievements have been revised or expanded, two of them—Helps in the Home and Know Your Neighborhood—have become a single achievement called Your Home and Community.

Nearly all the Bear achievements are different from the old ones. The new 12 achievements for this rank are: Wildlife Conservation, Woodworking, Using Rope, Outdoor Games, Traffic Safety, American Heritage, Family Get-Together, Cub Scout Fitness, Writing, American Folklore, Religious Activities, and Protection.

Electives for the Wolf and Bear ranks have also been changed. Each rank now has 20 electives. Only one has the same requirements for Wolf and Bear. It is the Sports elective covering such popular pastimes as baseball, boating, archery, skating, and basketball.
