Congress; Alexander Barnes, County Commissioner; H. M. Michaux, Jr., N.C. House of Representatives (Seat 3) and J. C. "Skeptic" Scarborough, III., County Commissioner and Asa T. Spaulding, County Commissioner.

All these candidates are subject to the May 4th Democratic Primary except Alexander Barnes, an uncontested Republican who is subject only to the general election in November.

The Rally was presided over by John H. Wheeler, Chairman, Durham Committee on Negro Affairs, who has long been recognized as a business and political leader in North Carolina.

Ben Ruffin, Director, United Organization for Community Improvement, gave the "Statement of Purpose" for the Rally. He told the audience of the desire to present Dr. Hawkins and all the other local black candidates to the electorate. Ruffin called for black support of all black candidates.

In introducing the main speaker, Dr. A. D. Moseley, president, Durham Chapter NAACP, cited Dr. Hawkins' long record of leadership in the civil rights struggle. An outstanding, outspoken critic of inequalities against the poor, white and black, Moseley pointed out that the gubernatorial candidate is the first black man to run for the chief executive post in North Carolina since Reconstruction Days. In his speech, Dr. Hawkins called for unity and for massive voter registration efforts among Negroes. Interrupted many times with thundering applause during his forty minutes address, Hawkins gave statistics to prove that black people of this state can elect him governor.

Hawkins commended the black candidates that had been presented and pledged his moral support.

Music for the occasion was rendered by the St. Mark A.M. E. Zion Church Choir.

"sought peace and justice for all people, peacefully and justly," Dr. Belkin described him as "not only a man of his time but of all time."

"He was more than a leader of a specific contemporary cause," Dr. Belkin said. "He represented the dream of America that someday his children, and all children, will be judged solely on the basis of ability and character. He represented too, the moral principles by which God wishes all of us to live. His life exalted us and his death diminishes us."

the city cemetery.

The throng of mourners surrounded and followed the mule-drawn wagon, containing the remains, the entire four miles from the church to the Morehouse campus.

Due to the extreme heat, which rose to 80 degrees, many persons were treated at aid stations for heat exhaustion along the way.

Representing President Johnson was Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who managed to get close enough to Mrs. King to offer words of condolence.

Other dignitaries attending the ceremony were Mrs. John F. Kennedy, Senators Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts and Robert Kennedy of New York; former Vice President Richard M. Nixon; Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota; Governor Carl E. Sanders of Georgia and Governor George Romney of Michigan.

Presiding at the funeral was Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, closest friend of Dr. King, his successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and jail companion for 17 times during their crusades in behalf of the race.

At Morehouse, the eulogy was delivered by President Emeritus Benjamin Mayes and former teacher of King. He charged during his remarks that the American people "are in part responsible for Martin Luther King's death, in that his assassin felt like his act was in keeping with the sentiment of society." He followed with an appeal to Negroes to not dishonor the name of King, an advocate of non-violence, by resorting to violence to solve the problems of the race.

It is estimated that over 50,000 persons were in the march which wended its way from the church to the Morehouse campus.

In Atlanta all schools were closed for the day by Mayor Ivan Allen along with all city offices and liquor stores. The courthouse was draped in black.

ther King can place in sharper focus the evils with which he daily struggled, then it can lead us to action -- and to a reaffirmation of faith in ourselves and in our nation.

"Let us, then, find comfort in Dr. King's own words, a fit eulogy for himself.

"If you are cut down in a movement which is designed to save the soul of a nation, then no other death could be more redemptive."

"Let us find honesty in the awareness that what Martin Luther King sought for his own people is in the best interest of all the people.

"And let us find purpose and unity in the words he spoke as he accepted the Nobel Peace Prize.

"I have the audacity to believe that people everywhere can have three meals a day for their bodies, education and culture for their minds and dignity, equality and freedom for their spirits."

"There are things the people of America can do together. We can pass without further delay the Civil Rights Bill now pending in the Congress.

"We can mobilize the resources -- both public and private -- that will banish the spectre of poverty from our land.

"It seems the governor is everybody's candidate for vice president."
