Laurel as a community. Both were charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor although Berger was not even in the state on the date of the alleged offense. The arrests were made June 24, while they were in a Justice of the Peace court, observing the trial of a friend—Don Ishee, whose father recently ran for the Mayor's office in Laurel on a Workers' Independent Ticket.

Bond was set at $2,000 each, an unusually high amount on what is a misdemeanor offense in Mississippi. Berger was released on a property bond later the same day, only to be re-arrested and sentenced to two days in jail for contempt of court, after he asked to see the affidavit sworn out before his arrest on the delinquency charge. Berger's bond was subsequently transferred to Holden.

Some early footage shot by Holden and Berger was shown at SCEP's annual dinner in April. It has also been shown to members of local 5-443, International Woodworkers of America (AFL-CIO), with whom GROU has been working for almost two years in Laurel. Since mid-May Holden (who is from Oregon) and Berger (California) have been living in Laurel. They shot footage of the June 3 municipal election and the campaign which led up to it, a variety of meetings in the white and black communities, and a confrontation in the Mayor's office between the then Mayor and a group of black residents.

ter for minority enterprise. "Business in Chattanooga faces a choice," he said. "Let the distrust and anger take its course, or act now to relieve it. Be an equal employer in reality and not in your help wanted ads. A man with a good job is a better customer than a man on welfare." Stockton suggested the business community rearrange hiring and upgrading practices by accelerating its redefinition of "employment" to mean employment as potential managers. "It is not uncommon for college-educated black men to be employed in relatively menial positions," he said. "While the rate of unemployment for the total community is relatively low, it is much higher for the black population."

Honduras, El Salvador Fight On

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras — Hard fighting was reported Tuesday on the second day of Central American war where troops of land-hungry El Salvador claimed an advance of 45 miles into Honduras territory. A super-heated international soccer football rivalry had been a factor along the way to armed warfare.

Planes of both countries bombed airports and military targets.

But El Salvador announced later it was suspending all military activity pending the arrival from Washington of a peace team of the Organization of American States—OAS.

Climaxing years of glaring tensions, the fighting erupted Monday night when Honduras reported a deep stab into its territory from El Salvador, whose 3 million population is compressed into territory five times smaller than Honduras.

Experts viewed the conflict as a symptom of the population explosion in Central America and many other areas of the world.

Honduras, with 2 1/2 million population and 43,227 square miles of territory, is essentially agricultural, one of the three largest banana exporters in the world. El Salvador, one of the most industrialized nations of Central America, has only 8,260 square miles of territory for its 3 millions plus inhabitants.

Nearly 300,000 Salvadoreans migrated to Honduras, most in search of land.

As Jones returns to his home town, he'll get to take a look at some of the current basketball talent. Among the stars expected to be present for Jones' visit are Charlie Scott of the University of North Carolina, Bill Chamberlain, also of UNC, Charlie Davis of Wake Forest, and others.

Agnew Says Physicians Doing Job

NEW YORK — Vice President Agnew defended the nation's doctors before the American Medical Association (AMA) convention Tuesday, asserting that most physicians are concerned with "practicing medicine rather than playing politics."

Agnew opened his address to the AMA's 118th annual meeting by several joking references to the organization's recent successful opposition to the appointment of Dr. John Knowles to the Nixon administration's top health post.

"I bring greetings from President Nixon and from your secretary of Health, Education and Welfare ex-officio, Everett Dirksen," Agnew said in a reference to Dirksen's opposition to Knowles.

Before the doctors stopped laughing, Agnew added, "Bob Finch (the HEW secretary who favored Knowles) also sends you a message. He says to tell you if he gets sick he'll take care of himself."

Some Need

Agnew then went on to say that "the nation is in sore need of perspective when so many opinion leaders nit-pick at a profession which has added 20 years of longevity."

Attacking "campus radicals" similar to those young medical students and doctors who disrupted the AMA convention Sunday to protest "reactionary" policies, Agnew said, "I know most doctors are interested in practicing medicine—not playing politics."

Most of the vice president's speech before 1,000 delegates, alternates and guests at the Americana Hotel was devoted to calling for a "national commitment" to end water and air pollution.

Agnew said the Nixon administration had taken the first steps toward having the federal government anticipate rather than react to environmental problems when it established the environmental quality council headed by Nixon.

Your professional beautician knows the answer...

Is peroxide needed to color unwanted gray hair?

Hair care and beauty experts know that the first traces of gray hair—and even slight fading of natural color after chemical relaxing—can dull a woman's appearance and make her look older than she feels. While most women hate these premature aging effects, many are hesitant about using permanent peroxide haircoloring which may change the natural hair color while coloring gray.

Professionally-trained hairdressers know the importance of their customers' preferences when unwanted gray becomes a problem. These experts also know that Clairol created semi-permanent Loving Care® hair color lotion without peroxide... to color only the gray without changing the natural shade. They also find Loving Care blends back color faded by chemical processing. Because of its mildness, Loving Care maintains healthy looking hair and lasts through a month of shampoos.

Whatever a woman's reason for wanting Loving Care for her hair, she is always wise to consult a professional beautician. Hairdressers are equipped with a family of fine Clairol products and the training to promise each patron the loveliest and most personalized haircoloring effects every time she visits her salon. If you dislike gray, and want no peroxide, why not ask your beautician to glamorize it with Loving Care?

Chaplain Feels Danger

Now far away from battle-torn-Vietnam, the 49-year-old Navy veteran said he felt danger during his visit there.

"I would get up in the morning and hear people talking about where the bombs and the rockets hit the night before," said Parham. "And on several trips in the country, I had to wear a flack jacket and helmet as a safety precaution."

A native of Newport News, Va., Captain Thomas D.
