NAACP Mounts Campaign To Block Confirmation Of Judge Haynsworth

Deacon Jake Sowell Honored at Union Baptist Church Sunday

Jack Sowell, Chairman of the Union Baptist Church Deacon Board for 25 years, was paid special honor by the church at the Men's Day Program held recently.

Sowell, who led the congregation diligently approximately three years during the absence of a pastor, was presented a watch by Walter C. Younge and many other gifts from the congregation and organizations of the church.

During the special service with Chapel Hill's Mayor, Howard Lee, as the principal speaker, Mrs. Lucille Fuller, Mrs. Minnie Fikes, M. C. Hart and Dr. Grady D. Davis, pastor, of the church, made special remarks.

Under the leadership of Sowell, who served as Chairman of the Building Committee, the church's present sanctuary at 904 North Roxboro Street was built. Following the death of Rev. A. S. Croom, Sowell held the congregation together until the church's present pastor, Dr. Davis, came to lead the flock.

In addition to his chairmanship of the Deacon Board, Sowell is past president of the Senior Usher Board, a member of the Trustee Board, church treasurer, a committeeman for the Boy Scout troop and business manager of the Union Baptist Day Care Center.

Sowell had a few brief remarks to make following the presentations.

DELTAS DISCUSS GREEN POWER IN COMMUNITY

BALTIMORE, Md. — Following a panel discussion on "Green Power in the Black Community, Delta Sigma Theta President Frankie M. Freeman moved from words to action by presenting, on the spot, funds for an initial deposit at a Washington, D. C. black bank.

Samuel F. Foggie, Vice President and Cashier of the United Community National Bank of Washington, accepted the Delta deposit.

The panel on "Green Power in the Black Community" was a part of the Delta week-long convention. The panel included: Kenneth O. Wilson, president, Baltimore Mutual Investment Company; D. Parke Gibson, president, D. Parke Gibson & Associates and author of "The $30 Billion Negro Market," and Joe Black, vice-president, special markets, the Greyhound Corporation.

Black said slogans about "black power" or "green power" don't mean anything unless black youths are motivated to pursue goals in the larger business community, as blacks are now doing in politics.

Wilson said, "the black man must become business oriented to the extent that he can compete favorably in the total market and serve both black and white consumers."

Gibson said black citizens have the genius to do as well in business as they have in sports, entertainment, and politics.

In making the presentation, Mrs. Freeman said, "By depositing funds at a black bank, Delta Sigma Theta is providing additional resources for the United Community National Bank to do more toward the economic development of the ghetto."

"Delta chapters and members are urged to support and strengthen black financial institutions who are striving to help achieve black economic (See DELTAS page 2)

Appointee to Supreme Court Highly Opposed

NEW YORK — Within minutes after President Richard M. Nixon announced his nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth for the United States Supreme Court, Aug. 18, NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins dispatched a telegram to the Senate Judiciary Committee requesting opportunity for an Association representative to appear before the committee in opposition to the nomination.

Immediately thereafter, the NAACP leader told newsmen at a conference in the Association's National Office here that "Judge Haynsworth's dissenting opinions in some key civil rights cases show clearly that he is not for pressing forward" to insure equality for the nation's black population.

He announced that the Association was mounting a campaign to block confirmation of Nixon's nominee.

As early as July 19, Wilkins launched the campaign to avert the nomination of Judge Haynsworth. In a telegram to the President he warned that elevation of the South Carolina judge to the Supreme Court "would spell disaster to the entire racial equality program now embodied in law" and urged Nixon "most respectfully but most emphatically to abandon the nomination of Judge Haynsworth."

In a later telegram to President Nixon, Aug. 12, the NAACP leader expressed "the earnest hope that Judge Clement Haynsworth will not be named. On his record Negro Americans and their friends would not only resent but actively oppose his elevation." (See OPPOSED page 2)

Nassau Official Calls For Change Without Violence At Meeting

Addresses 34th Biennial Confab Of U.S. Masons

NASSAU, Bahamas — Orderly change without violence has characterized the new government here, a Cabinet Minister told a U.S. Negro Masonic Convention at the Sheraton British Colonial Hotel.

The Hon. Arthur A. Foulkes, Minister of Tourism & Telecommunications, speaking at the 34th biennial session of the General Grand Masonic Council, said that "by peaceful, democratic means we aim to bring about a revolution — a revolution designed to preserve the basic philosophy of social progress and set a new basis of steady economic development in a democratic system.

Excerpts from his address follow:

"This Government, in a little over 2 1/2 years, has set the stage for building a new nation. And it is progressive, orderly change without the violence that has caused other developing countries such tragedy.

"To ensure that our economy will flourish, our new Government has intensified its programme to train Bahamians to take their rightful place in a progressive society. In-service training, local trade schools and foreign schooling at the university level are being pro-

Open Letter to Officials Cites Six Problems

As representatives of organizations concerned about the entire welfare of Durham County School System, we address this open letter to the Superintendent, all of members of the Durham County School Board as well as to all of the Black Teachers request that a meeting be had immediately involving the above addresses and the representatives of these organization concerned with the welfare of the Durham County School System.

One purpose of this meeting would be to bring to the attention of the Superintendent, all of the members of the Durham County School Board, as well as to all of the Black teachers assigned to the Durham County School System — the several problems which presently exist in such system as well as those problems which presently exist in such system as well as those problems which are to be anticipated — all as a consequence of the mass influx of Black students into predominantly white and/or only tokenly desegregated schools. Another purpose of the meeting would be to conceive, develop, and then implement plans or programs of action that would in effect alleviate, if not eliminate such existing and/or anticipated problems.

Some of the specific problems — present and anticipated — can be best analyzed by asking the following questions:

What are the expectations, if any, concerning the level of Black Student participation in regular and extra-curricular school activities.

Should not some consideration be given to the nicknamed and practices at Southern High School particularly as some pertain to the term (See SCHOOLS page 2)
