A banquet was held in the Washington Duke Ballroom at the Hotel with Frank Howard Alston, Dean of Boys and Assistant Principal of Hillside High School, as guest speaker. Bennie Milford presided at the banquet, and introduction of the speaker was made by Herbert Smith. Miss Lassiter presented the class gift, a Hornet mural to be displayed in the school gymnasium. She also presented Mr. Alston with a gift as a small token in appreciation for his service to the class of 1960. He accepted the school gift in the absence of John Lucas, Principal of Hillside High School. Reminiscence of ten years was ended with the singing of the School Prayer and the school's Alma Mater.

Modern Garden Pest Brought From France As A Gourmet Food

About 100 years ago, a Frenchman hungry for a delicacy of his native land set off a chain of events which now costs his weaker-stomached Pacific Coast neighbors several million dollars a year.

The immigrant, who shall remain nameless to protect his descendants from the wrath of their neighbors, imported and turned loose in the California vineyards a colony of creatures destined to become one of the worst garden pests — the European brown snail.

This inch-long, dry-land mollusk today infests gardens at night causing damage. Despite this, the Frenchman who started it all was motivated by pleasure. Like many of his countrymen, he liked to eat this kind of snail.
