A Fresh Beginning

The arsenal of cosmetics available to every woman today is staggering, from the myriad foundations, rouges, blushers, gels, bronzers, highlighters, contourers, to the pencils, cream sticks, liners and mascaras. Any lady can put it on as thickly as she wants—but the real question is—can she take it all off?

A little soap and water used to work wonders in the "old days" when a dab of powder and a dab of lipstick was about it. But in these days of the muchly made-up face—and with the attendant problem of air pollution and grime—the clean-up job is no longer a soap-and-water affair. Especially for women with dry skin, makeup removal must take into account the damage that too vigorous an application of soap incurs. Most beauty authorities maintain that cream-cleansing is as fresh a way to end the day—and begin it—as the habitual soap routine. And creams have the added benefit of softening the skin. But looking for the right skin cleanser is all-important and fortunately there are creamy products for each type of skin. Dorothy Gray's Dry-Skin Cleanser is a light yellow cream rich in double whipped emollient oils and lanolin to soften as well as cleanse. As its name implies, it is recommended for dry skin. It gently removes clogging dust and grime and stale makeup and it leaves the skin not only velvety smooth, but glowingly fresh.

Many seemingly ageless actresses attribute their unlined complexions to the lifetime use of creams—before applying stage makeup, removal after the performance, home application for overnight therapy. A good number of women, too, are discovering that the cream philosophy works. It minimizes current problems, and acts as the "ounce of prevention" to ward off future ones.

Good Deed Club Evaluates The Year's Program

By EDITH M. ALLEN

The evaluation of the Good Deed Club for the past year was held at the June meeting at Althea Hill's home on Burlington Avenue.

The Good Deed Club is made up of girls ranging in age from 8 to 13 and who are able to maintain membership in the club by doing good deeds.

Among some of the good deeds the club did jointly were carrying flowers to patients at the rest homes at different times, making a card sending cheer cards to patients at Lincoln Hospital, and making toys for gifts for children at Lincoln Hospital.

Althea's mother, Mrs. J. W. Hill is our advisor.

The club went on a tour of Mrs. Roxie Rowland's garden where we had a chance to identify the flowers.

Tours during the year included the Agriculture Building and the Duke Power Co. Also, the club wrote and produced three plays. They were: "Christmas—Year 2000," "A Fashion Show for Mothers" and a puppet show, "The Perils of Jennie Jeandres."

Plans were made at our last meeting to have a bake sale the weekend of July 4th.

Sunglasses — Do You Know What To Look For?

When you buy a pair of sunglasses, what do you look for—color, style, fit, quality? If color and style alone are important to you, you are buying sunglasses for the wrong reasons.

Professionals point out that simply wearing any glass with tinted lenses will not necessarily give you a sunglasses or proper protection. There are many sunglasses today, all called sunglasses—and they come in all price ranges—whose lenses will not filter out the sun's invisible infrared and ultraviolet rays. For instance, light-colored or plastic lenses will not give you adequate protection. They generally feel uncomfortable in the sun, make you squint, and often they have optical defects that cause eye strain. While great for indoors or for cloudy days, they are not intended to be worn under bright skies.

Bausch & Lomb, the makers of Ray-Ban sunglasses, say that you don't have to be an expert to select a good pair of sunglasses. True sunglasses lenses should be very dark, either sage green or neutral gray, and made of ground and polished prescription-quality glass. Before buying a pair of sunglasses, it is recommended that you turn them over and let an overhead lighting fixture reflect on the back of one of the lenses. Move the glass slightly, so the reflection travels across the lens. If the image of the light remains clear and distinct, without showing distortions, wiggles, and waves, you can be reasonably certain that you have made a good choice. But make sure that you also have a sturdy frame that's smoothly finished and comfortable.

And remember, good sunglasses come in exciting and up-to-date designs. So you don't have to give up fashion for quality. After all, while you're looking at the world, the world is looking at you.

APA Fraternity Meeting is Set For July 31

PHILADELPHIA — Both the theme and the convention activities of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity will reflect the concerns of the times when its members meet here July 31-Aug. 6 in their 64th annual gathering.

The convention of the first of the black college fraternities, founded in Cornell in 1906, will have as a theme "Elimination of the Ghetto: The Goal for the Seventies." In keeping with this idea several of the convention meetings, open to the public, will feature nationally known speakers.

A series of seminars, which will feature as panelists leaders in various fields, will be held Monday, Aug. 3. Chairmen of the respective sessions are: Housing — Harold Sims, deputy director, National Urban League; Employment — William H. Brown, III, chairman of the Equal Opportunity Commission of the national government; Education — Roger Russell, professor of education, Hofstra College; Crime and Law Enforcement — Herbert T. Miller, vice-president, Kings County Grand Juror Association, New York; Health and Recreation — Daniel Hall, M.D., associate director, Philadelphia Department of Public Health. Representatives of the fraternity and of the general public will make up the panels.

One of the major activities of the convention will be three days of recruitment for present and recent college graduates by representatives of the major American businesses. Some 56 nationally-rated firms will send recruiting teams to the Sheraton Hotel to give interviews and offer jobs on the spot to college men and women.

TO ATTEND CLINIC — Miss Robin Peaks, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Waddell Peaks, 604 North Elm Street, will attend the Majoret Clinic scheduled to be held at Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount on July 19. The instructor will be Bob Ellwanger. Miss Peaks, a sophomore at Hillside High School, will be one of several students attending the clinic, which will be conducted for one week.

spent a couple of months with his aunt.
