

BULL CITY HAPPENINGS

By MICKY

Hi Durhmites: Micky made it back to the Bull City this past weekend from his journeys here and there, and man was the set swinging!

Pulling into the "sin city" of the Piedmont late Friday night, I made the scene at this swinging S&S Grill. On stage were those talented Devels. They come across with the kind of music that really blows the mind.

During the short time that I spent there because old Father Sleepy-time began tugging at my eyelids, I spied some out of sight examples of the beautiful soul sisters of this fine town.

There was this one chick in a black leather jumpsuit, with a "fro" that really did her justice. We met over a couple of highballs, and got fairly well acquainted.

Just so that none of you chicks who made that set Friday p.m. and Saturday a.m. blow your cool with old Mick, I dug you all and each and everyone of you were clean out of sight.

With all due respects to that swinging scene on Alston Avenue, I passed it up Saturday night and went on down to the "stable" at the Highway 55, Cornwallis Road junction. Baby, talk about a doubleheader!

Jamming on the psychodelic stage were the Skulls & Bones and The fabulpus Shamrocks.

As you fine people have ascertained (dig the big words—on Webster's, on Thesaurus), I have been absent from these shores for quite some time, and therefore, Saturday p.m. was the first time I dug the Shamrocks as they are presently composed. The only word to describe the show they come across with is CRAZY. Good, but crazy.

The brothers on those instruments really do a mean J-O-B. The sisters who croon those soulful notes aren't bad either, and good-looking too. But as all of you who are familiar with the Shamrocks know, the star of the show is MAMA! For the uninitiated, Mama is tall, lanky, skinny and Uggy... (opps). Anyway, is she, the he, the IT who sings fairly well, dances, believe it or not, quite sexy. But the biggest thing Mama got going for him is showmanship. He's a real showman from the first school. He really knows how to get the audience involved.

And baby, there toward the end, that chick that ran up on stage and went through this impromptu bump and grind really tagged a way out ending to the show. WOW! Now to the Skull and Bones, and they are not last because of being least, but you know that old saying, save the best for last.

Got a chance to dig Valerie again Saturday night. Last time I saw this chick, she was singing a solo act with the group that apparently has evolved into the Skull and Bones. Anyway, she's still good and beautiful as ever. And that sister who sings with her wasn't bad either.

Summing it all up in a word, this aggregation of brothers from the North and South (North and South Durham that is) is good enough, to go places. Good luck, fellows.

Now, before I go until the next time Micky makes this set. Let me mention a few plaudits (rap on brother) for the swinging brothers and sisters who also made this set.

There was JoAnn, an old friend, and her sister, both as fine as ever.

I also dug my man with the "carrying Case", swing right on man, and hang in there. Sure hope you and the old lady get your thing together; life's too short for spats. But anyway, there's always a lot of fun in making up.

THE DELFONICS VISIT CALIFORNIA—Beginning the first of December, The Delfonics thrilled audiences in San Diego, Los Angeles, Sacramento, San San Bernardino, Oakland, Fresno and San Francisco, on their first annual California Tour.

Singing to their audiences in their unique style about love, resulted in land office business in the night clubs and arenas. All those involved felt extremely successful for bringing this talented group to California. Playing after-hours clubs in the Los Angeles area proved how loyal and how much in demand The Delfonics are. Capacity crowds waited in long lines, through heavy rain, just for a seat to see and hear the balladeers from Philly.

Fun was had by the trio on an individual basis as William Hart, lead singer, spent extra hours horse-back riding, while
