Today's Scene At Hillside

By MICHELLE DEJARMON

In everyone's life, there is a time to laugh and a time to cry. This past week has been a time for both. There have been tears of joy and tears of sadness.

The tears of joy came Tuesday evening, June 8th, 1971, when the seniors received their diplomas. There were 363 students in the graduating class and everyone of them deserves some kind of recognition. The valedictorian of the Class of '71 was Miss Edwina Link and the salutatorians were Misses Sally Tanford and Veronica Ray. Tears of sadness came when some of the students realized that they wouldn't be roaming the halls of the Hornets Nest next year and there would be some of their best friends left behind.

Since Tuesday, June 8th, 1971, many teen-agers have been doing many things. Many have been looking for jobs and others have been going to summer school. There are a few that have just been resting.

For many students, finding a job has been difficult. Many have found that good dress and nice manners open that difficult door. Instead of some teens taking one step and getting pushed back ten, with these two factors that one step is helping them on their way to opening that door. If you know someone who has been turned down for a job have them look at themselves.

This year has been an exciting one for me. I enjoyed writing articles for Hillside in The Carolina Times. During this year and years before the correspondents for HHS had special help when it was needed. Mr. Louis E. Austin and Mr. Lodus Austin were always there. Saturday, June 12, 1971, Mr. Louis Austin, founder of The Carolina Times succumbed at Lincoln Hospital. The members of Hillside, students and graduates, are in a daze almost. Mr. Austin was a man of great character and he always gave people the incentive to go further than your successful goal. His motto and his ideas are some that will never die and anyone who hasn't heard some of his sound advice surely missed something in their life time.

The students and graduates send their condolences to the Louis E. Austin family and may God grant you peace in your hour of bereavement.

We the members, (past and present), of Hillside do thank God for having known such a well gifted man but to the ones that didn't, you missed one in ten billion.
