Fred McNeill Jr. Gets Promotion On LINC Staff

Several staff appointments were announced Wednesday for the Durham-based Learning Institute of North Carolina (LINC) by Dr. Richard S. Ray, Executive Director.

Fred McNeill, Jr. of Durham, veteran staff member was named program associate for business and finance.

Dr. John W. Pelosi, co-director of the Child Advocacy Center at Wright School here, was named director of LINC is now Child Advocacy Project.

Miss Drewry Hanes was named program consultant for development, and Miss Margaret Bourdeaux was named program consultant for child development.

McNeill has served as a consultant to LINC's Follow Through Project in Goldsboro and as director of the LINC Children's Center in Greensboro, a $250,000 annual project. For five years before joining LINC, he served as director of field services, the number 2 administrative post in the $250,000 yearly operation of the North Carolina Teachers Association.

As chief finance officer, he directed growth in the association's credit union funds from $6,000 to $100,000 annually. (See McNEILL page 10A)

The Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance of Durham and Vicinity has lost its President, Rev. E. H. Whitley, former Pastor of the Mt. Olive AME Zion Church on Club Blvd. Rev. Whitley had served the Alliance as an officer for five of his seven years in Durham. He had served as the Assistant Secretary, Secretary, First Vice President, and as President the last year of his Pastoral work in Durham.

Reverend Whitley came to Durham in 1964 from Knoxville, Tennessee to become the Pastor of Mt. Olive AME Zion Church. He was active in the life of the community serving as the chairman of the Carr Junior High School Precinct for two years and being a delegate to the State Democratic Convention in 1968. While at Mt. Olive the Church built a new edifice and purchased a new parsonage.

Under Rev. Whitley's leadership, the IMA has continued many new programs and meth-

White Americans Feel Nation Has Slipped Almost Full Step

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The majority of white Americans, regardless of age, income, education, or political persuasion, feel that "the U. S. has slid backward over the past five years."

Blacks, along with other non-whites, don't agree. They believe that "significant gains have been made at the national level."

So report Albert H. Conrill and Charles W. Roll, two professional opinion analysts, in a new book, "Hopes and Fears of the American People."

The book is based on two national polls designed by the authors under sponsorship of Potomac Associates, a new Washington-based research and analysis organization. It will be published this week (June 28) by Universe Books of New York.

The authors asked a cross-section of Americans to list their hopes and fears for the nation, then asked where they thought the U.S. stood on a 10-step "ladder of aspiration" compared with five years ago. White Americans felt the nation had slipped almost a full step. In contrast, nonwhites thought it had moved ahead more than a half-step.

In 1969, when a similar poll was taken, the division of opinion between the races was exactly reversed. Then nonwhites thought the general situation in the country had gotten

Action Is Delayed On the Resignation Of DHA Members

Durham City Council voted to delay action on the resignation of Carl R. Harris, W. E. Seemans, Jr. and Charles A. Roach, who submitted letters of resignation to be effective July 15, 1971, from the Durham Housing Authority.

E. W. Midgette and Artis Plummer remain on the DHA and did not participate in the en masse resignations from the DHA.

It was suggested by Mayor Hawkins that the Council appoint at its July 8, meeting a committee to "select replacements." The Housing Authority must continue to operate and under the provisions of the Charter, the Authority would become inoperative with only two members.

Thus, by not accepting the resignations, the DHA will be in a position to still carry out its functions until successors have been chosen.

School To Be Known as the Durham College

President L. McCauley Harris announced today that as a result of a recent Board of Trustees meeting that effective July 1, 1971, Durham Business College will be known thereafter as Durham College.

The Board of Trustees indicated that the name change was the result of the increasing diversity of the institution's curriculum through additional programs in the technical and scientific areas. In recent years the college has developed and included into its curriculum, programs in the area of Pollution Control Administration, Environment-

Shaw U. Names New V. P. For Development

MASON

Dr. J. Archie Hargraves, President-elect of Shaw University, and who will resume his duties, July 1, 1971 has appointed Phillip H. Mason to the position of Vice President for Development and University Relations. Dr. Hargraves says that he was fortunate to secure the services of a man like Mason because of his wide and varied background. His expertise and skills will help to strengthen Shaw.

Specifically, Mr. Mason will be charged with coordinating the Division of Developing and University Relations and its integrated program of defining, popularizing and securing acceptance of the major goals and objectives of the institution as well as heading publicity planning for Shaw.

Mason is married and is the father of 4 children.

JOINED FOR UNITY—These four persons, principals in the opening of the Durham Day Care Center of the NAACP, are shown as they appeared at the Morehead Avenue Baptist Church for the monthly meeting of the Durham Branch, NAACP. W. M. Gilliam, membership chairman and director of the Center, smile pleasingly at a highly respected citizen of the Crest Street School community and chairman of a liaison committee of area citizens, Mrs. Maggie Holman, working with the NAACP, Dr. L. W. Reid, pastor of New Bethel Church, who spoke at the meeting, shown between the two, and Alexander Barnes, extreme right, looking on with delight.

Dedication Of New Environmental Project Center Held At RTI Park

By JOHN MYERS, Staff Writer

"The success or failure of the project of the federal government to clean America's air will depend primarily on the Durham environmental plant." This statement was made Tuesday, June 22 by William Ruckelshaus, President of the National Environmental Agency at a dedication of the new Environmental Protection Agency located in Research Triangle Park.

Ruckelshaus said, "We have a chance to solve one of the greatest problems of this country, air pollution."

He continued his statement with, "The three areas effective to this project are the President, the congress, and the support of the public. If we can maintain concern and support, we can show the American people that the government still has a place in society."

Ruckelshaus discussed immediate plans for the agency with the following facts: "Luther Hodges donated 509 acres of land to the agency. As yet, we are not sure how to incorporate this donation into our agency."

As to the governing body of the agency Ruckelshaus stated, "We have no director as yet. We plan to announce the regional administrators in July."

He further added, "Although, ecology consists of municipal, industrial, and agricultural sources of pollution, we plan to remain primarily in air pollution. We will deal with all three sources of pollution as they effect our air."

"Presently the agency employs approximately 800 people. By December, 200 additional personnel will be offices. Our total employment will be doubled within two-three years."

Ruckelshaus ended his address with, "Our plan is to adopt a regional agency divided into ten regions. It will be the strongest agency in the federal government."

HITS S. A. POLICY

WASHINGTON — Attacking South Africa's "vicious and inhumane" policies toward blacks, Senator George McGovern, the only announced candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination, called on Congress to cut off that country's sugar quota supports.

NAACP RAFFLE ENDS—This picture marks the event that closed the most successful drive that the Durham Branch, NAACP, has ever put on to raise money for the Freedom Fund. The unidentified boy is shown as he draws the name of the winner of a Sylvania Television set, at the United Durham Store. The lucky ticket was held by F. Barnes, 936

Westminister Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. Tickets were sold all along the eastern seaboard. Others in the picture, (left to right), are J. B. Philyaw, Life Membership Chairman; W. M. Gilliam, Membership Chairman; Mrs. Annie Mae Bynum, who directed the project and raised more than $1,200.00 and Ray Parker, manager, United Durham Store.

Black Named to School Board in Warren County

WARRENTON—The Warren County Board of Education, in special session, has appointed Ernest Turner, president of the local chapter of the NAACP, to fill the unexpired term of Joe Andrews on the board.

Turner is the first Negro to serve on the board. His term will run through April 1973.

The board, meeting Monday night, voted unanimously to appoint Turner to fill the seat of Andrews who died several weeks ago. The board has five members.

Turner, 45, is married and has three sons. He is owner of a dry cleaning firm here and a partner in a local funeral home. He was employed by the

Cherokee Indians Get EDA Grant For Job Program

The Economic Development Administration under the U. S. Department of Commerce, has given approval of a $28,080 grant to help continue a program of planning for economic growth in the Cherokee Reservation in Cherokee, N. C. The Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians will provide $9,360 to complete the grant, which will be $37,440, the cost of continuing the program.

The goal of the program is to create year-round jobs and increase incomes for tribal members. Cherokee officials report that during the past year, industry expansion created 75 new jobs. A civic center has been erected and water and sewer systems have been enlarged. Cooperative efforts of surrounding communities, State and Federal agencies as well as private enterprise are being utilized in the project.
