Duke Professor Winner Of Jules F. Landry Book Award

"The Gray and the Black: The Confederate Debate on Emancipation," a book by Duke University historian Robert F. Durden, has been named this year's winner of the prestigious Jules F. Landry Award given by the Louisiana State University Press.

The award is presented annually to the author of the best manuscript submitted to the LSU Press in Southern history, biography or literature. It carries with it a $1,000 prize.

Dr. Durden, a professor of history, is the fifth winner of the award. Previous recipients were George B. Tindall for "The Emergence of the New South," David M. Potter for "The South and the Sectional Conflict," Dan T. Carter for "Scottsboro: A tragedy of the American South," and Thomas L. Connelly for "Autumn of Glory."

Durden's book will be published by the press in October. An authority in 19th century United States history, especially the Civil War and Populist eras, the Duke professor has written extensively of these periods.

His earlier books include "James Shepherd Pike: Republicanism and the American Negro, 1850-1882," "Reconstruction Bonds and Twentieth-Century Politics: South Dakota v. North Carolina," and "The Climax of Populism: The Election of 1896." He also has had numerous articles

NCCU E.S.A. Program Starts

North Carolina Central University's Elementary School Activities Program, which will enroll approximately 20 elementary school teachers beginning Monday, June 12, will focus again this summer on creativity in language teaching, according to Dr. Norman C. Johnson, chairman of the department of education.

The teachers, who are candidates for the master's degree, will work for four hours daily with a selected group of about 30 Durham youngsters in an elementary school model classroom.

Dr. Willa Bryant, a former NCCU faculty member now chairman of the education department at Livingstone College, will return to Durham to direct the summer program. Mrs. Anne G. Fulford of the NCCU faculty will be one of the supervising teachers in the program.

The activities program will center around individualized team teaching approaches, using educational media and integrated materials, Dr. Johnson said.

Dr. Andrew Best Named Doctor Of Year By State Medical Society

Dr. Andrew A. Best of Greenville, N.C. was named "Doctor of the Year" at the concluding session of the 85th annual meeting of the Old North State Medical Society held at the Durham Hotel June 6-8. The Greenville physician was cited for the honor on the basis of his contribution to society during the year.

Also honored by the medical men were Dr. Thomas Woodly Haywood of Warrenton, N.C. for fifty-four years of service as a practicing physician, most of which was in Warren County, and Dr. James P. Green of Henderson. Dr. Green and an associate, T. D. Bullock, also of Henderson, were honored as "The Small Business Men" of the year. Dr. Green and Dr. Bullock operate a nursing-rest home in Vance County, N.C.

The Dental Society dedicated its entire meeting to the late Dr. James M. Hubbard, Sr. of Durham. The Dental group was in its 53rd year as an organization. All three of the medical profession, medicine, dental, and pharmaceutical groups, meet annually at the same location but conduct separate business and scientific meetings.

The Old North State Medical Society adopted five resolutions pertaining to health programs and medical assistance in North Carolina. The first Resolution concerned Drug Abuse and Alcoholism and stated that "The Old North State Medical Society recognizes the problems of Drug Abuse and Alcoholism two of the most important problems in our society today and the organization stands ready to do what we can at the community level to see that adequate treatment, programs, and facilities are available for these purposes."

The old North State, the Resolution continued. Voted that in the matter of abortions, the only consideration should be between the Doctor and the patient." Further, it was pointed out, "Since Black doctors have subsidized medic-aid all along, the organization resolves that no further cuts in physician fees be made and the Old North State Medical Society recommends that medic-aid program in North Carolina be under Federal-State control." Finally, the Resolution stated, "That the Old North State Medical Society recognizes the Doctor shortage in North Carolina and recommends better communications be established with counselors on high school and college campuses to attract more students into the training programs in the profession.

Dr. Daniel Roan of Wilmington is president of the Medical Association, and Dr. Durel G. Long of Greensboro heads the Dental Society. Dr. Frederick Douglas of Winston Salem is president of the Pharmaceutical Society.

The Old North State Medical Society is the oldest black medical association in the country, having been organized in 1887. The Dental group is in its 54th year.

The Association chose Raleigh for its 1973 convention.

$426,000 Grant Enables A&T To Start Bio-Medical Studies

GREENSBORO, N. C.— A federal program, designed to tune in scientists at predominantly black colleges and universities to the nation's biomedical research efforts, has resulted in a $426,873 grant to A&T State University.

The grant from the National Institute of Health, was announced today by Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, president of A&T.

Dowdy called the grant "a breakthrough for the state and the nation. This project will permit scientists at predominantly black institutions to participate in biomedical research efforts, with funds which were difficult to come by in the past."

The research project will be directed by Dr. Walter Sullivan, chairman of A&T's Department of Chemistry. Initial research projects will be conducted by Sullivan and eight other faculty members in the university's departments of chemistry, engineering and biology.

"The overall goal of this program," said Sullivan "will be to develop a first rate biomedical research program at A&T. Successful completion of the program should be a stepping stone for the attraction of even greater funds for this kind of research."

Sullivan pointed out that in past years, predominantly black colleges have gotten very few of the federal funds available for biomedical research.

"We have submitted proposals," said Sullivan, "but the federal agencies in evaluating them, always seemed to compare them with Harvard University and Yale. Those people have the facilities and equipment and they always ended up with the funds."

"What this new program means," added Sullivan, "is that now scientists at black colleges have a chance to get started in this kind of research. Eventually, we may be able to compete on an equal footing with the larger institutions and to demonstrate that we have something to offer to the nation's research efforts."

Smith Appointed Assistant To President Of CTW

NEW YORK—Charlie Smith has been appointed assistant to the president of the Children's Television Workshop and director of station relations, it was announced by Joan Ganz Cooney, president of CTW.

Smith, an experienced television and education administrator, has been director of national field services, the Workshop's grass-roots program that seeks to extend the viewing and impact of CTW's two experimental television series, "Sesame Street" and "The Electric Company."

In his new job Smith will be responsible for operational relations between the Workshop and the television stations, both public and commercial, that broadcast the educational series. He also will serve as a liaison between CTW and national broadcasting organizations including the National Association of Educational Broadcasters and the Public Broadcasting Service.

Smith, 47, was community administrator for public TV station KERA in Dallas before joining the Workshop in 1970 as deputy director of national field services. He became director the following year.

He was born in West Helena, Ark., and grew up in Detroit. He attended the Detroit Institute of Technology, was graduated from Wayne State University in 1950 with a B.S. degree in sociology and has done graduate work at the University of Texas.

Before entering television Smith spent six years with the Episcopal Army, including one year as national director of this group of church laymen whose members supervise urban and rural community and poverty projects. He also has served as headmaster of the Episcopal Army day school in Dallas. Smith and his wife reside in Brooklyn. They are the parents of two daughters and a son.

GASTONIA —Edward Bullard, 21, of Bessemer City, was killed early Tuesday when his car ran off Interstate 85 and crashed into a guard rail three miles east of Gastonia.

NCCU Library Science School Receives $38,000 Grant

DURHAM, N. C. — North Carolina Central University's school of library science has received a $38,000 award from the U.S. Office of Education for the support of its Institute for Public Librarians in Service to Young Children. Receipt of the grant was announced by Dr. Annette L. Phinazee, dean of the school.

The grant will provide for financial assistance to five public librarians to prepare them to become Early Childhood Library Specialists in public libraries. Also included in the grant are funds to recruit 20 public library employees, not necessarily librarians, for a brief orientation session during the summer of 1973. Funding is also provided for a survey of public library service to young children in North Carolina.

A 1972 graduate of the Early Childhood Library Specialist Program will be employed to assist Mrs. Tommie Young, director of the program, with the statewide survey.

W.G. Caliman Becomes Sixth Black American To Become Navy Captain

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Wayman G. Caliman, Jr., a native New Yorker who now serves as material department director of the Oakland, California Naval Supply Center, has become the sixth Black American to hold the rank of Captain in the U.S. Navy.

Capt. Caliman was administered the oath of office by Rear Admiral Wallace R. Dowd, Jr., commanding officer of the Center.

The new captain directs a staff of six officers and 680 civilian personnel. Born in New York City, he is the son of Eliza Moore of Long Island City, N.Y., and the late Wayman G. Caliman, Sr.

Capt. Caliman enlisted in the Navy in October 1950 and was commissioned in 1952 after attending Officer Candidate School. As an enlisted man, his first shipboard duty was in USS CASCADE, a destroyer tender. His last tour of sea duty prior to reporting to the supply center was as supply officer of the CASCADE.

The captain's present responsibilities include management of a warehouse complex consisting of 65 immense storage buildings and 26 open storage lots where stock items valued in excess of $592 million are maintained.

VFW In Flood Aid

Cheek, Jr., Morgan State College president when presented with the Second Mile Award during the 105th Commencement exercises at Morgan State College. Little, who received the bachelor's degree in sociology, was chosen for the award from a graduating class of 647 graduates as the member of the graduating class who has made the most outstanding contribution to the campus community during the undergraduate days. Going the "second mile" means doing more in any given task or activity than can reasonably be expected.

City Recreation Department Releases Pool Opening Date

The Durham Recreation Department has announced that the City's Pools at Forest Hills, Hillside, and Long Meadow will open for the general public on June 10, 1972 at 1:00 p.m. and that Duke Park pool will open on June 12, 1972 at 1:00 p.m. These openings will commence the summer pool season. In an effort to provide a recreation facility which is more beneficial to the participants and which allows children of similar age groups to play together, the Recreation Department has devised the following schedule for admission to the pools. Duke Park, Long Meadow, and Hillside pools will be open for only children 10 years of age and younger from 1:00 p.m.-3:00 p.m. Monday thru Friday. During this time only the parents may accompany the child in the pool. Children 11 years of age and older may use the pools from 3:00 p.m.-6:00 p.m., and the final hour of each day, 6:00 p.m.-7:00 p.m., will be open only to families. Saturdays from 1:00 p.m.-7:00 p.m., will be open only to families. Saturdays from 1:00 p.m.-6:00 p.m. and Sundays from 1:00 p.m.-5:00 p.m., the above pools will be open to everyone with the final hour of each day, Saturday from 6:00 p.m.-7:00 p.m. and Sunday from 5:00 p.m.-6:00 p.m., open for only family swimming. The Forest Hills pool will be open to everyone from 2:30 p.m.-5:30 p.m. Monday thru Friday and from 1:00 p.m.-5:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. The final hour of each day, 5:30 p.m.-6:30 p.m., will be open only to families. A Junior and Senior Lifesaving Course certified by the American Red Cross will be taught at the Forest Hills pool June 12 to June 30 from 7:30 p.m. until 10:00 p.m. each weekday. Interested people should call the Durham Recreation at 688-8021 for early registration, or they may register at the Forest Hills pool until June 12. Each of the City's pools may be rented by private groups Monday thru Saturday from 8:15 p.m.-10:00 p.m., except for the Forest Hills pool which may be rented from 7:30 p.m. until dusk. For further information contact the Durham Recreation Department at 688-8021.

Durham Native Is Institute Director At Morehouse

The Board of Directors of the Frederick Douglass Tutorial Institute of Morehouse College recently announced that Garcia Sampson, a senior from Durham, North Carolina, will serve as Director of the Institute for the academic year 1972-73.

Sampson, who has worked as a tutor for the Institute since its beginning in 1970 and who served as Assistant Director for 1971, was chosen unanimously as the "man best suited for the job." A mathematics major, he is listed in 1971-72 edition of WHO'S WHO IN AMERICAN COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES.

The Frederick Douglass Tutorial Institute is a non-profit organization operated by Morehouse College students who volunteer their time and service each Saturday morning to 150 children from the surrounding community. Youngsters are tutored in math, English, reading, and black history. The program is funded by grants and contributions from private sources.
