Famous Mothers
There may have been a real Mother Goose, an Elizabeth Foster of Boston who was married to Isaac Goose. She sang fables in rhyme to her grandchildren around 1750.
Though Mother Goose lived to be 92, the oldest age at which a woman has become a mother is 58. That record was set by Mrs. Ruth Kistler of California in 1965.

She started something. According to a recent Gallup Poll, women now consider two children to be the ideal family size, compared with four just a few years ago.

Probably women are more aware that besides the pill, diaphragm and loop, there are other good birth control methods including some—like Contraceptol or Delfen—they can get in drugstores without a doctor's prescription.

In 1938 a British mother bore the smallest baby to survive, 10 ounces. The biggest, 25 pounds, was delivered in 1961 in Turkey.

The picture above is of Mrs. Anna R. Jarvis of West Virginia. It was in her honor that Mother's Day began to be celebrated, in 1908.

A bra-sized bikini by Robby Len that stretches to fit, finishes off with its own slit skirt.

"California—the end of the rainbow." (American Proverb) did you know?

That with the increased yield of new A-3 Polaris and Poseidon reentry vehicles and their independently targeted warheads, a sea-based deterrent is expected to provide a high probability that as many as 1000 enemy targets could be destroyed even after losing some U.S. submarines to an enemy attack?

That sea-basing appears to be the ideal deterrent—yet the idea of depending only on sea-basing has been rejected because it simply wouldn't meet the needs of a credible U.S. nuclear strategy for the future?

That the best defense for the U.S. is based on the Triad system of land-based missiles, land-based bombers and submarine-launched ballistic missiles, for then the enemy is faced with a complex of currently unsolvable strategic and tactical problems?

That you can get a free reprint of a magazine article explaining the need for a diversified U.S. deterrent? It's available by writing to: Reprint Editor, American Ordnance Association, 819 Union Trust Bldg., Washington, D.C. 20006.
