NAACP Att'ys Seek to Appeal Convictions

SAN DIEGO, Ca. — A naval court-martial disposed of the last two Kitty Hawk cases on April 10 by acquitting one seaman on all charges and convicting the other mostly on charges arising during his pre-trial confinement in the brig.

Acquitted was Vernel Robinson, who had been charged with three counts of assault and rioting. But Noel Smith was less fortunate.

The Navy could sustain only one charge of assault arising from several hours of rioting aboard the super carrier on October 12 and 13 as the ship returned to the Vietnam coast. A charge of riot was dismissed, but Mr. Smith was convicted on another charge.
