Actual case history photo: North Carolina Mutual agent David Coley increases the amount of Walter Johnson's insurance program.

"If anything should happen to me, this policy will take care of Yvonne and make sure that Vernon, little Yvonne and Walter get a good education."

"You've given your family the security every family should have."

Providing security for families like Walter Johnson's is an important part of our business at North Carolina Mutual. But we're involved in a lot more than life insurance. For example, we helped Walter Johnson pay his way through Duke University with an educational policy. And it was a very proud day for us when Walter became the first black to graduate from Duke's law school. We'd be proud to help you achieve an important goal in your life, too. Whether it's security for your family, education for your children or plans for retirement. Every family should plan for tomorrow. Your local North Carolina Mutual man can help with it.
