64th National Baha'i Confab Held in Illinois

Baha'is from various cities of North Carolina joined others of the continental United States at the sixty-fourth National Baha'i Convention in Wilmette, Illinois, May 17-20. Among those present were Baha'is from Uganda, Australia, New Guinea, and others who had attended the third International Baha'i Conference in Haifa, Israel in April. The Haifa Conference at the world center of the Faith focused upon the election on the nine-member Universal House of Justice by members of the National Spiritual Assemblies of 113 countries and territories.

The convention in Wilmette marked the end of a nine-year phase in the expansion of the Faith in which 95 new territories became represented by Baha'i Communities. Baha'i is presently reside at 69,500 localities. In the period from 1964-73 Baha'i literature grew in translation from 225 to 571 languages. The report of expansion included reference to the construction of the House of Worship in Panama, the recognition of Baha'i Holy Days in 64 countries, the holding simultaneously of six intercontinental Conferences in 1967, and the accreditation of the Baha'i International Community as a non-governmental organization with consultative status to the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations.

Strides in the spread and recognition of the Faith are viewed as steps toward the establishment of a world commonwealth that will in time insure world peace through the recognition of the spiritual oneness of mankind.

Soul City Founder To Speak At First Baptist, Oxford

It was announced this week that Floyd B. McKissick, founder of Soul City is to be the speaker this Sunday, May 27, at Men's Day festivities at the First Baptist Church in Oxford.

Mr. McKissick, former Director of CORE and longtime advocate of justice and equality for the poor and the under-privileged, proclaims that Soul City's purpose is to provide neither a commune for the poor nor a scene for devotees of black power. It is rather to create a viable community for black and white alike who have been victimized by the failing agricultural economy of the surrounding area, an attempt to provide them with an

Third Sewing Revue Set for McDougald Terrace

On Sunday afternoon, May 27th, at 4:00 p.m., the "Teenage Busy Fingers Sewing Class" of McDougald Terrace will present its third sewing revue.

The sewing class was organized by Mrs. Ednorah Jones, who is retired and resides in McDougald Terrace. The program was initiated by Mrs. Jones when she discovered that there were quite a few teenage girls in the neighborhood who were interested in sewing, but had no one to instruct them. After presenting this expressed interest to the President of the McDougald Terrace Great Society Neighborhood Council, Mrs. Patricia Rogers, efforts were made to obtain sewing machines from the Durham Housing Authority. Individual donors provided sewing fabrics, as well as inspiration to Mrs. Jones for her work with these teenage girls.

The public is invited to attend the sewing revue at no charge. And, to Mrs. Jones, "Congratulations" on a job well done.
