These statements and many more like them are ones often heard from and about many of our friends and neighbors who for some reason or another didn't obtain the education they desire.

Realizing this problem, Durham Technical Institute set about finding ways to help any adult who wished to continue his education by providing them the opportunity to do so. One answer to this problem has resulted in the General Adult Education and High School Diploma Programs.

By these two programs adults who are 18 years of age or older have a second chance to learn or sharpen their skills in reading, writing, or mathematics, and they may pursue course work which will enable them to obtain a high school diploma or the equivalent.

All classes in these two programs are offered free of charge and there is no charge for textbooks and materials used. These classes and programs are supported through state and local taxes.

All classes are composed of individuals who are eighteen years of age or older. Each ndividual starts at his present level of competence and may pursue his selected program until he reaches the performance level he or she

Nixon Administration Moves to Cancel Secret Intelligence Group

WASHINGTON - (NBNS) The Nixon Administration has moved to formally disband the secret Intelligence Evaluation Committee, a interagency group set up by the President in 1970 to coordinate" domestic intelligence operations.

Two weeks ago, the President acknowledged the existence of the IEC, but did not tell the exact activities conducted by the group, which was created when FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover ended the bureau's relations with all federal agencies, except the White House.

Hoover had also balked at a proposed White House plan for wide-spread domestic espionage, so the group consisting of representatives from the White House, CIA, FBI, National Security Agency, the Secret Service, and the departments of Defense, Justice and Treasury were created.

Justice officials said that Henry Peterson, head of the department's Criminal Division, had issued an order that would abolish the committee, since there was little sentiment in the federal government for keeping it.

Peterson, who learned of the existence of the committee only days before the President's disclosure, said he polled each member agency on whether they believed its continued operation would assist the government after finding the committee's operations and functions to be of little practical value. Reportedly the agencies indicated they didn't care one way or the other about the committee. So Peterson, with approval from his superiors, decided to abolish it.

A Justice spokesman, John W. Hushen, said the IEC had "never been an operational unit" in the sense of engaging in intelligence functions on its own. According to Hushen, the committee merely served as a clearninghouse for date gathered by member agencies.

IEC staff members will be shifted to other assignments within Justice as soon as Peterson's order takes effect.

Lives are Saved Daily, Thanks To Seat Belts

Every minute of the day lives are saved thanks to seat belts. Yet every minute of the day lives also are lost because many people still refuse to use them. Why? Because of myths, according to the U. S. Department of Transportation.

If you feel safe without a seat belt, then you should find out why you need to change your mind. In their booklet SAFETY BELT MYTHS, the Transportation Department explodes these misconceptions and tells you why you should get into the habit of fastening your belt. For example, here are two common reasons for not using seat belts: MYTH: "I don't need a safety belt when I'm traveling at a low speed or going on a short trip".

PACT: WRONG. More than half of all accidents occur at speeds less than forty miles an hour, and within twenty-five miles of home. MYTH: "I might be saved if I'm thrown clear of the car".

USS Miller Commissioning Scheduled for Jun. 30

WASHINGTON - The third U. S. Navy ship to be named in honor of a black Navyman will be commissioned in ceremonies at Norfolk, Virginia, at 2 p.m.

on June 30. The ship, USS MILLER (DE-1091) a KNOX-class destroyer escort, is named in honor of mess attendant Doris "Dorie" Miller, who received the Navy Cross for his gallant performance of duty in the battleship USS WEST VIRGINIA during the attack of Pearl Harbor, December 7, 1941. Miller helped move his mortally wounded commanding officer to a place of greater safety. He then manned a machine gun and shot down several of the attacking enemy aircraft. He died later during the war when the USS LISCOMBE BAY was sunk in the South Pacific on November 24, 1943.

The MILLER was launched at the Avondale Shipyard in Westwego, La., on June 3, 1972. Mrs. Henrietta Miller, mother of the Navy Cross winner, sponsored the ship and christened her when she slid into the water for the first time.

Doris Miller was born October 12, 1919 in Waco, Texas. He was a fullback on Waco's Moore High School football team and left his father's farm to enlist in the U. S. Navy on September 16, 1939.

In addition to the Navy Cross, Miller was awarded the Purple Heart, the American Defense Service Medal (Fleet Clasp), the Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal, and the World War II Victory Medal.

(The other two ships named in honor of Black U. S. Navymen are the USS LEONARD R. HARMON (DE-678) (and now decommissioned) and the USS JESSE L. BROWN (DE-1089), which was launched April 18, 1972, and commissioned on February 17.

House Approves Overwhelming Passage of Three Health Bills

WASHINGTON - (NBNS) The House has approved, following overwhelming passage by the Senate, three major health bills which the Nixon Administration has lobbied against. One of the bills calls for an extension for a year of a dozen separate health programs, which the White House wanted to end. The House passed it 372-1 and the Senate okayed the measure 72-19. Both margins are more than enough to override any Presidential veto, if they hold. Under the measure, the Hill-Burton program for federal hospital construction would be kept alive along with a program (Continued on page 7B)
