World On Wheels CAR SAFETY

The Men Who Know Tires Best

To stop, the drivers of early cars needed both hands to pull on a central brake shaft. And for steep hills, a long pointed stick helped slow the car.

A clanging bell preceded today's horn. An early law required the bell to be rung from 50 feet before till 50 feet after crossing an intersection.

Safety is a prime factor in today's car... From seat belts to tires. Experts... like the men who know tires best... Riggsbee Tire Sales will insure your tire safety by checking tires and advising you on Fine Quality Hercules tires and quality retreads.
