CUT WASTE

The sharply higher cost of livestock feed has placed a premium on reducing feed wastage on North Carolina farms. Specialists point out that a farmer who keeps 1,000 head of hogs on feed uses around 600 tons of feed a year. At the current high cost of protein, he could waste $3,000 a year by feeding only 1 percent too much protein.

MILE HIGH WEDDING — Kathy Mitchell and Clarence Martin (center), both of Marion, became man and wife recently when they took their marriage vows atop nearby Grandfather Mountain. Officiating at the 6,000-foot wedding ceremony atop the highest mountain in the Blue Ridge Range was the Rev. George W. Slade (at right), pastor of Addie's Chapel United Methodist Church of Marion. Martin, a free lance photographer, said he and his new bride decided to be married on Grandfather Mountain "because this is our part of the country...it's a beautiful place." About 30 friends of the newlyweds were present for the ceremony held on a plateau at one end of Convention Table Rock north of the travel attraction's Mile-High Swinging Bridge. The Martins became the first black couple to be married on Grandfather Mountain.

the Southern Region. Tau Gamma Delta Sorority, Inc. is a service organization for Business and Professional Women. It is dedicated to educating our youth, contributing to charity, and serving our community.

Bull City Elks to Sponsor Annual Oratory Contest

Bull City Elks Lodge No. 317 and the Salome Temple 704 will host the Regional Oratorical Contest on Sunday, July 15 at 3:00 p.m. at the Bull City Elks Lodge Auditorium located at 2311 South Alston Ave.

Contestants will come from both Carolinas, North and South, Georgia and Florida.

The Improved, Benevolent, and Protective Order of Elks of the World, in inaugurating these oratorical contests, national in scope, and hopeful that, in this way, a force will be put into motion that will result in directing the minds of All America to the injustices of racial discrimination, and will aid in the correction of this great evil.

For the past forty-one years, more than 2 1/2 million dollars have been given to the more than 1,000 scholarships for young Americans who are deserving of continuing their leadership skills for services within the many American communities. Speaking in terms of John Carlyle the philosopher is that "No age needs to go down to destruction if a man can be found who understands the times."

The Elks Oratoricals are open to all races. Many black and several white students have been recipients of the scholarships given through contest efforts.

The philosophy of the role of such contests may lie in the thought that the future of the Negro lies in his own hand, gauged by the number of exceptional young men and women we can produce and integrate into our American Society.

It is hoped that the well deserved support of every thinking and responsible American citizen will aid in the success of such oratorical contests to provide the needed assistance to the many young persons who may need our help.

TO STUDY IN AFRICA — Mrs. Patricia Hinton Jones, a graduate student in social studies education at S. C. State College, has received a Fulbright-Hays Fellowship to participate in the Institute of International Education's African Seminar July 3-August 12.

The seminar is being held at the University of Ghana Institute of African Studies.

A native of Raleigh, Mrs. Jones is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Jones of Raleigh. She holds a bachelor's degree in education from North Carolina A & T State University.

BIG MONEY

The value of North Carolina's flue-cured tobacco crop last year was $566 million, a $14 million increase over the previous year due primarily to a sharp rise in market price. This year, Tar Heel growers are producing 10 to 13 percent more tobacco than they did in '72.
