Young Mechanics Find And Fix 'The Trouble'

Crack student mechanics from high schools community colleges and vocational training centers in every one of the 50 states competed for $90,000 worth of scholarships, prizes and awards in the 25th Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest

In a test of skill and wits, 113 two-man teams of student auto mechanics from every state of the Union competed for $90,000 worth of scholarships, prizes and awards in the 25th Plymouth Trouble

It was a rare sight on Boston's historic Common - rows of shiny new cars and teams of boys listening for the starter's gun so they could race to their cars, flip up the hood, and find and fix "the trouble."

"The trouble" was a number of "bugs," or as Plymouth engineers who implanted them would say, "malfunctions," that prevented the six-cylinder compact Dusters from starting and running properly.

Two 18-year-old Mt. Holly, N. J., high school seniors, Steven J.

Moorer and Steven M. Dietrick, were crowned national champions in the high school division with a time of 52 minutes and 17 seconds. A team from Carbondale, Ill., David L. McClain, 20, and Richard J. Pershell, 22, were first-place winners in the post-high division. Each of the four champions was awarded a $2,500 college scholarship and a trip to Washington.

A total of $37,000 in scholarships was awarded the ten top teams in the high school category and the five top teams in the post-high The winners were determined by the speed with which they restored their cars to operating condition and their scores in a written exam on the subject of automotive maintenance and repair.

Additional awards, $3,000 scholarships, were made by the MoTech Automotive Education Center of Chrysler Institute to teammates Thomas J. McCormick, 18, and David T. Murphy, 18, of Ann Arbor, Mich., who were rated best in the find-it-and-fix it phase of the contest. They had the second highest over-all contest score in the high school category.

The finalists were guests of the Chrysler-Plymouth Division and Chrysler-Plymouth dealers of America, who sponsored the contest with the cooperation of more than 2,000 high schools, junior colleges and vocational training centers with a combined enrollment of 160,000.

Trouble Shooting is the automobile industry's oldest public service program. It was originated by school officials and Plymouth dealers in Los Angeles in 1949, to encourage young men to pursue careers in automotive service and to recruit qualified mechanics. Since the contest became a national event in 1962, 240 students have been offered scholarships.
