1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return for the year ending January 1-December 31, 1973, or other taxable year. U.S. Treasury Department—Internal Revenue Service. Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. Some of my furniture and belongings were damaged when my cellar was flooded. How do I compute my casualty loss deduction?

A. The first $100 of your uninsured non-business loss is not deductible. A separate $100 limitation applies to each individual casualty.

It is important that you make a list of the lost, damaged, or destroyed items as soon after the casualty as possible. For personal property, such as furniture, clothing, etc., the loss must be established item by item. To determine the amount of loss, you must know the original cost or other basis of the item to you and its fair market value just before the casualty. If you bought the item, your basis is usually your cost.

If the item is completely lost or destroyed, your loss is usually your basis or the fair market value just before the loss, whichever is less.

If the item is damaged, the loss is the difference between its fair market value just before the casualty and the fair market value just afterwards, limited to the basis. The decrease in the fair market value may often be measured by the cost of repairing the item.

For details on how to compute your loss for nonbusiness real property and a convenient workbook for determining your loss, see IRS Publication 584, "Workbook for Determining Your Disaster Loss." Contact your IRS office for a free copy.

award was based on my overall past service to the college. Is the award tax free?

A. Although generally prizes and awards are taxable, those prizes awarded in recognition of past accomplishments in religious, charitable, scientific, artistic, educational, literary, or civic fields are not included in income if the recipient is selected without action on his part and is not expected to render any future services.

Q. Under what circumstances can travel to a foreign country be deducted as an employment-related educational expense?

A. Your expenditures for travel as a form of education are generally deductible to the extent the major portion of your travel activity during the period of travel directly maintains or improves skills required in your employment, trade, or business.

Here is an example of how the rules would operate: You are a teacher of French. While on sabbatical leave, granted for travel, you traveled in France to improve your knowledge of the French language. Your itinerary was chosen, and the major portion of your activities was undertaken, to im-

BARTLETT PEAR

The delicious pear known as the Bartlett was first found as a wild tree in Berkshire, England back in 1770 by an English schoolmaster. This year, here in this country, Bartlett pears are in plentiful supply in local markets. There should be plenty of pears around through early October, says Mrs. Ruby Uzzle, extension consumer marketing economist, North Carolina State University.

DMSO—Old Drug, New Arthritis Hope

Arthritis, rheumatism, bursitis and other musculoskeletal problems are being attacked with a new chemotherapy in Europe and Mexico employing dimethyl sulfoxide (DMSO). It is not injected or taken orally but simply applied to the surface of the skin over the afflicted area. It offers long lasting pain relief and increased mobility.

In the U.S., the drug, first synthesized in 1866, is now being evaluated by the National Academy of Sciences. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has released DMSO as a prescription drug for musculoskeletal injuries and inflammations in horses. It's a prescription drug for humans in nearly a dozen countries in Europe and Latin America.

Just how the chemical works on musculoskeletal ailments is not yet known, but according to Dr. J. T. Leonel Topia, medical director of the Tecate, Mexico clinic located 31 miles south of San Diego, it has high penetrating power, being carried quickly through the skin to inflamed joints, where it is believed to soften calcium and cartilage. It is derived from natural sources and is non-toxic and is an extremely effective muscle relaxant and pain killer. Stiff fingers are again mobile. Joints move freely without pain.

The various forms of arthritis respond differently to the treatment, some more rapidly than others. After the first series of treatments have been administered, relief continues for up to six months or more. Subsequent treatments give progressively longer periods of relief.

Dr. Topia reports that the Tecate clinic, operated by Arthritis Clinics International, has successfully applied the DMSO treatment to more than 2500 patients with no harmful side effects noted. However, he does point out that DMSO is not a cure for arthritis, as symptoms will return in time.

In spite of safe, world-wide usage, the drug has not yet been accepted for use on the 20,300,000 arthritis victims in the United States (The Arthritis Foundation estimate). The Food and Drug Administration has turned the drug over to the National Academy of Sciences for evaluation.

If the new chemotherapy based on dimethyl sulfoxide fulfills its promise, senior citizens, professional athletes and those in middle life who are prone to overdoing heavy work or exercise will have cause for rejoicing. Dr. Arthur Scherbel, Cleveland Clinic's well-known rheumatologist stated in an article in Science Digest: "We received DMSO early and studied many conditions with it. It does things we've never seen with other drugs."

A fact sheet on arthritis treatment with DMSO is available from Arthritis Tecate, 340 Avenue Hidalgo West, Tecate, Baja California, Mexico.

ROMANIA... New Star Of The Grand Tour

The Village Museum in the heart of Bucharest

There's a new star on the tourist-hoppers horizon these days. It's Romania—a land as old as Palaeolithic Age habitation and as new as the modern hotels designed for today's most sophisticated travelers.

Apart from the sheer romance of "discovering" a country before it becomes an American "home away from home" Romania is a veritable study in contrasts—offering a variety of attractions to its visitors. Highlights range from relaxation in mountain and seaside resorts, sports—including excellent skiing facilities—and entertainment, treatment and therapeutic cures in beautiful spas to study tours, riding, motoring, cultural and folklore itineraries and holidays for youth and retired people.

Contrast is everywhere. Geographically it runs the gamut from the Carpathian Mountains with its picturesque valleys, wild gorges, chalk caves and frightening grottoes to luxuriant forests full of game, stormy rivers teeming with fish and the Black Sea's sun-drenched coast dotted with fine sandy beaches.

Romania's contrasts continue into her towns. Many are full of authentic specimens of folk costumes, embroideries, wood carvings, ceramics and architecture. Bucharest, its capital, on the other hand, is a bustling metropolis. Among its attractions are 40 museums and art galleries, trade fairs, exhibitions, musical and folklore festivals—and perhaps most important—a kind, open-minded people who reflect their warm Latin origins in the wholehearted hospitality they extend their guests.

Romania, assuredly offers something for every tourist, including ease of entry. All that's required is a valid passport and visa, which is available free of charge on entering the country. Access can be made via air, rail, along modern highways or by boat.

Any way tourists travel, this newest addition to the Grand Tour is just that—grand!
