MAJOR GENERAL DAVISON

Davison To Command Military District Of Washington, D. C.

Major General Frederic E. Davison, the U.S. Army's highest ranking black general officer assumed the command of the U. S. Army Military District to command an Army Division and the first black officer to command the Military District of Washington

General Davison, 56, was born in Washington, D.C. and is a graduate of Washington's Dunbar High School and Howard University, where he earned his B. S. degree with honors. He completed military ROTC and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Infantry Reserve. Thereafter he entered graduate school at Howard and earned his Master of Science Degree in 1940.

He was ordered to active duty on March 3, 1941 with the newly 366th Infantry Regiment at Fort Devens, Mass. He was promoted to first lieutenant and then captain while serving successively as a machine gun platoon leader, executive officer and company commander. In 1944, as a captain, he moved the regiment to Italy. After the arrival of his unit in Italy, General Davison served as company commander, regimental munitions officer and as operations officer of the 1st Battalion of the 366th Infantry Regiment. After deactivation of the 366th, General Davison was reassigned to the 371st Infantry Regiment in which he commanded a rifle company for the remainder of the war.

General Davison completed one year of medical school at Howard University College of Medicine. After the first year, he was offered an appointment in the Regular Army, which he accepted. He served as Training Company Commander at Fort Dix, New Jersey.

General Davison served as PMS & T at ROTC unit at South Carolina State College, Orangeburg from 1947 until 1950, then moved to Fort Benning, Georgia to attend the Advanced Infantry Courses.

As a Major, General Davison was assigned to the 370th Armored Infantry Battalion in Munich, Germany. He returned to the U.S. to attend the Command and General Staff College regular course. He then was assigned to the Infantry Branch, Career Management Division, DA, where he served until 1959.

In 1959, he served at Headquarters, 8th U.S. Army, Korea, where he headed the Personnel Services Division in the GI Section. General Davison is also a graduate of the Army War College and served under the Secretary of the Army where he was Chief of Reserve Components Division and also served as interim Executive Officer to the Deputy Under Secretary for Manpower and Reserve Forces.

General Davison volunteered for duty in Vietnam and after some injuries received in an engagement in SB of Saigon, he was evacuated to the U. S., where he then colonel was promoted to brigadier general. He received the appointment of Major General after services as Director of Enlisted Personnel, Office of Personnel Operations, DA. He served also as Deputy Chief of Staff, Personnel at Headquarters, USA, Europe and Seventh Army during 1971. In May, 1972 General Davison was assigned as the 8th Infantry Division Commanding General. General Davison has been the recipient of numerous decorations while engaged in various military encounters.

General Davison is married and he and his wife, Mrs. Jean Brown Davison are the parents of four daughters.

Mrs. Pearl Edwards Wilson of Miami, Florida, and Mrs. Brenda Edwards Moore—petite Brends with the laughing brown eyes—brought home her six children—the Moores are residents of Ashely, N.J.

The Thanksgiving Day celebration began with a family sit-down dinner at the home of Mr. & Mrs. Albert Ranson. A typical turkey-bird with all the trimmings: Baked ham a' Fon-due, chopped collard greens, macaroni casserole, lima beans a' creme corn, carnberry sauce, assorted pickles, Red satin Punch, English style Pumpkin Pie.

Thursday night was party time for the tiny-tykes. A "Cousins' Party" was staged in the spacious Family Room of Mr. & Mrs. John Edwards of South Plum Street. John/Eloise made this a special occasion for the "little people": games, dancing—music for listening while they devoured peanut butter/jelly sandwiches, chuchy potato chips, kool Aid and lollipops. The decorations for this Thanksgiving-hop was a Christmas color scheme of red, green and white.

Cousins present were: the Moores, the N.J. Clan, the Edwards and Witherspoons.

On Friday, the families went on a Shopping Spree in Downtown Durham; the recently completed Mall was the main attraction, however, the happy shoppers explored other sections of the city. Dinner at Sears climaxed this phase of the Thanksgiving splurge.

Breakfast, Southern Style, was the prelude to Saturday's activities. Mrs. Beatrice Holeman was hostess to the out-of-town guest: Menu—Fried chicken, hot butter milk biscuits, buttered grits, fried apples, crisp, golden-brown bacon-coffee, fresh Florida orange juice.

11 o'clock worship service at the home church climaxed the action of the long holiday. Here, the visitors were welcomed by Dr. Grady D. Davis and a host of friends.

While parents were packing for their departure, the children went to town to watch Durham's Christmas Parade.

Mr. & Mrs. W.P. Edwards of Hazel Street served Sunday dinner to the out-of-towners, home folk and uncle Walter Harris of Fuquay Springs, N.C. A holiday special: Southern Style Prime Roast Beef, squash casserole, Mexican candied yams, fresh cut string beans, carrot/raisin salad, hot rolls—dessert: Chocolate Pound Cake/Fruit Punch.

FRESH AIR

In most homes, you'll get enough fresh air through air leakage in cold weather without opening windows and doors. The only need to open windows in winter is to reduce smoke and odors.

GREENSBORO, N.C.— Among the nine scenes depicted in Bennett College's Christmas presentation of "The Living Madonnas" was Massaccio's "Madonna and Child." Portraying the Madonna was Bennett graduate Alfreda Williamson. Angels were Kay E. Miller, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Isaac H. Miller, Jr.; Norma Jefferies, a freshman from Athens, Ga.; Dawnne Sneed, the daughter of Mrs. Gwendolyn Sneed; and Anita Caldwell, a junior from Charlotte, N.C.

Northgate Store open Friday nights til 10 P.M.
