NAACP Opposes Efforts To Limit Court Redress

Legislation Would Cut Number Of Jurors to Six in Some Cases

WASHINGTON—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People strongly opposed proposed Congressional legislation that would cut the number of jurors required for certain cases to six and eliminate three-judge Federal courts in other actions.

Speaking against the bills before a House Judiciary Subcommittee on January 23, NAACP General Counsel Nathaniel R. Jones stated that the two proposed changes in the judicial process would be most harmful to black people.

The proposed changes in the Federal Judiciary system, Mr. Jones said, "would be a tragedy." This Senate bill, entitled S. 271, would eliminate three-judge Federal courts in civil rights and other cases.

This change was proposed by Chief Justice Warren Burger last August as a means of lessening the number of cases reaching the Supreme Court. But civil rights cases, which command much of the time of Federal district courts, concern vital human rights issues that should not be left to the consideration of a single judge, as Mr. Burger proposed, Mr. Jones said.

Mr. Jones declared that, "Forcing all civil rights cases before single judges, and then up to courts of appeals may so frustrate Negro litigants that they might well consider abandoning the judicial process as a means of obtaining redress of wrongs."

Clarence Mitchell, NAACP Washington Bureau director, told the Subcommittee on Courts, Civil Liberties and the Administration of Justice that his organization is opposed to seemingly

MRS. SPAULDING

County Commission Seat Is Sought By Mrs. Spaulding

A seat on the County Commissioners Board of Durham County is being sought by Mrs. Elna B. Spaulding, who announced her intention to run for the position in the May 7, 1974 primary, January 25.

The founder Chairman of the Board, and immediate past president of the Women-In-Action for the Prevention of Violence and Its Causes, says that "her experiences over the past five years in such role, has made me deeply aware of the many problems of our community having a very adverse effect upon various aspects of the life of all segments of our population and their aspirations, and the consequences of their un-resolved frustrations."

The close-up contacts and involvements in efforts to bring about positive attitudinal changes in the community which would improve intolerable conditions and create a more wholesome environment and better climate of respect for the dignity of all citizens has had a very motivating effect on Mrs. Spaulding's desire to render greater service to all Durham's citizenry.

Mrs. Spaulding also believes that the women of the community should have a voice in the decision making processes of all (See SPAULDING Page 6A)

Downtown Revitalization Loan Fund Established By Eight Durham Banks

The cooperative efforts of eight Durham Banks has set up the opportunity for those downtown merchants and landowners interested in improving their building appearance by the use of a loan pool for $100,000, or $12,500 coming from each bank.

The eight banks include Central Carolina Bank, Wachovia Bank, North Carolina National Bank, First Union National Bank, Liberty Bank, Mechanics and Farmers Bank, The Northwestern Bank and the Guaranty State Bank.

Each bank contributed to the Fund which is controlled by the Loan Fund Committee. This Committee is composed of four banks whose members rotate every three months to allow each bank to serve on the committee. An Agent Bank is selected to serve for one year and its function is to review and process loan applications and recommend loans to the Committee. Three out of four Committee members must vote Approval before a loan will be accepted. The program is significant

In two ways because first, it represents the interest and initiative of the downtown banks toward revitalization and second, their willingness to make interest rates attractive so that one may (See DOWNTOWN Page 6A)

Construction Of $2.4 Million Addition to Shepard Library Set

Construction of a $2.4 million addition to North Carolina Central University's James E. Shepard Memorial Library will begin within the next few weeks, according to George T. Thorne, vice chancellor for financial affairs at the university.

The library addition, designed by Carr, Harrison, Pruden and DePasquale Associated Architects, will provide approximately 50,000 more square feet of space. It will connect with the existing building, a campus landmark since its construction in 1950, at the front of the building.

The general contractor for the project is C.T. Wilson Construction Co. In a memorandum to students, faculty, and staff, Thorne reported this week that construction of the building will require the closing of walkways in front of the building. The addition will occupy much of a grass-covered amphitheater-shaped lawn in front of the porticoed library. This area, until now the largest open area in the central campus, was once used for commencements and other campus functions. (See LIBRARY Page 6A)

Marketing Education Conference For Minority Businessmen Set

A three-day marketing education conference for minority businessmen and women in Durham and surrounding areas will be held on February 5, 6, and 7 in the Durham Hotel Washington Duke Ballroom on Corcoran Street. The meetings will be held each evening beginning with dinner promptly at 5:30 p.m. The sessions will end each evening at 10:00 p.m. The conference is being conducted by the Durham Business and Professional Chain, Inc. in alliance with B&C Associates, Inc. of High Point and the North Carolina State Board of Education.

There is no charge for dinner and no other fees are required for attending the conference. All interested persons are invited to attend any one or all of the sessions.

Consultants from educational institutions, major businesses and government agencies in the area will be present to give information on marketing, public relations and other areas of business management. (See MARKETING Page 6A)

Black Christian Seminar Series Sponsored By UCC Ministry

On February 5th, the United Campus Christian Ministry serving North Carolina Central University will sponsor a series of seminars on "Christian Education and the Church in Social Change."

Another part of this semester's special program that will be held on NCCU campus is seminars for persons interested in pursuing seminary education. The program has several objectives: (1) to introduce the most contemporary Christian educational materials relating and relevant to Black Youth, (2) to introduce ideas for Church programs for young people, (3) to suggest ways in which the church, especially the young adult church, can be involved in social change, (4) to assist persons interested in seminary training by exposing them to the many possibilities in this area. Included in this series of seminars will be some very exciting speakers who will be able to relate to the issues facing the Black Church. During Black History Week Dr. Charles Boddie, President of the American Baptist Theological Seminary and author of God's Bad Boys will be on campus lecturing to several classes and preaching at a special service. His presence here will also be in conjunction with the Black History Week Program sponsored by the Cauley Jones History Club. Later on during the semester the Reverend John Bryant, pastor of St. Paul's A.M.E. Church, Cambridge, Mass. will be here to speak about Christian involvement in the world today and the program possibilities of the contemporary Black Church. Rev. Bryant will be preaching at a special service (See SEMINAR Page 6A)

Cousin Goes To West Indies On Study Tour

Rev. Phillip R. Cousin, pastor of Saint Joseph's A.M.E. Church, will participate in a religious study tour of the West Indies. He and other Fellows of the Martin Luther King, Jr. Program of Black Church Studies at the Colgate-Rochester Divinity School will journey through Jamaica and Haiti January 23-31. The tour will be Cousin's second religious study tour as a Martin Luther King Fellow; he spent the summer of 1972 studying black religion in West Africa.

The Fellows, with their faculty consultants, will investigate the origins of West African religion as transplanted in the Caribbean, as well as observe the impact of Christianity on West Indian culture. While in Haiti, they will study voodoo religion, recognizing it as a legitimate form of religion, they hope to clarify some misconceptions about voodoo.

Cousin, a candidate for the Doctor of Ministry in Black Church Studies at Colgate-Rochester, is currently a lecturer at Duke University Divinity School in Church and Society and Black Church Studies. Involved in many civic and political activities, he is on the Durham County Board of Education and Chairman of the Political Subcommittee of the
