

Minority Business Participation Guaranteed In Public Works

The $4 billion Local Public Works Bill (LPW) recently passed is now available to qualified local communities. At least ten per cent participation in this program is assured through contracts and subcontracts to minority vendors and contractors by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

The LPW program will be discussed at a public meeting sponsored by the Economic Development Administration (EDA), the Office of Minority Business Enterprise (OMBE), the Durham Business and Professional Chain, Inc., and the North Carolina State Office of Minority Business Enterprise. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Boyer Building Auditorium on St. Augustine's College campus on Thursday, August 11.

Construction and professional firms, and other service related businesses will have the opportunity to have their questions answered regarding work availability and qualification requirements by representatives from EDA and OMBE.

Additional information is available by calling the North Carolina Office of Minority Business Enterprise at 919/733-2712.

MURDER

[Continued From Page 1] from a car occupied by five white men struck him and several other murders. Although there were massive organizing efforts in the black communities throughout the state to convict the alleged murderers, no charges were brought.

Johnson, once chairperson of the Youth Organizers for Black Unity (YOB), was a leader at the Greensboro student protest where Willie Grimes was killed when National Guardsmen fired into a crowd of students.

"What props him (Joe Judge) up?" Johnson asked the crowd. "The sheriff props him up... the courts props him up... capitalism and imperialism prop him up." He continued, saying U. S. institutions including the courts are controlled by, "The people who own the land and factories," and that, "working class people have a right to control the land and factories." Recounting the experiences of blacks during slavery, Reconstruction and 'Jim Crow', Johnson said, "Now is the time for our people to rise up and struggle for self-determination."

Waverlean Mangum, spokesperson for the Durham County African Liberation Support Committee, expressed support for the boycott and the peoples court. Calling for better housing, food, jobs and work benefits (which probably will be issues at capitalism's trial), Ms. Mangum said it is time for justice to be done. "The way this system holds up and let Joe Judge get away with killing Charlie Lee is the same way the system will hold up and let him get away with killing one of our family," she continued.

During the rally, three young women from Whitakers performed a skit. Dianne, Shirley and Shirell Webb dramatized the fears and hope of the community.

Charlie Lee's widow, Mrs. Leola Lee, also spoke briefly to the gathering. Recognizing that her interest in the case is personal, she said, "I have a personal desire to see justice done because what happened to me and my three children could have happened to anyone."

Gary Smith, acting chairperson of the People's Coalition for Justice said the boycott would begin immediately.
