

Founder's Day Speakers Announced at SCSU

ORANGEBURG S.C. — Milton Kimpson, a native of the St. Matthews, S.C. area and Executive Assistant for Health, Education and Human Services in the office of the governor, will be guest speaker at the 83rd Founder's Day celebration at South Carolina College in the Martin Luther King Jr. Auditorium Sunday, March 4 at 4 p.m.

Kimpson is active in the Columbia education and community circles. He has served as an elementary school principal before moving up to supervisor of elementary education in the S.C. Department of education.

He later became the Executive Director of the Greater Columbia Community Relations Council, an affiliate of the Greater Columbia Chamber of Commerce. He points out that the Columbia community has gone from an era of reaction to an era of action.

He has implemented affirmative programs in employment, housing, careers development, education and crime prevention. With his assistance, the council has been effective in bringing about improved understanding and acceptance, appreciation and cooperation, particularly among groups of different race origins.

Kimpson was the first and only black to serve as the president of the South Carolina Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development. He served 10 years as a member of the board of directors of South Carolina Congress Parents and Teachers. He was appointed by Gov. John West and reappointed by Gov. James B. Edwards to serve on the South Carolina Advisory Council for Vocational and Technical Education. In 1975 he was invited by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller to be a participant in the Forum on Domestic Policies in Tampa, Fla.

He was awarded the outstanding community relations award from the National Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc. and has received other awards for his service to the community and to education.

The Calhoun County received his bachelor of science degree in mathematics from Benedict College in Columbia and a masters of science degree from the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisc. He has also studied at the University of Miami, in Carol Gables, Fla., Syracuse University in Syracuse, N.Y., and the University of Georgia in Athens, Ga. where he was certified in organizational management.

He and his wife, Wilhelmina, have three sons, Milton Jr., Marc and Marion. They are active members of the St. John Baptist Church.

HONORED—The Durham County Missionary Union honored Mrs. Wilma Milum last Sunday at Union Baptist Church for thirty years of outstanding work in the community. Mrs. Rosetta Webb chaired the program.

March 17 Date Set For South-wide Freedom March

ATLANTA — March 17 is the date set for a south-wide March for Freedom and Human Rights to be held in Atlanta.

A coalition of community, labor, and civil rights groups from throughout the South was formed to coordinate the march, which was initiated by the Southern Conference Educational Fund (SCEF).

The march will target "the Carter administration's hypocritical stand on human rights" by pointing to the way human rights and freedom have been denied people in the South.

Initial endorsers of the march include national

Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), Welfare Rights Organization (Atlanta), the Communist Party (ML), the African People's Party, Institute of the Black World, Georgia Clearinghouse for Jails and Prisons, United Youth-Adult Conference, and the Communist Youth Organization. Support has been expressed by a broad range of groups including the United League of Northern Mississippi, Southern region of the National Lawyers Guild, People's Committee for a Liberated Africa, Atlanta NAACP, and several tenants associations and union locals.

The Coalition has formulated five key slogans for the march including: 1) Jobs, Land, and Freedom; 2) Free all political prisoners. End oppressive prison and Stop the death Penalty; 3) Death to the Klan, Stop police repression and murder, and Stop deportations; 4) End all attacks on Black and minority education; and 5) For the right to organize. Oppose Carter's wage freeze.

Additional demands, such as Free Gary Tyler and Full equality for women, will also be raised.

For more information on the march please call SCEF at (404) 752-6900 or write to SCEF, PO Box 10797, Station A, Atlanta, GA 30310.

Shaw University Receives $45,000 Grant

RALEIGH — Dr. Stanley H. Smith, president of Shaw University, has announced the receipt of a $45,000 grant from Ashland Oil company of Kentucky. The $45,000 will be given over a three-year period.

J.D. Hughes, Executive Vice President-In Charge of International Affairs, made the presentation of $15,000, this year's allocation, to Dr. Smith at a luncheon in Ashland's honor. In making the presentation, Hughes said, "Ashland is delighted to be able to continue this relationship with Shaw, recognizing its importance to the Raleigh community."

The grant was made possible through Ashland's "Education and Community Support Program", a program through which contributions are made to worthy institutions.

Charles Whitehead, Director of Equal Opportunities Affairs, and Arthur Holland, Minority Relations Specialist, for Ashland Oil were also present.

In commenting on the grant, Whitehead stated, "We at Ashland hope the Association will be a mutual benefit to both... Shaw, by assisting Ashland in its affirmative action, and Ashland, by assisting Shaw in some of its goals as an educational institution." Holland, who regularly visits the college and university campuses, added, "Ashland Oil looks forward to recruiting and placement with the students at Shaw University."

Dr. Smith, is accepting the check, and the commitment from Ashland, commented, "We are tremendously pleased with the gift, and the assurance of at least the same level of finding for the next three years. We are deeply appreciative of the fact that these three very important persons from the company saw fit to visit us herer in Raleigh, the confidence they have expressed in our programmatic thrust, and the assurance they've given us for their continued cooperation."

FAYETTEVILLE HAPPENINGS

BY MRS. T.H. KINNEY

A community involvement in brotherhood through caring was conducted in a Human Relations Interfaith Celebration Sunday afternoon at Fayetteville State University in J.S. Seabrook Auditorium. It was sponsored by the Union Baptist Association, New South River Baptist Association, Cumberland County Human Relations Advisory Commission and the Cumberland County Human Relations Department.

During the celebration various songs were enjoyed by all. Messages were delivered by several ministers. Celebrating in affirmation, celebrating in giving were all impressive. Those who came to participate enjoyed meeting and greeting each other, filling out an information card, viewing the many fine posters that were winners in the Brotherhood celebration, the audience gathered in the center of the auditorium to form a circle singing "Sweet, Sweet Spirit". Following the celebration, fellowship and refreshments were enjoyed by all who attended.
